Men's Business Suits.

Exceptionally good ranges of Men's Suits at $10.00 and $12.00 go on sale to-day at both stores. These suits are made from carefully selected tweeds in fall weights and patterns, made by our most experienced tailors, and have the appearance and wearing qualities of $18.00 and $20.00 made-to-order suits. All sizes, 34 to 44, in single or double-breasted sacque styles, $10.00 and 12.00

Boys' Three-Piece School Suits.

Boys' Suits require to be made from extra strong cloths, and our command of the best mills gives us an unexcelled opportunity to get the best in quality at least cost. The result is seen in our Boys' Department in the finest assortment of suits ever gathered in the city for boys aged 10 to 17. There are patterns quiet and gay—light, medium and dark—mostly medium and dark, with a sprinkling of light patterns for those who always prefer light colors, made up as strongly as the best tweed, silk cloth and trimmings put together by expert tailors can make them. Single and double-breasted styles in sizes 27 to 33, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50 and$5.00

The New Unitarian Pastor.

Rev. Mr. Tyrer the new pastor of the Unitarian Church, preacaed his inaugurai sermon this evening. He took for his theme, "The distinctive points of Unitarianism." Unitarians, he said, had no creeds and no formula for general acceptance. They believed in one God as opposed to the Trinity of orthodoxy. During the course of his address, Mr. Tyrer showed the difference between Unitarianism and Christian orthodoxy.

garded by his subjects as invested with so many divine attributes that it was death to any of his subjects to dare raise their cyes to gaze upon him when he passed thru the streets of his capital. To-day printed notices are posted up everywhere in Tokio calling upon the people to get out of his way and to bare their heads in token of respect when he drives out. In spile of tales wane of his divinity he remains a most interesting figure as a monarch, who in the short space of a quarter of a century has transformed his limpire from a barbarous Oriental state into a most progressive and up-to-date power.

In this he has been vastly helped by his clever consort, the Empress, who for tility-nive years has been his most sensible, enlightened and trusted counsellor. Indeed, the influence which she has exercised has in its weight been equivalent to that of the widowed Empress or China, while instead of its being reactionary it has invariably been progressive.

The Empress, now a woman of over 50, who dresses mostly in European fasilon, but sometimes in old Japanese garb, is childless, and the Crown Prince of Japan, who is to become regent of the Empire danuarg his father's absence, is the offspring of one of the wives of the Mikado, who like most Oriental monarchs, has in addition to his chief wife and consort an enormous harem.

It is realized here that the entertainment of the Emperor and Empress of Japan will be no easy matter. For while in one sense of the word they are Orientals, like, for instance, the Shah and the Sultan, yet in other respects they may justly lay claim to the consideration and honors accorded to European soverelgus.

After leaving Vienna they will visit in turn the courts of Berlin and Rome, as well as Parls and London, returning to Japan via the United States and Canada.
