The Catholic Home.

Wath frequently strikes a visitor to a home belonging to Catholics is the absence of everything characteristic of the Catholic mind. In the parlors and living rooms are pictures that might be in place in a home absolutely devoid of religious ideals. They are good in their way, but they are generally in sole possession. There is no little emblem of Catholic faith, a Madonna or an artistic statuette. There is nothing of the kind to be found. In the sleeping rooms it is the same, cupids, home-scenes, ships, flowers, landscapes and portraits—nothing Catholic. The books scattered about the tables or showing in the cases are the novels of the day, and not a Catholic book or periodical among them.

Surely this betokens a mistaken idea of the treasures both in art and literature that have come from Catholic genius. The Catholic man of culture today knows, or ought to know that Catholic art leads today as it always has led. All the old masters were Catholics and the majority of their subjects are Catholic. This fact is appreciated in many Catholic homes where a Botticelli or a Carlo Dolce or a Raphael or one of the other great masters holds the place of honor, a place which in too many Catholic homes is given up to some tawdry chromo or some dead result of amateur effort.

Even in stately the Catholic genius has left us many models worthy a place in the best rooms of the house. And as for literature, surely our recent Catholic writers have given us fine and interesting novels and other works as have been produced elsewhere. The effort therefore to keep up with the popular mind in these things is not an evidence of culture, but of a lack of discernment especially when it fails to appreciate the best that genius could produce.

The Catholic atmosphere pervades the true Catholic home. There is wanting that air of bravado and independence which comes to homes devoid of these little mementoes. The children have generally all the sweetness and docility which belong to their years. The freshness of innocence has not been nipped in the bud before it could flower in a manhood or womanhood of integrity and beauty. It is the home, where founded upon loyalty to God, true citizenship is fostered and true womanhood is formed.

It is the aim of the Church to keep up this Catholic home, knowing well that out of it alone can come the real hope of society today.

You Owe it to Your Mother

To lift all the burdens you can from shoulders that have grown stooped in waiting upon and working for you.

To seek her comfort and pleasure in all things before your own.

Never to intinate by word or deed that your world and hers are different or that you feel in any way superior to her.

To manifest an interest in whatever interests or amuses her.

To make her a partaker, so far as your different ages will permit, in all your pleasures and recreations.

To remember that her life is monotonous compared with yours, and to take her to some suitable place of amusement, or for a trip to the country, or to the city if your home is in the country as frequently as possible.

To introduce all your young friends to her and to enlist her sympathies in youthful projects, hopes and plans, so that she may carry youth into old age.

To defer to her opinions and treat them with respect, even if they seem antiquated to you in all the smart up-to-dateness of your college education.

To talk to her about your work, your studies, your friends, your amusements, the books you read, the places you visit, for part, but like many other necessities of life, there are times to let it go on its own course; in other words, just to let severely alone. In this respect we refer to the man especially who is everlastingly watching the dial and measuring—ever measuring—the hour and minute when he was free from his labor. Such a man never achieves success.

Just think it over. Suppose, instead of being the employe you were the employer, how would you like to have such a workman as yourself on your payroll? Do not look at the clock to find out how late you are in the morning, or how long a lurch time will be, or how many minutes more until the bell strikes the parting hour and you can rush out on the minute.

On the contrary, if you love all good qualities, be at work ahead of time, utilize all the day loyally for your superior's or employer's benefit and progress; don't be watching the hour of departure, and very soon, more quickly than you can figure it out, you will be known as a diligent, careful, thoughtful and worthy young man, and just so soon shall you be marked for selection and promotion.

Not to forget to show your appreciation of all her years of self-sacrifice.

To give her credit for a large part of your success.

To be generous in keeping her supplied with money, so that she will not have to ask for it, or feel like a mendicant seeking your bounty.

—Fictorial Review

In The Home Circle

It is Not The Correct Thing.

To think that only the rich can have happy homes.

To lay aside good manners with one's best clothes, to be used only in society.

For a beautiful, fascinating girl to unmask as a commonplace, ugly wife.

To imagine that little quarrels never develop into big ones.

For a man to dole out his money to his wife as if it were war-time rations.

For a woman to plan her housekeeping on a scale beyond her income.

To sacrifice comfort for the sake of keeping up appearances.

For a woman to imagine that her neighbors care particularly whether she keeps one servant or a dozen.

To forget that it is an utter impossibility to please everybody, and that if one pleases one's self and one's household, there is a certainty of pleasing somebody.

For a man to imagine that he knows more than his wife, simply because it happens to be a man.

For a woman to neglect her personal appearance at home, reserving all her taste and trouble for society.

To imagine that children raised in an atmosphere of wrangling, temper, selfishness, and coldness are not going to develop traits in keeping with their surroundings.

To be discourteous, overbearing, selfish, blunt, and cold in the home circle.

To think family prayers are obsolete.

To act as if the day belonged to one's self and need not be sanctified by prayer, and that only at night is the assistance of God required.

To think that grace before meals should only be said in convents, and that worldlings like horses, are excused.

To make the dinner-table the tribunal for hearing all the family complaints.

To consider hospitality among the obsolete virtues.

Don't Watch The Clock

In this world of ours the clock plays a very important part at school.

SUFFERED WITH LAME BACK.

Could Hardly Straighten Up For Pain.

When the back becomes lame and starts to ache it is the sure sign of kidney trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the aching back by curing the aching kidneys beneath—for it is really the kidneys aching and not the back.

This is why "Doan's" cures are lasting—the medicine cures the actual cause of the disease, the kidneys.

Mr. J. W. Aylett, South Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I have much pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. Last summer I suffered with a lame back. Sometimes I could hardly straighten up for the pain. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and decided to give them a trial. I can truthfully say that the second box cured me. I can recommend them to all as a speedy cure to all suffering with backache."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c per box, a dozen for $5.00. Sold everywhere or direct on receipt of price by J. C. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doan's."

"That's a fine umbrella you carry."

"Isn't it?"

"I hope you came by it honestly."

"Well, I haven't quite figured that out. It started to rain the other day and I stepped into a doorway to wait till it stopped. Then I saw a young fellow coming along with a nice large umbrella, and I thought if he was going as far as my house I would beg the shelter of his umbrella. So I stepped out and asked: 'Where are you going with that umbrella, young fellow?' and he dropped the umbrella and ran."

A SENSIBLE MERCHANT.

Milburn's Sterling Headache Powders give women prompt relief from monthly pains, and leave no bad after effects what ever. Be sure you get Milburn's price 25 and 50 cts.

"Now, children," said the teacher to the class in arithmetic, "a rich man dies and leaves a million. One-tenth goes to the wife, one-twelfth to a son, one-sixteenth to a brother, one-twentieth to an uncle and the rest to a distant cousin. What does each get?"

And the smallest boy in the class waved his hand and shouted "A lawyer!"

I was troubled with sick headache for a long time, and would get so sleepy right after I ate my dinner that I could not do any work. A friend of mine, from Toronto, visited me last summer and he asked me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. He told me they had done him so much good for his stomach. I used several vials, and I found they did me so much good that I can recommend them to any one suffering from liver trouble."
