Silverman Concern Sells or Looseleaf Filing and Account-Exchanges Anything That Doesn't Eat.

Everybody knows "Everybody's Uncle." For years and years Tom Fox told the people of London and vicinity that he was ready to assist them in whatever way he could. But during the last 18 months Uncle Tom has not been in "active service." The name of T. Fox, pawnbroker, has given way to Herman Silverman, pawnbroker.

The question arises, why the change? There is no secret, so the answer may be given. About 18 months ago, following the death of Mrs. Fox. the business was turned over to Mr. Silverman, a son-in-law of Mr. Fox, who used to conduct a shop at 211 King street. When the business was taken over by him, his quarters were removed to the old stand, 383-385 Clarence street, a stand that has been a pawnshop for
