Shirts to order. Discount to students.Question for a debating society—Which is the butt end of a goat?

To make a good broil: Leave a letter from one of your old sweethearts where your wife can find it.

Mrs. Partington, overhearing it said that they did not bathe much at the West End, said she thought they bathed all over.

"Any letters for Mike How?" asked an individual of a clerk at a post-office window. "No letters here for anybody's cow."

DISCERNMENT.—Young lady (who has missed "The Meet")—"Do you know where the bounds are, Robin?" Old Keeper (compassionately)—"Y're just too late, miss—the gentlemen be all gone."

"J. Gray—Pack with my box five dozen quills." There is nothing remarkable about this sentence, only that it is nearly as short as one can be constructed, and yet contains the whole alphabet.

STARTLING.—There is nothing in which the sad and simple denizen of the Far West so delights as in astonishing the tenderly emerald emigrate. Fifteen of these wistful beings, fresh from the gorgeous civilization of the East, fluttered into a Virginia City restaurant the other day for breakfast. While they were studying the bill of fare, a melancholy Virginia citizen walked in and measured them with a glance. The opportunity was too delicious to resist. He sat down and loudly remaked, "Waiter, how long does a man have to sit here before you come to take his order?" The ambling waiter shrieked "All right, Mr. Terry; what'll you have, Mr. Terry?" The pensive Terry instantly ordered in a tone of thunder the following picturesque dishes: "Baked horn-toad, two broiled lizards on toast, with tarantula sauce; stewed rattlesnakes on the side." The waiter was acquainted with the ways of Virginia City, and without even the quiver of an eyelash observed to the Chinese menials in the kitchen, "Baked horned to-o-ad; two bro-i-led liz-ards on to-o-ast, tran-n-tula sauce; stewed rattlesnakes on the si-i-de! For Mr. Terry—ver-r-y nice and well done!" Mr. Terry's real breakfast, privately ordered, presently appeared, and every individual emigrant choked himself and got a pain in his spine with looking over his shoulder in the vain effort to see the remarkable dishes which the ingenious Terry was calmly enjoying.
