SEATS FOR "ALONG CAME RUTH."

Seats will be placed on sale today or "Along Came Ruth," the charming omedy success, which will be the of-ering at the Alexandra Theatre next eek. "Along Came Ruth," originally roduced at the Gaiety Theatre, New ork, abounds in witty lines, brilliant lialogue and amusing situations, and has to do with Ruth Ambrose, a charming young girl with her own way to make in the world and the courage and ability to make it. She got to Oldport, Maine, where the liveliest spot is the local burying ground and the greatest excitement seems to be the arrival and departure of the lonesome train. Here she starts things going, and before long she stirs up the town and its citizens as it and they had never been stirred before. From being a town unconscious Oldport becomes wide awake, and they soon begin to thrive. The regular matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday.

MME. PETROVA AT THE REGENT.

the Regent Mme. Petrova is the big drawing card in "The Eternal Question," without a doubt the strongest feature in which the great Petrova has ever, appeared. "HELLO, PARIS" AT THE STAR.

In the concise phrase, "A Frenchie-girlie show," burlesque connoisseurs speak of "Hello, Paris," the all-beauty company, which is booked for the Star Theatre for a week's stay beginning Monday with a matinee daily. Manager Pierce has assembled a congress of beauties that will sur-pass any iggregation to appear here this season. Coupled with these gems of betwitching face and form, he has prepared for the "Hello, Paris" patrons Onslow. prepared for the "Hello, Paris" patrons as clever a burlesque skit as has ever come out of the burlesque world. Book, lyrics, melody and effects are all new and sparkling, and these with the "Frenchie-Giris" background will pro-vide an entertainment brimful of pep. Niagara.

HIPPODROME.

For next week the Hippodrome man-agement offer as the headline attraction that clever character actor. Hy man Adler, who, with his capable co pany, will present his newest vaudeville sketch. Hunter's Statue Dogs have a posing act that is really astonishing. Miss Dorothy Mather, who delighted Hippodrome patrons with her singing last season, returns next week with a host of new songs, including the season's successful hits. Thoms and Henderson are song and lance artists out of the ordinary. The Sheldons have a variety offering that is said to be very good; Harper and Frant, in a comedy acrobatic offering, and a new Keystone five-part photo-play, complete a good bill, SHEA'S.

Jean Adair, assisted by a capable cast, will headline the bill at Shea's next work, in the amusing comedy sketch, "Maggie Taylor, Waitross." "The Married Ladies' Club" is a musical satire by Jean Hayes, featuring Margaret Braun and a capable cast of five charming comediennes. Trovata, the eccentric genius, is master of the violin, and completely master of the celings of his audience, when he is playing his wonderful instrument. The Bison City Four is one ont the best singing organizations in vaudeville, while Hamilton and Barnes have a delightful little sketch they call "Just fun." The Crisps, in stories, songs and dances: Dupree and Dupree, novel cyclists; Gene and Dolla Miller, novalty hoop rollers, and featury film attractions complete a bill of unusual
