St. James' Cathedral was the scene of an exceedingly smart military wedding on Saturday at 3 o'clock, when the marriage was solemnized of Miss Marie Rutherford, néece of Col. and Mrs. Charles Nelies, to Mr. Douglas Bowie, R.C.D. Son of Mr. Duncan E. Bowie, barrister, of Montreal, and grandson of the late William E. Phillips of Montreal. The ceremony was performed by the chaplain of the groom's regiment, the Rev. Russell MacLean of St. John's Church. Dr. Ham presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Mr. Marvin Rathbun sang a solo. The church was beautifully decorated in searlet and white to carry out the military effect, the chancel being banked with palms, white azaless and lilac, with scarlet tulips. The altar was banked entirely with Madonna liftes, and the guest pews were portioned off by white satin ribbon and bunches of scarlet tulips. The centre asse was lined with fifty men of the Royal Canadlan Dragoon Regiment in uniform, who crossed swords for the bridal party to pass under. The lovely bride was given away by her uncle, Col. Nelles, and looked beautiful 'n a gown of soft white charmeuse, simply draped and trimmed with old rose point lace, and seed pearls, the train being caught with a spray of orange blossoms, a cluster of the same being at the coresage. Her veil, which was an heirloom of rare old rose point lace, was arranged in a Juliet cap with bandeau of pearls, and she carried a shower of white orchids and dilles of the valley. There were three attendants, Miss Christine Somerville of Montreal, as maid of honor; Miss Dora Browne of Montreal and Miss Gwyneth Jones of Quebec. They were gowned alike in white broadcloth with loke and sleeves of shadow lace and girdles of natier blue taffeta. Their hats were of natier blue taffeta with large black paradise ospreys and they carried sheafs of American Beauty gross. Each wore the groom's gift, a blue and white enamel vanity box on a platinum chain, dis gift to the bride being a gold bag. For trimming was used a figured moire, bearing a design of brilliant yellow flowers, with foliage on a ground matching the gray.

The decorative buttonholes and sash and are of black satin and fancy amber buttons are set on both waist and white filec, and the bride's table was centred with a large golden basket of melody roses and white lilac, and two analler dresden baskets at either end filled with the same flowers. Mrs. Nelles dooked very handsome in gray charmeuse trimmed with purple and amethyst ornaments, and black velvet hat with purple plumes, moleskin stole and muff, and carried an old-fashioned nosseav of melody roses violets and and muff, and carried an old-fashloned nosegay of melody roses, violets and freesia. Mrs. Bowie, the groom's mother, was in brown satin with oriental lace, a black hat with paradise plume, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The groom's brother, Mr. Philip Bowie, and his grandmother, Mrs. Philips, were also present from Montreal, the latter wearing gray satin veiled with black chantilly lace and trimmed with rose point lace, a black hat with plume and white osprey. Mrs. Rutherford, mother of the bride, wore gold and white chiffon, the satin petticoat being veiled with painted chiffon of yellow roses, a black hat with white feathers, and bouquet of lifes of the valley. After the bride's health had been proposed by Mr. Reginald Geary, and responded to and the bride had cut her cake with her husband's sword, and changed her wedding gown for a 31st inst., at 3.15 o'clock, at West-bourne School. Individual Cases. Individual cases in the non-Christion world have justified the work done and shown the wisdom of it all. ### University Sermon

In a scholarly effort at Convocation Hall yesterday morning, Rev. H, Hansar of Montreal advanced proof upon proof in favor of the divinity and authority of Christ. He took his text from John xv., 22, 23, 24 and xvf. 9 and 10, in which the Master declares his true position to mankind. Such bold statements as the claiming of supreme ADVANCE IN GIVINGS authority, omnipotence, omnipresence omniscience, being the all-satisfying H. K. Caskey of Laymen's eternal life—all these superlative claims Dr. Hansar said were nobly and adequately sustained in Christ's death on the cross. That, he declared; was test undeniable, and no man who is a thinking Christian, could have the least doubt as to Christ's Individuality and His position in relation to the

> In an able manner the preacher pictured Christ's mission on earth. Sent here to deliver the greatest message mankind has ever received, He had nothing but His own personality to help Him. He had no other resources, no money and no friends. The world scoffed at Him and every possible discouragement seemed to cross His path. Yet, owing to the divine nature of His commission, even the most stinging adversity did not affect His final victory, which was at the cross. Were Christ not the Son of God, He would not have withstood what mortal man would have faltered under, and have succeeded in perpetuating His name down thru all the ages. For those declarations, which the world then received as "exaggerations of an aggravated fanticism." it now reveres His In an able manner the preacher picvated fanticism." it now reveres H name, and even more strongly H
