

be created to implement the said program and, if so, what was the total number (b) what was the estimate of the total annual cost of filling such positions (c) what is the number of such additional positions for each new or reorganized department (d) what is the estimate of the cost of such new positions for each such new or reorganized department?

Mr. John R. Matheson (Parliamentary Secretary to Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, the answer to the question 387 is as follows:

The transfers and rearrangement of duties and functions made by orders in council passed on December 22, 1965, involved only existing duties and existing staff. As a result of the transfers, there are likely to be rearrangements of functions among personnel in the departments affected but the net effect of these adjustments cannot yet be foreseen. The same is true of future adjustments of establishments which may result from the future development of policies as a consequence of the reorganization. The answer to part (a) of the question is therefore no, and (b) is not applicable. The answers to (c) and (d) will not be available until new establishments have been devised and approved for the departments concerned.

CATEGORIES OF POOR PERSONS

Question No. 437—Mr. Caouette:

1. What distinction does the government make between a poor person, a destitute person, and an indigent person?

2. In what income categories does the government place a poor person, a destitute person, an indigent person, and a well to do person, respectively?

Mr. John R. Matheson (Parliamentary Secretary to Prime Minister): 1. The government does not make any official definitions distinguishing between persons who are poor, destitute or indigent.

2. The government does not assign income categories to degrees of poverty since many factors, in addition to income, determine whether a person is considered to be poor.
