

fatherless children. But for Hezekiah Abbott and his company there had been three widows and other orphans.

This case has been properly reported to the Carnegie Commission. They have sent their representative to investigate, but that honorable body, to the present, has taken no action.