CAPTAIN GEO. H. PERRY FOUND BEATEN TO DEATH IN HIS OWN BACK YARD AT YARMOUTH, N.S.

Three Hundred Dollars That He is Thought to Have Been Carrying is Missing and Probably Supplies Motive for Appalling Crime—Entering His Own Home When Set Upon and Beaten With Iron Bar That Stood in the Yard—Police Without Clue to Perpetrator of the Murder.

Yarmouth, N. S., Feb. 27.—Today residents of Yarmouth are horrified over the brutal and mysterious murder of Captain George Henry Perry, former master mariner, who was clubbed to death upon his door step last on Saturday night. There is no clue as to the identity of the assailant, and the exact hour of the tragedy is unknown. Robbery is supposed to have been the motive since a black purse in which Captain Perry is supposed to have been carrying $300 cannot be located.

What Was the Motive?
With reference to the iron bar, Mrs. Perry stated that her husband had used it for shoe repairing, particularly for the fitting of heels; she said that he had generally left it lying where he had been using it.

Since her husband did not discuss his business affairs with her, she could not say definitely if he had recently received any cheques or money. She did know that he had cashed several cheques within the past fortnight. He had always carried his money in a black purse in his hip pocket, and whenever he changed his clothes, he had transferred the purse to the hip pocket of the trousers which he was wearing. She thought that at the time of the assault the purse might have contained about $275. She said that Ross was only absent one minute when he went to look for Captain Perry.

Captain Perry was about sixty-six years of age. He was widely known among members of the nautical profession here. Besides his widow, four daughters survive him, Eleanor, at home; Clara E., in Manchester, N. H.; Florence E. in Toronto, and Carrie in Outlook, Sask.

Smelt Catch For 1920 Was Record
Prince Edward Island Fishermen Had An Exceptionally Prosperous Season.

Special to The Standard, Charlottetown, Feb. 27.—Although many were disappointed at not obtaining an extension of the smelt fishing season it may be all the better for the future of the industry, as there is no doubt that there would have been a large catch during the full moon tides and over-fishing of any fisheries is not desirable. It is interesting to note that in the year 1919 the total catch in the province was valued at $61,594, while the catch of 1920 was valued at $87,343. These are the prices which were paid to fishermen at the boat-side. The price realized on the market was $119,944.
