organization today is better The organization today is better equipped than at any time in its history to do an up-to-date and aggressive work. On Tuesday evening next there will be a meeting and banquet given in the association to which all the members and contributors are invited, at which time he annual election will take place when a number of new business and profes-slonal men will be elected to the di-rectorship. Not only is the local organization gaining a stronger hold on the young men and boys of the city, but arge corporations and business industries large corporations and business industries throughout the country are building and maintaining at their own expense young Men's Christian Associations. A few days ago. Mr. Whyte vice-president of the C. P. R after turning over the new Kenora Y. M. C. A. building to be run by the association (and this is one of five which the C. P.
