

HAVANA CIGARS—COHEN & LOPEZ,

GRAND CENTRAL HOTEL

BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

A MODEL INSTITUTION.—It is said that the largest and most complete hotel in America, if not in the world, is the GRAND CENTRAL HOTEL of New York. It may have two thousand guests under its roof, yet every detail of the vast machinery moves with a systematic precision, as curious as it is wonderful. At its tables one may eat from morning until night, and command every luxury of the market. He may ascend and descend by rapid elevators, that ply between basement and dome. Its marble vestibule is the rallying point of business men from every part of the country, and in the luxurious parlors and broad corridors, may be seen youth and beauty, representing all sections and climes.

Terms : $3, $3.50 and $4 per day.
