

INDEX TO FIRST LINES

	PAGE
A beggar-man crept to my side	453
A bingo bird once nestled her nest	324
A Boston gentleman declares	479
A bottle-tree bloometh in Winkyway land—	290
A century or so ago	493
A child was singing at his play—	417
A Dibdin properly displayed	487
A dying mother gave to you	1
A flimflam flopped from a fillamaloo	329
A fool, when plagued by fleas by night	509
A little bit of a woman came	60
A little boy named Thomas ate	456
A little boy whose name was Tim	332
A little peach in the orchard grew	30
A moonbeam floateth from the skies	254
A poet, crazed by Mammon, hung	438
A sorry life, forsooth, these wretched girls are undergoing	399
A sunbeam comes a-creeping	281
A tortuous double iron track: a station here, a station there	151
Abou Ben Halstead—may his tribe increase!	467
Accept, dear girl, this little token	64
Ach, faeder bed! mein faeder bed!	516
Achievin' secb distinction with his moddel tabble dote	7
Afore we went to Denver we had beerd the Tabor Grand	13
After dear old grandma died	267
Aha! a traitor in the camp	255
All day long they come and go—	221
Amber clouds on a cobalt sky	454
An editor in Kankakee	459
And thou, twin orbs of love and joy!	334
And when at last, with priestly pray'r	503
Any color, so long as it's red	93
As beats the sun from mountain crest	103
As I am sitting in the sun upon the porch to-day	232
As I was going to Bethlehem-town	134
As on my roving way I go	496