The deceased, who was highly esteemed, was in his thirtieth year. He was married a few years ago to Miss Nellie McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDowell of Mr. Kilgus. He leaves besides his wife and young son, his parents, one sister and one brother. In religion he was a Presbyterian.

ONE THOUSAND MEMBERS GOAL SET BY C. OF C.

Campaign Opens Tuesday Morning—Teams Are Eager For Fray.

THREE-DAY DRIVE

Material Progress of London During Last Three Years Good Augury.

Having set the goal of the chamber of commerce expansion campaign at not less than 1,000, the teams will start out tomorrow morning. It is planned that the final reports shall be made on Thursday, and there will be frank discussion of the last figures on the blackboard do not come closer to 1,200 than 1,000.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 6:30, the teams will gather in the Rotunda House dining-room. Each evening they will be the guests of a prominent London man, a number of whom have asked the privilege of being hosts to this "bunch of London live."

The reports of the teams will be posted on a huge blackboard so that each may know what the others are doing. An entertainment committee is preparing some "extras" for the supper and there will be plenty of fun and music through the hour or so the men will be together.

The heads of the teams' organization are:
General chairman—James Gray.
District 1—District chairman, Col. W. J. Brown; captains, W. R. Jarmain, J. W. Tomer, George Wenige and Charles W. Corbett.

District 2—District chairman, A. J. Clark; captains, Adj. F. W. Marwick, Charles S. Martin, F. St. Lawrence, G. R. Targart and E. J. Jenkins.
District 3—District chairman, George D. Clark; captains, E. V. Buchanan, John Gunn, D. McArthur and Dean W. Sherwood Fox.

Explains Expansion Move.
"Why does the chamber of commerce exert itself to increase membership at this time? Why not wait until conditions are better?" That and other questions of a like nature have been asked the last few days, not because the questioners have any doubt of the wisdom of the expansion movement, but to fortify themselves against the criticism of citizens asked to become members of the chamber.

"The chamber on Saturday last printed a page in each of the London dailies answering these questions," said James Gray, chairman of the campaign executive committee. In fact, there were about 30 answers in that page, for letters from that number of citizens and individuals were selected from a much larger number in the possession of the chamber.

"Another answer is to be found in the material progress of London in the past three years, at least one of those years being a part of the present so-called period of depression. The city's population has increased by 5,000, the annual building permits by more than $2,000,000, the annual customs receipts by more than $300,000, the annual bank clearings, the trust index of all, by almost $80,000,000.

"No one can truthfully say that London is not today better off in every way than it was three years ago, except in one respect, that of employment. And even in that regard, we are probably better off than most of the majority of communities of like character in Canada.

See Prosperity Looming.
"Now what is this so-called period of depression? Depression is merely a lack of confidence, a lack of faith in the future of the world, and we have what we call depression. But nobody expects it will continue in the future, and the things, in the meantime, and the businessmen are the strongest to insist that it cannot.

"Businessmen know that another name for credit is confidence. They know that 75 per cent of the world's business is done on credit; that only 5 per cent of the world's transactions involve actual money. Therefore businessmen everywhere are trying their best to restore confidence, and we are confident that they are succeeding. Business will again be what we call 'good' when men everywhere are confident.

"It is exactly the same way with a community. The city that uses this particular time to take a nap, because conditions are not what they were a couple of years ago, is going to wake up to discover that some other city, which remained awake and on 'the job,' has stepped into the procession and obtained an advantage.

"If it is true that conditions just are not what we wish they were, it is also true that we cannot afford to sit down and wait for them to get better; we must get out and do what we can to hurry along a change. 'Those things we call conditions' are man-made. They are only a reflection of individuals, made by men. It is well within the power of London to be just what it wants to be, for the men who make up this community can make conditions what they want them to be."

In the making of conditions in London, the chamber of commerce has had some part. Its officers and directors feel. Specifically, its work in placing many immigrants in Middlesex County, the conventions and visitors it has brought to the city, the new industries now located here, are examples.

In addition, its officers point to the fact that at all times it has been watchful of conditions, prompt to direct them to the advantage of the community and that it has been the one agency which has brought the united force of the community to bear on the solution of its particular problems.

Londoner To Be Given Thirty Lashes, Judge Macbeth Decrees.

WHEN Judge Talbot Macbeth sentenced Joseph Holt on Saturday to 30 lashes for a serious offence, to which he had pleaded guilty, it was the first time in several years that such punishment had been meted out to a prisoner in London.

The whipping will take place during a period of two months which Holt is to serve at hard labor.

"I'm not going to sentence you to a long term of imprisonment because that would only mean the supporting of you and your family," remarked the court. "I do not think that anything that I might say to you would be of any use, but I hope that the sentence that I am about to impose on you will be a warning."

Judge Macbeth did not specify the institution in which Holt is to be confined, but he said that in whatever prison the whipping was inflicted, a physician would be present to supervise it.

Perjury Virtue In Liquor Cases

Comment of Judge Macbeth in Discussing Recent Police Case.

When Judge Talbot Macbeth and Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop, K.C., were awaiting the arrival of the countess for Edward Borland who was up for sentence on Saturday, their conversation led to a discussion of the prisoner's companion, who is wanted in connection with the thefts to which Borland pleaded guilty.

The crown remarked that the mission of a man was a witness in a liquor case in police court recently, and at that time swore that the prisoner charged with violating the temperance act, was at his home in South Dorchester on the day the offence was alleged to have been committed, helping to lay a cement foundation under the house. There are no signs of a foundation being laid there, it was said. "I suppose we are coming to such a state of morality that perjury is regarded as a virtue in liquor cases, as it was when the Scott act was in force," ventured the judge.

FOUR CARS BURNED IN SUNDAY MORNING FIRE

Four automobiles were badly burned when fire broke out in the north end of the People's Garage, Dundas street, at 12:15 a.m. Sunday. It is thought that the blaze was due to the spontaneous combustion of a pile of oily cleaning rags and overalls in the building.

There were thirteen cars and trucks in the garage when the fire broke out, and all but four were saved by the firemen and a number of volunteers. Two of the burned cars were totally destroyed, while the other two may be repaired.

The damage will be in the neighborhood of $5,000 according to Fire Chief John Altken.

THOUSANDS AT FUNERAL OF EXPLOSION VICTIM

MANHEIM, Sept. 25.—It is estimated that 70,000 persons today attended the funeral of the victims of the Oppau explosion at Ludwigshafen. The French military authorities were represented by Generals Lenetz and Dandann. Both these officers brought wreaths and expressed condolence to President Ebert and Premier Lecherfeld. Herr Ebert, replying, said he was sympathetic with the manifestation of human sympathy which had set aside the barriers arising from the war.

Persons Living in 1925 Will Live For Ever, Declares Hersee

Addressing a large audience at Hyman Hall on Sunday afternoon, W. M. Hersee, travelling representative of the International Bible Students' Association, asserted that the Scriptures indicate that the year 1925 will see the end of all wars and that people on the earth at that time having a knowledge of the Truth and living in accordance therewith will live on the earth forever in a state of happiness.

The speaker made voluminous quotations from the Bible and from the works of Judas Rutherford, founder of the I. B. S. A. "The regeneration of the human race," he declared, "has been the hope of Christians for centuries, which hope is based upon God's promises. To Abraham God said: 'In thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed.'"

RALLY DAY SERVICE LARGELY ATTENDED

Rally Day was observed by special services in the Presbyterian Churches and Sunday schools of the city on Sunday. At St. Andrew's Church the service was devoted to Rally Day, the Sabbath school pupils attending, being seated with the congregation. Members of the church choir, assisted by the musical program.

A feature of the service was the baptism of four children by Rev. D. C. McGregor, B.A., minister, and presentation of diplomas and Bibles to 23 children of the Sunday school primary class. Rev. F. W. K. Harris, B.A., addressed the congregation and children were visited by the church choir.

Do Not Need K. K. K.
The speaker, who is director of religious education for St. Andrew's Church, explained that there will be no more wars, and that there will be peace and happiness. The question of the day the speaker said was, "What shall be the basis of this peace?" He said that the answer was, "The love of God." "Times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord; and He (God) shall send Jesus Christ, who before was preached unto you, that He should redeem us from all iniquity, and to Himself purify unto Himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works."

The first six verses of Revelation, 21, tell of a time coming when there will be no more death, and when the reign of Christ will be during the reign of Christ. "He (Christ) must reign till He hath put all enemies under His feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death. It is evident from the foregoing Scriptural proof that there must come a time when the people will have an opportunity for life, peace and happiness. The question of the day the speaker said was, "What shall be the basis of this peace?" He said that the answer was, "The love of God." "Times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord; and He (God) shall send Jesus Christ, who before was preached unto you, that He should redeem us from all iniquity, and to Himself purify unto Himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works."

The first important question, then, is, "What is the basis of this peace?" The speaker said that the answer was, "The love of God." "Times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord; and He (God) shall send Jesus Christ, who before was preached unto you, that He should redeem us from all iniquity, and to Himself purify unto Himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works."

SUNDAY SCHOOL GREAT BUSINESS ENTERPRISE

"Canada's real asset for the future is the boys and girls and it is the great task of the church to save them for the Kingdom of God," Rev. J. A. Agnew, pastor of Ridout Street Methodist Church declared at the Sunday morning service. The pastor chose as his subject "Our Task" and directed his remarks chiefly at the parents and the church workers.

"Sunday school enterprise," emphasized Mr. Agnew, "is to be numbered with the other big businesses of the world. As a consequence if you should desire to be identified with big business it is essential that you identify yourself with this department of the church. Moreover the Sunday school pays the biggest dividends of any of the other businesses, but is quite capable on the other hand of producing even greater results. The limit has not yet been reached."

Touching upon the situation from a statistical viewpoint the pastor declared that "fully 95 per cent of our preachers of today have arrived through the channels of the Sunday school, while 85 per cent of the church converts and 95 per cent of the church workers have been obtained in a like manner. In addition to this 75 per cent of the churches were commenced as Sunday schools."

"Although it is popularly conceded," he continued, "that a child's character is moulded before the age of 18 years, there are several important factors to be considered. Environment plays its great part, as does education. But the greatest and best of all is, to my mind, the effort by the parents and the Sunday school teachers. We find in the development of the child that the time comes when it desires to know where it belongs.

Sunday School Should Lead.
"I maintain that the child is a member of the Kingdom of God until such time as it may, by its own volition, become otherwise. I say, however, that the time should never come when the child is outside. The Sunday school should lead the child in constant relationship with the Kingdom of God. The child may grow up in the kingdom, but at the same time experience the Word of God in actual life and realize its value."

Special music and speakers, with splendid attendance, marked all three services on Sunday. The occasion was rally day for the entire congregation. In the afternoon, W. H. Lidcott, principal of Talbot Street School, addressed a mass meeting of the boys and girls, emphasizing the need for steadfast loyalty in relation to the home, to the Sunday school, and to the Master.

At the evening gathering the pastor delivered a sermon on "The Real Decisions," dwelling on the three real decisions that confront one: First, the choice as to vocation in life; second, the choice as to a partner for life; and third, one's decision of relation to Jesus Christ. The young people of the church featured the evening service by their unexcelled attendance. Two of them, Messrs. Muna and Neill, assisted Rev. Mr. Agnew on the platform.

CHURCH WITHOUT SUNDAY SCHOOL IS A CURIOSITY.

Special music, a record attendance and three powerful sermons by the pastor, Rev. E. H. Thomson, marked Rally Day at the Centennial Methodist Church yesterday. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the congregation, to whom a special appeal was made, attended in quite appreciable numbers.

At the evening service Rev. Mr. Thomson made a continued appeal. As an apt illustration he compared the Sunday school work in the church today with that of 40 years ago. It indicated, he asserted, that any church today without its young people's activity was indeed a curiosity. The children, he maintained, are certainly a real force in the church.

With telling emphasis the pastor drove home three points that were highly essential, he said, enthusiasm, evangelism and good citizenship. He emphasized the point that the church is not a social club, but a body of people who are called to live for God and for their fellow men. In conclusion he urged his hearers to acquaint themselves with the political movements of the day, holding that such was a big part of their responsibilities as Christian citizens.

LOCAL SALVATION ARMY CELEBRATES HARVEST HOME.

Yesterday witnessed the celebration of Harvest Home in all the Salvation Army corps throughout the world, and fitting services for the occasion were rendered by officials of the army at the local corps headquarters.

Captain and Mrs. R. Penfold conducted services in the Clarence street chapel. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers, and the service was gathered by the harvest workers, and which will be disposed of tonight in the hall at 7 o'clock.

Captain Penfold stated that he was forcibly reminded of God's goodness when he saw the results of the workers and that he was more than pleased with the work of the officers and comrades who had made such a success of the affair.

Captain Penfold spoke on the Salvation of mankind.

"What we need in the Salvation Army," he stated, "is unity. We must stick together. There is no use in one of us pulling one way and another. We must emphasize this fact. We must be concerned with the needs of our people, build up this organization, bring the people in, and, in a general way, help in the ways of salvation."

Captain Penfold outlined the growth of the Salvation Army since it first started in Canada over 40 years ago.

London, Ontario, was the birth of the army in Canada, and the market square was used for some time as a meeting place. The of the Army workers in those days was not by any means smooth, but faith in their work and perseverance at last brought them recognition, and today they have corps scattered from east to west, and still growing steadily.

PICKLING SEASON IS IN FULL SWING

Necessary Ingredients Were in Big Demand On the Market.

A nice fall day made a nice fall market for farmers and citizens alike Saturday, and both were out in full force. It was one of the largest September markets ever known by J. B. Cox, who has been a familiar figure on the market square here for the past 20 years.

London housewives are apparently doing down, or doing up (whatever it is), pickles by the ton. Vegetable men, who had a plentiful supply of cauliflowers, onions, gherkins, tomatoes, peppers, etc., found the market just exactly to their liking, for sales were rapid and snappy.

Tomatoes are almost a thing of the past and found a quick sale at 50 cents a basket. There was a fairly large supply for this time of the season. Big whoppers of cauliflowers sold at 35 cents, while their small sisters and brothers changed hands at 15 and 20 cents each. Red peppers brought 30 cents a basket, while green sold at 20 cents, and excellent quality, too. Onions cost 25 cents a quart.

Fine for Pies.
Garden huckleberries were on sale in the market house basement at 15 cents a box. They are extra fine for pies, so the farmer's wife informed The Advertiser, but were no good to eat. She stated that Saturday was a ready sale for them and "she had her customers."

One could buy a nice fresh dozen of eggs and a pound of butter for under one dollar in the market house, while under the shed outside, 4 cents could be saved, both commodities selling at 48 cents. Horesradish was bringing 65 cents a pint bottle, and was "just the thing to go with a nice Sunday roast," so the reporter was told.

Fruit, potatoes plentiful. Potatoes were fairly plentiful, but the supply was quickly cornered at $2 per bag. "Spuds" by the bag were a few and far between after the clock struck 10 Saturday night.

With the exception of apples, is becoming increasingly scarce. Growers stated this was the last day for home-grown grapes, which brought 65 cents a basket. Peas were $1 per basket and 65 cents for six quarts. Odd baskets of plums, the very last. The Advertiser was told, sold for $1 per six quarts. Apples were plentiful, and the sales slow at $2 per bushel, and 60 cents an 11-quart basket. Peaches were very scarce, and brought as high as $2 per bushel. The Elbertas are over and Smocks only could be purchased today.

MORE PAVEMENTS ARE PLANNED AT INGERSOLL

Many Petitions Have Been Received by the Council.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
INGERSOLL, Sept. 25.—Permanent street work in the town will likely be done as a result of petitions which have been presented to the council by residents of Venham, Albert and Duke streets. In all cases the work is desired between King and Charles streets. It is argued that an extension of the paving program will be a means of saving the unemployed for a taking care of the unemployed for a time. A motion favoring additional local improvements was passed by the council at a special meeting Saturday night by a vote of 4 to 2, and a by-laws streets named as the ones on which work will be undertaken.

At a meeting Saturday, directors of the Ingersoll, North and West Oxford Agricultural Society completed arrangements for the fair, which will be held on Monday and Tuesday, October 3 and 4. The improvements undertaken by the society at Victoria Park have been completed. They include a new secretary's office, judges' stand and repairs to the horse barn.

The society is offering $400 for two races, $250 for a 2:15 pace or trot and $200 for a 2:35 pace or trot. Largely attended anniversary services were held in the Putnam Methodist Church today. Both sermons were preached by the Rev. J. W. Hibbert of Kingsville, president of the London Conference. Special music was rendered by the choir, and the thank offering was generous.
