Weave the bright thoughts to and fro, Airy threads of wondrous glow; Faster, faster, shuttle, fly Through the air, and earth, and sky

Weave a web of thought-work fine Through the woof of souls divine; Weave them by God's perfect plan

Swiftly flies the shuttle through, To and fro in heaven's view ; Fancy weaves her rainbow web, Braiding in life's endless thread.

A tall Yankee, standing six feet three inches in his stockings, was suddenly attacked with symptoms of a fever. Having a violent pain in his head, his wife, to afford him relief was about to apply draughts to his feet, when be asked:

"Come here," shouted a matron to an urchin who had evidently been misbehaving, shaking a rope she held in her hand, "come here till I give ye your back pay." The youth didn't go. He didn't want to draw his back pay, evidently.
