

Dr. MacKay Addresses Freshmen

RECORD ENROLMENT EXPECTED

(UNB News) — The world today needs not the crowd, docile or hysterical, bent on following the latest craze dreamed up by some motivational research expert, but rather increasing number of individuals who are versatile, knowledgeable, reasonable and perceptive.

Dr. Colin B. Mackay, President of the University of New Brunswick, made this remark in an address Thursday morning to some 800 new students gathered in the Lady Beaverbrook Rink.

The President noted that 868 new students, including those registering Friday at UNB in Saint John, were accepted out of 3,000 applications for admission. The total enrolment will not be known until after registration here next week, although the figure, with St. Thomas and Teachers' College, is expected to reach 4,000. Last year 727 new students had been accepted out of 1,800 applications.

Dr. Mackay welcomed the students in the first day of a week long orientation program. Later Thursday freshmen wrote college ability tests and heard a talk by the dean of their faculty.

Dr. Mackay told students that a university should first of all be a place in which a young person finds out how to see, to conceive of himself. Only then, he said, can the student go on to fit that concept into the community of which he has become a part.

"It is in a university that you must begin to make decisions that will effect the kind of lives you will lead here and which, in turn, will ultimately effect the kind of lives you will lead after you graduate," he said.

The President noted that UNB had 400 students in 1940. By 1953, when Dr. Mackay was appointed executive head, there were 217 new students in a total body of 767. Today, there are 868 new students in an undergraduate school expected to reach 2,700 and a graduate school at 300. With St. Thomas University and Teachers' College, the total campus population will be about 4,000.

The President urged UNB students to have understanding and good will in coping with the inevitable problems on a campus that has mushroomed so suddenly. In closing, he said:

"Take your work seriously, don't take yourself too seriously, and you should have happy and rewarding days at the University of New Brunswick."

Parents were entertained during a late morning reception in the Memorial Student Centre. In the afternoon they were given a guided tour of the UNB campus. Friday, UNB students write French tests, tour the campus, and go on a scavenger hunt.

UNB WINS HULMAN CUP

Record Catch

(N. S. News) — The University of New Brunswick team from Fredericton has won the Hulman Cup and the 9th annual Intercollegiate Game Fish Seminar and Fishing Match, held off Wedgeport, N. S., over the Labor Day weekend, by landing a record 1,219 pounds of fish.

The UNB team, coached by Amby Legere, landed two bluefin tuna on the second day of the match to capture top honors. The successful UNB anglers were Ivan Saunders of Stanley, N. B., who boated a 560-pound tuna, and Preston Thom of Westmouth, Que., who landed a 585 pounder.

The Hulman Cup, awarded annually to the team accumulating the highest number of points in the three-day fishing competition, was won last year by the University of Massachusetts.

Additional members of the UNB squad were Roger Bourque, Conrad Leroux, and Bob Pelley.

The University of Western Ontario team from London finished second in the hunt for the Hulman Cup. Members compiled a total of 772 points. Yale of New Haven, was third with 82 points.

George Deagle of Alma, Ont., a member of the University of Western Ontario team, received the Crandall Trophy for the largest fish caught during the event. He landed a 703-pound tuna following a 65-minute battle.

The three tuna boated in this year's competition were the first since 1955 when Al Wood-Price of Yale landed a 630 pounder. The 10 teams competing last year landed a total of two tons of cod and pollock.

The R. J. Schaefer International Trophy was won by the five Canadian teams with a 2,066 score. This trophy pits the Canadian squads against the American clubs. The U. S. teams finished with a total score of 291.

Each team of five anglers and a coach fished for tuna, pollock, haddock, halibut, and cod. Only these species count in scoring. One point was awarded for each pound of fish boated.

The standings: University of New Brunswick, 1,219; University of Western Ontario, 772; Yale, 82; Dartmouth, 79; Princeton, 75; Dalhousie, 48; Harvard, 35; St. Francis Xavier, 21; University of Massachusetts, 20; University of Toronto, 6.

STUDENTS ACCOSTED

Last Friday night, Alvin Glick (Science III) and Ernest Smaltz (Phys. Ed. III), were ruthlessly accosted by a band of scavenging Freshmen in front of the Paradise Restaurant on Queen Street.

To the amusement of local passers-by, Mr. Glick and Mr. Smaltz were forced to sign their names to a 38D Brassiere.

The incident proved amusing to the on-lookers, and grossly embarrassing to Mr. Glick and Mr. Smaltz. It did however, enable the Freshmen band to scratch the item of one autographed 38D bra from their Scavenger Hunt list.

Thus, another humorous anecdote arising from Freshmen Week Orientation.

SOPH PRESIDENT GADD OUTWITTED

Jerry Gadd, president of the Sophomore class, was lured from his room in Aitken House, and held hostage by a group of Neville frosh on Thursday evening.

He was led under false pretenses from Aitken House across the way to Neville House. Upon arrival, he was tied, gagged, and locked in a vacant room for two hours. Mr. Gadd was shocked by the circumstances in which he found himself. He pleaded in vain for his freedom. Mr. Gadd cried, "Let me go, I have an important engagement with a ladyfriend." His cries were ignored.

The Freshmen demanded in their ransom, exemption of Freshmen activities. Mr. Gadd ignored these demands.

This was an unprecedented event of freshmen retaliation.
