Johnson's Double Battle

Chicago, Sept. 18.—W. J. C. Kelly, representative of Hugh McIntosh, Australian fight promoter, arrived yesterday prepared to offer Jack

Johnson, $50,000 to fight in the Antipodes with Sam Langford and Sam McVey. Johnson last night declared that he would not give the pug or any other matter of business a thought for at least a week, on account of the recent death of his wife. He said he would probably accept Kelly's offer in due time, provided the details were satisfactory.

Tim Shannahan on Cruelty to Animals.

"Anyone passing along our streets," says Tucker, "can't help noticing the thin horses that occupy places between the shafts of carts in this town. We seem to have no record of the birth of these quadrupeds, and some of them look as if they had reached the age when they should be either pensioned off or put at some light work, such as hauling gravel for the Municipal Council."

Delaney says that we had a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals around here some years ago, but since the retirement of the gentleman who so ably performed the duties of Secretary of that Society, this Association seems to have gone asleep. Delaney thinks that the general public take very little interest in the way horses are treated in this town, and although many may notice cruelty inflicted still, we seem to have let this matter go the more difficult the problem will become. It seems now that any kind of a heartless individual will do to follow a horse, provided he knows which side of the road it drives on and that he can support himself and his family on a small weekly wage. Horses are used in this town as long as they can keep one eye open and stand at an angle of forty-five degrees, and it appears that it is nobody's business to pay any attention either to the condition of the quadruped or to the humanity of the driver. Tucker says we have a fountain for horses to drink from in Cliff's Cove, but 'tis so high that only tall horses can ever hope to quench their thirst in this aristocratic machine. Another drawback about it is that the horse that gets thirsty on Military Road or up near the Railway Station will receive very poor consolation by knowing that a silvery stream flows down opposite the Court House. Look at the horses in the coal carts to-day in this town, then glance on the drivers and also behold the whips and then ask yourselves if it isn't time to get a gait on.

TIM SHANNAHAN.

PARTRIDGE SCARCE.—Partridge are very scarce this season and up to the present the local market is not at all stocked in comparison with other years. Yesterday a number of shooters went over the barrens in the vicinity of Torbay where partridge are reported to be plentiful.

Australia's New National Line.

Sydney, N. S. W., September 17.—The first sod of the national Transcontinental Railway was turned at Port August on Friday last, and in connection with the great National event, the following cable was received from King George:

"I desire on the occasion of the turning of the first sod of the National Transcontinental Railway to express my keen sense of the importance of the great National enterprise to my people of the Commonwealth, and my best wishes for its complete success."

Children Love Syrup of Figs

Gently cleanses the stomach, liver and waste-clogged bowels.

Every mother immediately realizes after giving her child delicious Syrup of Figs that this is the ideal laxative and physic for the children. Nothing else regulates the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of tender bowels so promptly, besides they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

If your child isn't feeling well; resting nicely; eating regularly and acting naturally it is a sure sign that its little insides need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or your little one has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, tongue coated; give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the foul, constipated, clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, it cannot be harmful.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given to-day will save a sick child to-morrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious, tasteful, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Revive Elizabethan Fashions.

Ropes of Pearls Entwined in Hair New English Fad.

London, Sept. 16.—Synchronizing with the production of "Drake" by Sir Herbert Tree a typical Elizabethan hat has made its appearance among the new autumn models of the west-end milliners.

It is a small hat, almost brimless, with a high, full crown like a lofty and very full "beefeater" variety, and the trimming consists of a single ostrich plume worn curling over one ear or standing up at the side of the hat.

Another historical hat that is now being brought out for this autumn season is the Cavalier, a species of long sailor slightly turned down round the brim with a round, low crown and similar trimming of one ostrich plume placed far back at one side of the hat and generally curling over the brim in the orthodox and singularly becoming fashion of those days.

Another Elizabethan revival is the pretty fashion of ropes of pearls entwined in the hair. Pearls are in high favor just now. They have, however, the great advantage of being an absolutely flat ornamentation and theatre-goers will give them a welcome.

Hay Fever

"Oh, I would a m p u t a t e my head, if I possessed a cleaver or tomahawk or hand-saw," said the victim of hay fever. His nose was colored so the boys mistook it for a bacon; profanely he kept up a noise that scared the village deacon. "I am so weak," he sadly sighed, "that I can scarcely totter; my face is though it had been fried, my eyes are running water. And every place I go I hear the politicians storming; they're pointing out the evils here, and things that need reforming. I've heard of many public woes, but I have heard no duffer suggest a remedy for those who from hay fever suffer. The remedy's as plain as day, and might be used to-morrow for congress should abolish hay, and thus relieve our sorrow. If government were managed right, we'd all be hale and hearty. Hay fever victims! Let's unite and start the Big Sneeze party!" Alas, our poor old government! It always needs a licking! There'll always be much discontent protesting, roaring, kicking. Until the last soreheaded man his native soil is under, let government do what it can, it's bound to catch blue thunder.

Copyright, 1911, by George Nathan Adams. One of the most common ailments of the season is hay fever, which is caused by the pollen of certain plants. It is characterized by sneezing, itching eyes, and a runny nose. The best remedy is to avoid the pollen as much as possible, and to use a nasal spray to keep the passages clear.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, Sept. 24. The Yorkshire Post, a leading Conservative daily, admits that it will be in election almost immediately, the only point of difference being, whether before or after Christmas. It is not impossible says the Post that here will be a Liberal split regarding Home Rule, which, if not equal to that of 1886, will be serious.

Special Evening Telegram. BADENWEITER, Sept. 24. Germany's most powerful and most brilliant diplomat, Baron Adolf von Beberstein, died here after a short illness. The Baron who had occupied the position of German ambassador in London, since May of this year, was here to take a course of alkaline water treatment and was in comparatively good health until about a week ago, he suddenly fell ill and rapidly became worse.

Special Evening Telegram. CHICAGO, Sept. 24. Dr. Paul Walden of Riga, Russia, predicted here last night that the next great feat of chemistry would be making eggs from air. Dr. Walden is President-elect of the Ninth International Congress of applied chemistry to be held in St. Petersburg in 1915. He further predicted that a variety of nitrogenous foods will be made from the air some day. "I consider it practically certain that at no distant date we will be drawing food supplies from the air," he said.

Special Evening Telegram. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24. Hundreds of delegates, who hope this will be the last time they will have to meet to advocate Home Rule for Ireland, attended the opening session here to-day, of the Biennial Convention of the United Irish League of America.

Special Evening Telegram. LISBON, Sept. 12.—News has been received here of a crime, involving the death of seven members of one family, in the village of Monte Valepaio, in the Province of Alentejo.

While returning from washing linen in a river a woman was murdered with her five children, the mother being killed with her baby in her arms. The other four children, two little girls and two boys, were found dead a short distance from each other, all with their throats cut. A little later the father was discovered murdered. A former neighbour of the family is being pursued by troops, and his farm is watched, as the eldest son of the murdered family is working there and the murderer may seek to put him to death also.—Reuter.

25 Cent "Danderine" for Falling Hair and Dandruff—Grows Hair

DON'T PAY 50 CENTS FOR WORTHLESS HAIR TONICS — USE OLD, RELIABLE, HARMLESS "DANDERINE" — GET RESULTS.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff: it robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine to-night—now—anytime—will surely save your hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application you will say it was the best investment you ever made. Your hair will immediately take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. A cable from London, says:—The Daily Chronicle's correspondent, accompanying the Unionist leaders in their anti-Home Rule campaign, thus refers to the performances of the Unionist circus:—"The performances, of course, are not meant for the benefit of the Irish people. They are organized for the purpose of intimidating the Government; and misleading the British electorate. Not a single vote in Ulster has been turned, and this talk about lying in the last ditch in the defence of our liberties, are the sheerest bunkum. The astute lawyers, who are running this movement, have no more intention of injuring their finger-ends by picking oakum in His Majesty's jails than they have of exposing their bodies to the bayonets of His Majesty's soldiers."
