Portland Owner Adopts Novel Method of Picking Up Recruits -Studies Newspapers in League Towns and Picks Out the Players Most Advertised.

That Matt Hynes, of the London Club, and Lou Courtney. of the Brantford Club, in the Canadian League, were drafted by Portland, in the Pacific Coast League, merely on the strength of newspaper notices has just been brought to light by a statement made by Owner McCredie, of the Portland Club.

McCredie, in his effort to secure new material from the minor leagues, started McCrcdle, in his effort to secure new material from the minor leagues, started the system last spring of securing newspapers from every town or city that boasted of a ball club. He tried to get as many papers as possible from towns in the same league, and he studied the accounts of the different games. By this means he was able to find out just who the best players in the league were and also to see what they were doing.

Both Players Advertised.

He saw that Matt Hynes was credited with being the best and most consistent the find of reading. They will go to Courtney a Good Hitter.

Courtney a Good Hitter.

Courtney is one of the leading hitters of the Canadian League, if not the actual leader. He was hitting better than any player in the league of the season, and he was all gweeks of the season, and he was all gweeks of the season, and he was all may leader. Hynes has all the chief fault of both of them is lack of experience. Hynes has all the earmarks of a good pitcher. Courtney has all the earmarks of a good pitcher. Courtney has all the earmarks of a good pitcher. Courtney has all the earmarks of a good pitcher. He is green on the bases, but this is a lault that is easily remedied. He has all that is easily remedied. He has the speed and the ability, and should prove a fixture with the Portland Club. Hynes should also make good under the portland together.

LYNCH HAS POWER TO REMOVE FOGEL FROM NATIONAL LEAGUE

Coming From Fogel, League Can Punish Him.

New York, Oct. 30 .- President Thos. J. Lynch, of the National League, does not agree with the contention of President Horace Fogel, of the Philadelphia Fogel's case be probed and that "ap club, that the league has no jurisdic- propriate action" be taken "if it is upon National League baseball. PLAYERS ARE NOT TO BLAME SAYS "ONE WHO KNOWS" IN REPLYING TO "CRITICUS"

Only a Few Members of the Team Can Get Off at Four O'Clock in Order to Turn to Practice-Will Prove Alibi on Saturday.

To the Sporting Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Sir—My attention and that of several others connected with the Western University Rugby Club was drawn to the letter from "Criticus" in your paper of Oct. 31, and while we agree with the said writer in his statement that the practices this week have not been attended by every member of the team it is very unfair of "Criticus" to imply that the team are suffering from a case of swelled head. Apparently the writer is not as fully versed on the rugby situation in this city as he might be, and his letter is liable London, Nov. 1, 1912. To the Sporting Editor of The Advertiser: on the rugby situation in this city as he might be, and his letter is liable to do the patronage deserved by the team a world of harm.

In some of the larger cities where rugby football has a good hold on the itizens, arrangements are made with the employers of the various players so that the men are allowed to quit work two or three afternoons a week at an early hour, so that daylight practices may be held. In this city there are only six or seven of the regular members of the team who are in a position to turn out at 4 or 4:30 each afternoon, and in justice to these it must be said that they are very regular in their attendance at practices, whether rain or shine. It may not be known in the city that not more than four members of the squad, including spares and regulars, are students at the Western University. The majority of the players hold positions in offices and factories, where the employees are compelled to work until 6 o'clock. As it is dusk at that time those players cannot put in any outdoor practice throughout the week, and I hink that the members of the team are to be complimented upon their show.

ng so far this season. As everyone who is interested in rugby in this city knows, the officers and players of the club this year took a heavy task upon their hands this fall when they entered a team in the O. R. F. U. This city has not made much of a showing in rugby circles for a number of years, and last year the attendance at the games was such that there was a deficit of nearly $400 at the end of the season. The club is endeavoring to pay up this amount of arrears, and to say the least, the general public will not attend games when the result is so emphatically forecasted, as in the letter from "Criticus"

Rugby is, perhaps, the most strenuous of outdoor games, and a player has to be in the best of condition to last through a hard game, such as that of tomorrow will undoubtedly be. The players are very severe in their criticisms of the statements made public by "Criticus," but expect to be able to furnish a satisfactory alibi on Saturday. Thanking you for your kindness, Mr. Editor, I remain. "ONE WHO KNOWS."
