

represents the maximum producing rate of oil that can be extracted from the reservoir so as to facilitate maximum final recovery of reserves.

The MER of a Commercial Field is determined by adding the MER of each producing well, calculated on a technical basis.