The new dairyman had been given instructions that the lady at No. 75 was inclined to find fault. But she was a good customer, and he was on no account to be rude to her. "Those eggs you left here yesterday were stale," grunted Mrs. 75, on the dairyman's second visit. "Them eggs," responded the dairyman blandly, "was laid 'arf an hour before you 'ad 'em by special, quick-laying birds, imported from the Mooly Womps Isles, marm, an' they came down ter this very house by Marconigram, so as yer should get 'em fresh. A bit of a twangy flavor they may 'ave; but you can lay odds, marm, they weren't stale." Mrs. 75 gasped. "Well, the milk didn't seem as good as usual yesterday, either," she pursued. "Well, the gov'nor will be cut up when 'e 'ears that!" continued the dairyman. "'E sent to Halderney a-purpose for a cow wot'll eat nothing but peaches an' pineapples. 'Never mind the expenses,' sezee. 'This 'ere cow we keeps a-purpose for the lady at 75; an' mind it sleeps on a feather bed at nights,' 'e sez, 'an' don't forgit the heiderdown quilt an' the bed socks.' Was there anything wrong wi' the butter, marm?" But Mrs. 75 shook her head, breathless.

SHE HAD CONSUMPTION,

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup Cured Her.

Weighted 135 Pounds—
Now Weighs 172.

Mrs. Charles McDermott, Bathurst, N.B., writes:—"I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Three years ago I had consumption. I had three doctors attending me and they were very much alarmed about my condition. I was so weak and miserable I could not do my housework. While looking through your B.B.B. almanac I saw that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs, so I got a bottle at the drug store, and after taking ten bottles I was completely cured. At that time I weighed 135 pounds and now weigh 172, a gain of 37 pounds in three years. I now keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything, as I owe my life to it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, which, combined with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines, makes it without a doubt the best remedy for coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

HEAVES.

I have a young mare that has been showing symptoms of heaves for a couple of months or more; have been giving her Fowler's Solution of Arsenic. How long should I continue to treat her? Would threshed blue-grass hay, with plenty of oats, be as good as cornstalks to feed her during the winter?

A SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—Arsenic, given for any considerable length of time in medicinal doses, causes fatty degeneration and disintegration of tissues, hence should not be given for longer than a week. On no account feed her any of the threshed blue grass. Clean cornstalks would be decidedly preferable. Good hay is desirable. Clean oat straw may be used safely, but a little more grain should then be given than with good hay. Shake the dust out of the feed and sprinkle with lime water; wet the oats also with lime water; water before feeding (unless too warm), allowing not more than an ordinary pailful at a time. Be careful not to allow large quantities of bulky food. Limit the forage strictly.

LUMP IN TEAT—FALL OR SPRING PLOWING FOR CORN.

1. Heifer calved in September; in about a month lump appeared in front teat; seems to be crossways of teat, half-way down, about thickness of match. Feels like a lump of tissue, a little tender, but gives milk same as other teats; stays about same size, but makes inconvenient to milk. Can you suggest remedy?

2. Have clover sod for corn next year, without manure. Would you advise plowing in fall or spring? Clay loam, with stiff clay subsoil.

CONSTANT READER.

Ans.—1. These lumps in the teats are not uncommon, especially among certain of the highly-specialized dairy breeds. The only successful treatment is an operation, and it is by no means always successful. On the contrary, it is so often unsatisfactory that it is usually well to dry up the quarter, and, unless the cow is particularly valuable as a milker, dry her off. It is believed that the tendency to such affections is transmitted to offspring.

2. If you feel sure of being able to plow at the right time in spring, we would favor spring plowing, that is if the soil is really a loam. If of a clayey consistency, it may be difficult to get it all plowed at the right stage to reduce readily to a fine seedbed.

RAILWAY SNOW FENCE.

The railroad passes through my farm in Township. They built a high, close-board fence last fall to keep snow from drifting on track. If said fence holds snow on my wheat and clover, injuring the crop, could I come on company for damages? Can I order fence removed?

Ontario.

Ans.—The Ontario Railway Act, 1906, provides that every railway company may, on and after the first day of November in each year, enter into and upon any lands lying along the route or line of the railway, and may erect and maintain snow fences thereon, subject to the payment of such damages, if any, as are thereafter established, in the manner provided by the Act, to have been actually suffered, but every snow fence so erected must be removed on or before the first day of April then next following. It does not appear from your statement that the company built the fence on your land. If not, then we do not see that you could recover any damages, or order removal. If, however, the fence was so built, it ought to be removed by first April next. Apparently it was not removed last spring and replaced this fall as the Act requires. Or it may be that by last fall you mean the fall of 1910. If the fence be on your land, and you should suffer damages, you could recover the amount from the company by action to be brought within one year of the time such damages are sustained. See especially sections 72 and 223 of the Act mentioned. And if fence not removed by 1st April, you could certainly call upon the company to attend to it.
