

The Queen in Public.

The London Times of the 14th contains a long account of the laying of the foundation stone of St. Thomas' Hospital by Her Majesty the Queen, whose reception appears to have been most enthusiastic. The Prince and Princess of Wales arrived just before the Queen, escorted by a detachment of the Life Guards. The Queen's procession, which was heralded in its coming by the cheers of the people outside, followed the Prince almost immediately, and after a short pause the vast assemblage rose as it entered the pavilion. "Nothing could possibly exceed, if indeed, it could even equal, the cordiality with which the Queen was welcomed. The enthusiasm was, so to speak, almost boundless, and Her Majesty had to remain on the dais making her deep graceful courtesy in all directions for more than a minute, and even after she had taken her stand at the centre of the throne the applause broke out again and again. With Her Majesty were the Prince and Princess of Wales, Prince Leopold, and the Duke of Cambridge. The Queen was dressed in the deepest mourning. The Princess of Wales, even on the day of marriage, never looked in better health or to better advantage.

DEATH OF A WELL KNOWN CHARTIST.—Mr. Thomas Cooper, author of "The Purgatory of Suicides," and other works, formerly a well-known lecturer on Chartism, died at Lincoln, on the 14th, after a short illness. Mr. Cooper was a native of Gainsborough, where he was bound apprentice to a shoemaker. At twenty-three he forsook the stall, and opened a school. About this time he became a local preacher for the Wesleyans, with great success. A brief period intervened before he engaged himself to the Stamford Mercury, on which paper he acted as reporter and provincial agent. About a year afterwards he joined the literary staff of the Leicester Mercury, and this brought him into contact with the poverty-stricken stockingers, into whose cause he threw himself heart and soul. In 1841 he started the Extinguisher, and in 1842 the Chartist Advocate, both of which failed in a short time. In the latter year he visited the Staffordshire potteries, and, on account of a violent oration delivered to colliers on a strike, he was afterwards committed to prison for two years. Whilst there he wrote his best work, and then turned an infidel lecturer; but recanted, joined the General Baptists, and, for fourteen years he went about delivering lectures on Christianity.

NAMES ENDING IN "ON."—A cor. respondent of the London Builder, says:—Boxed up alone in a railway carriage a few nights ago, the observation occurred to us that the large proportion of our eminent men in their various paths bear a name ending in "on." Thus we have—Bacon, our greatest philosopher; Byron and Thompson, our greatest descriptive poets; Clarkson, Buxton, and Colton, some of our great philanthropists; Gibbon, our most eminent historian; Clarendon, not far short; Gibbon, one of our best sculptors; Hilton and Haydon, amongst our best historical painters; Inceledon, our greatest ballad-singer; Jameson, our greatest female writer; Johnson and Addison, our most distinguished essayists; Lytton, our greatest novel-writer; Milton, our greatest epic poet; Murchison, our most distinguished geologist; Newton, our greatest astronomer; Palmerston the most English of statesmen; Stephenson, our greatest railway engineer; Tenyson, our greatest living poet; Wellington, our greatest military commander (with Napoleon his adversary); and Nelson, our greatest sea-captain. As amongst men of lesser rank, Ben. Jonson, Chatterton, Hutton, Wharton, Emerson, Simpson Britton, Alison, Paxton, Rawlinson, Bonnington, Gordon, Paton, Dixon, Lemon, Wilkinson, Ferguson, Donaldson, Sir Thomas Watson (our first physician), and many others will recur to the memory. Surely this is very remarkable. All these names speak of progress; they cry, "Excelsior!" Echo herself says, as each name is repeated, "On!"

THE BUFFALO FENIAN FAIR.—The Utica Herald (Republican), recommends the Fenian Fair now holding at Buffalo, as follows:—"A prominent gentleman of Utica, who has some knowledge of Fenian movements, says the fair of the Brotherhood, soon to open in Buffalo, will be one of the most memorable in the history of the organization; that it is to be attended by the men who give Fenianism its backbone and legislative ability. It is said further, that the result of this fair will be apparent to the most superficial beholder, even to the world. It will be a gathering of the clans who love the cause of liberty and especially the liberty of the Irish people. We are told to watch and pray patiently; to be startled by nothing, neither by anything, not even shockingly, if Canada should be christened Ireland on some fine "sun burst" morning. Hereupon the Buffalo Courier (Democrat), very kindly tries to re-assure Canadians in this way:—"We think we are warranted in assuring our Canadian neighbours that they need not fear any raid at the present time, at least not because of this fair. Its purpose is simply, as it purports to be, to provide the sinews of war, it having no immediate connection with any demonstration on Canada.

A fund of £50,000 to oppose Mr. Gladstone's resolutions is proposed to be started. The South London Press says its originator, Mr. J. Lord, of Wadsworth, has subscribed £1,000 by way of a start.

On Tuesday in the U. S. House of Representatives, Mr. Chandler offered a resolution enquiring why a competent naval force was not maintained in the West Indies, and tendered the thanks of the House to the British Admiral for the protection which he had extended to

The Waterloo Battalion.
The correspondent of the Galt Reporter writing from Hamburg, has the following in regard to the Waterloo Battalion now undergoing the sixteen days drill at that place:—"The Waterloo Battalion, as far as the physique and general appearance of it are concerned, cannot be beat in the Dominion. This is saying a good deal, but it is the opinion of all those who have seen us, and as its worthy Colonel tells the men, it is an honor to himself and the County, and he is proud of them. The Crosshill corps is the Company of the Battalion, and though not quite as large as the Hamburg company, take them all in all, they are the champions. This is not saying anything in disparagement of any of the other companies, but is simply a matter of justice to Capt. Barbour and the men under his command.

The number of Volunteers present, including officers and men is over 200: No. 1 Company, Capt. Campbell, having 51 men and 3 officers; No. 2 Co., Capt. Feck, 31 men and 2 officers; No. 3 Co., Capt. Barbour, 45 men and 1 officer; No. 4 Co., Capt. Millar, 33 men and 2 officers; No. 5 Co., Capt. Colwell, 35 men and 2 officers. The staff officers present are Col. Goodman, Major McMillan, Adjutant MacGachen, Assistant Adjutant Pickering and the Surgeon of the Battalion, Dr. Phillip, and these gentlemen render good service to the Battalion.

I will now in conclusion say a few words for the citizens of Hamburg. They certainly have done everything that lay in their power for the comfort of the Volunteers, and every one of the men express themselves as being well satisfied with all the arrangements. Not a grumble can be heard, and when we say this the reader will know that the Hamburg people must have acted with the greatest liberality, and with good judgment, to have secured such an end, and long may they live to remember the visit of the Waterloo Battalion to their good town.

RUNAWAY.—There has been much complaint lately, and we think not without reason, concerning the manner in which engine-drivers or their assistants make the whistles scream and bellow while passing through this town. We know very well that it is absolutely necessary for the whistle to be blown when approaching crossings, but we do not see that it is entirely indispensable to keep up a continual screeching for thirty or forty rods.—There is reason to believe that some of the drivers rather enjoy the fun of seeing spirited horses rearing and plunging, and making a commotion among the crowd. But this is not all, though it is undoubtedly the most dangerous. Often at night an unintermitting roar of the whistle is kept up for perhaps ten or fifteen minutes, for what cause or with what object none whom it rouses from sleep can possibly divine; nor is it probable that those who commit the nuisance could justify it on the grounds of expediency. But to the point. This morning about 11 o'clock a freight train was passing west, and just as the locomotive got on the crossing at the Market House, the whistle gave a terrific roar and a horse with a light-wagon attached, which was standing at the vegetable market, gave a sudden bound and made off at full speed. The owner was standing in the wagon, and the sudden start of the animal threw him out of the wagon on his head. Fortunately he was not much hurt. The runaway horse galloped up Wyndham street, then turned up Maconnell-st., and was caught about Sharpe's seed-store. While engine-drivers are culpable in making any more noise than is necessary for a warning to the public to get out of the way, drivers of horses are not less so in leaving animals which they know are very easily frightened untied, and consequently at full liberty to run away and maim or kill any one unfortunate enough not to be able to get out of the way.—There are faults on both sides that could be easily corrected, and it would be wise to do it.

ROYAL VISIT TO IRELAND.—In the Imperial House of Commons a few nights since, Sir C. O'Loughlin rose to call attention to the absence of a permanent Royal residence in Ireland, and to move an address to the Queen representing the advantages which would be derived if Her Majesty had a permanent residence in the sister kingdom. The hon. Baronet quoted from a rather remarkable state paper, written by Sir John Davis, in the reign of James the I., in which the writer attributed much of the evil which existed in Ireland to the absence of the Sovereign from that country. Henry the Second, John, Richard the Second, George the Fourth, and Queen Victoria, are the only Sovereigns who have ever set foot upon Irish soil, for we can scarcely call the flight of James the Second or William the Third's pursuit of him, a Royal visit. After some discussion the motion was withdrawn by the advice of the Premier and also of Mr. Gladstone, the leader of the Opposition.

THE STORMING OF MAGDALA.—The following telegram giving somewhat fuller account of the capture of Magdala than any that have hitherto reached us was received in London on the 16th inst. It is dated at the British Camp, on the 14th, April. It is rather unfortunate that a letter giving details of the operations previous to the release of the captives has miscarried. The telegram says:—"It was reported yesterday morning that Theodore had escaped from Magdala, and that the chiefs of his army wished to surrender. It was then found that Theodore had returned and gone into the Amba, expressing his determination to hold it to the last. All the Europeans except Mons. Bardel, who had been too ill to move, were now in our possession. The Abyssinian troops on Islangie were disarmed as quickly as possible, and in the afternoon, after some shelling, the Amba of Magdala was stormed by the second brigade, the 23rd leading and giving storming party with Sappers. The entrance was difficult, and opposition bravely offered by a few at the first gate, which was closed and blocked behind by stones. An entrance on one side was effected, and at a quarter past four the colours of the 33rd were flying in Magdala. King Theodore was found lying dead about 150 yards inside the second gate. Our loss only five wounded. Thus everything has been brought to a most perfectly successful issue. The army of the King defeated in open field on the 10th, all the captives released and safe in our camp during the 11th and 12th, and Magdala stormed and captured on the 13th, ending in the death of the King. In two or three days we hope to be on our way to the coast, when the expedition will have been brought to a successful conclusion in one season.
