

tain this as one of the banner schools of this city and Dufferin was most fortunate in having for her Principal a man of keen intellect, broad sympathies, tact, and resourcefulness, and a provincial, if not a national, reputation as an educator. Mr. Doan retired in June, 1914, after fifty-six years and a-half of active service to his country as one of her foremost Public School teachers, and thousands of Canada's

R. W. DOAN