SUNDAY BILL DEAD

Landry, Godbout, Bolduc and Montplaisir, all of Quebec, voting in the affirmative.

Save and Except, Etc.

The important event of the evening session was the qualification of all sections of the bill dealing with parks, games, theatres and other amusements. They are now forbidden "except as provided in any provincial act now or hereafter in force."

"You'll have to swallow it," responded a voice from the opposition. Mr. McMullen persisted that parliament was not to legislate for that province, but for all the people of Canada.

"The hon. gentleman forgets that this is a confederation and not a state of union," interposed Mr. Speaker Dandurand, who occupied a seat in the committee.

Senator Ross was very indignant. "There is no reverence for the Lord's Day. The fourth commandment is thrown out altogether."

"Are we a Christian people?" he asked indignantly. "It looks like we were getting to be infidels with the legislation we have here to-day."

The clauses respecting performance and Sunday excursions are also getting contingent upon provincial legislation. On motion of senator Fortin the clause providing that nothing in the law should repeal any existing provincial legislation was extended 80 minutes, which may be enacted prior to March 1, 1907.

This Kills It. An amendment by Senator Kerr forbidding any prosecutions under the act except upon order of the attorney-general of the province in which the offence is committed.

Senator Baird and Sir Mackenzie Bowell denounced this amendment as virtually killing the bill.

Senator Ross said that the bill was now as dead as Julius Caesar. The Kerr amendment carried—yeas 32, nays 10.

Senator Kerr's amendment, exempting the Jews and others who conscientiously observed Saturday as a day of rest was voted down by 24 to 18. Senator Scott, who led the house, voted for the amendment, but stated that the government had no policy on the subject, as the cabinet was divided.

Piche Clause Dropped. The Piche amendment was dropped. It never had any meaning and had served its purpose by appearing in the mass meeting at Montreal.

Section 2, which forbids work and labor, is now amended so that the charterers granted to the parks in Montreal are made to apply. Incidentally, Grimsby Park is saved.

At the last, the exemptions heretofore granted to "occasional or grain-laden vessels" were extended so as to apply to all vessels.

The much-crippled bill, with its score of amendments was then reported. It will be placed upon its third reading to-morrow, when Sir Mackenzie Bowell will divide the house on several amendments.

Protests against such important legislation being hurried to and thru the senate in the dying days of the session.

WARSHIP SINKS SCHOONER.

Collision in New York Harbor—No Lives Lost.

New York, July 10.—The two-masted schooner Eaglet, bound from Albany to Pangor, Me., with a load of moulting, was in collision with the French cruiser Jurien de la Graviere, anchored in the North River, to-day.

The schooner went down in four minutes, with a large hole stove in her side. The crew, together with the wife of Capt. McCann, consisting of seven in all, escaped uninjured.

With a strong ebb tide and lack of wind, Capt. McCann lost control of the Eaglet, which drifted into the French warship.

PRESTON 15 AHEAD.

Mr. Justice Teetzel Orders Other Side to Start Count.

Port Arthur, July 10.—(Special.)—The scrutiny into the ballots in the Port Arthur and Rainy River election trial was adjourned at noon, to be resumed in Toronto on the 25th. The array in Toronto, to the rights of the court to scrutinize ballots cast by aliens and underage voters, Justice Teetzel was not clear on this point and would not proceed until it had been cleared.

At the adjournment Mr. Preston had succeeded in striking off twenty-six ballots polled for Mr. Kennedy, thus giving him (Preston) a majority of fifteen. At this stage the justice ordered that Mr. Kennedy proceed with his case, as there was no use continuing to pile up a majority for Preston. If Kennedy succeeds in affecting the majority secured by Preston, the latter will be allowed to go on again.

GAELIC SOCIETY ENTHUSES.

Listens to Addresses From J. J. McGeie and Others.

Gaelic Hall, at the corner of Queen and McCaul-streets, was the scene of a great rally of the members bearing that name last night, when the guests of the evening, J. J. McGeie of Ottawa, gave a short but eloquent address, setting out the aims of the society.

Mr. McGeie had just returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast, during which he gave a number of addresses. Among other things he spoke of the Gaelic Church, Dr. McLean, Andrew Harmon, president A. O. H., Alex Fraser, president Scottish Gaelic Society, and others.

Some of the addresses given roused the members present to great enthusiasm. The aim of the Gaelic Society in Toronto, as expressed last night, is to render general the use of the Gaelic language among the Scotch and Irish residents of the city.

AFFAIRS OF CENTRAL LIFE

less than his previous contract, and, if necessary, should the financial standing of the company warrant it, amount he was unwilling to take less.

Mr. Tilley brought out the fact that as witness had complete control of the company, he would say what his own salary would be.

Mr. Spence said that he had never used his power in any way to run the company, only to its best interests.

Mr. Tilley then took up the $100,000 loan to President Crawford on May 12, 1902. He asked witnesses if Mr. Crawford had evidence to the effect that he had the sanction of his manager was correct, and Mr. Spence answered that he went into the deal as innocently as an unborn child.

"Mr. Crawford came into my office and told me that he was stuck, and needed $100,000. He said that he had four thousand cents, and Crawford asked if it would not be all right for him to borrow from the funds of the company on a promissory note."

"I said, 'You are good for it,' and he was the president, I could do nothing else but put the loan through. He had done good turns for me, and I did not think I was doing anything wrong."

Mr. Spence owned loans were going to be had up thru a $2500 loan for himself under the guidance of the Continental Life for a few days on some real estate. At certain times he got advances on salary.

Five thousand dollars of Provincial Building and Loan debentures, Mr. Spence was received by Messrs. Crawford and St. John. He had nothing to do in the matter.

The purchase by the witness of stock from the shareholders who could not pay the call of 5 per cent, made to raise the Dominion deposit, was discussed.

How Stock Was "Sold." Mr. Tilley unearthed a new scheme of getting a company floated on a substantial basis, and putting in desirable returns to the government. At the outset, the directors took stock to the value of $100,000, and so pretended that the company was worth $100,000.

When applications came in in the regular way some of the directors who had stock sold authority to cancel the stock and assign it to the applicant. Witness saw nothing wrong in this, and Mr. St. John, his solicitor, had advised him that it was a proper transaction.

"This was done simply to get into the Ontario government records," said Mr. Spence, who was pressed by Messrs. Baird and Sir Mackenzie Bowell denounced this amendment as virtually killing the bill.

The purchase of 104 shares, which completed the 5000 shares, by Mr. Spence, was shady. He gave his notes, which were accounted at the bank, with the understanding that the stock would be sold again, and that he would not have to pay for it.

Witness tried to shift the responsibility on the solicitor, but Mr. Tilley went after this sort of quibbling, with the result that Mr. Spence admitted, but did not discuss the matter with the board.

Mrs. Spence's stock account was dissected very carefully by Mr. Tilley. He probed the witness, who witness had made to his wife. That Mrs. Spence was just holding the stock as trustee for the company was admitted by witness. There was no arrangement with the directors, and Mrs. Spence was liable for stock.

Will Keep Account Now. Mr. Tilley read a statement showing that at the end of 1904 the total premium and interest receipts of the Central Life were $48,000, and the expenses $70,000. That was about $22,000 expenses over and above all receipts. The impairment of capital up to that date was $20,176. Agents' advances amounted to $2000.

Mr. Spence said that this was a bad asset and not worth anything. Agents' advances had been abandoned. Mr. Tilley tried to find out what this asset was worth, but witness could not say.

The Central Life issued 1222 policies amounting to $1,305,500 during the four years ending 1904, of which 78 policies, amounting to $83,750, lapsed. This would make the lapse rate about 6 per cent, which Mr. Spence claimed was no worse than other companies.

No gross and loss account had been furnished the commission because Mr. Spence explained that the company had never kept such a statement, but that in the future an account of this kind would be kept.

Mr. Tilley used up a lot of time going over the financial statements of the company. Items were investigated, but nothing startling was developed. The impairment of capital at the end of 1905 was $38,000. Claim brought out the fact that the impairment was nearly double that of last year. In 1905 $130,000 worth of insurance was written.

"This," said Mr. Tilley, "is not very satisfactory," and witness admitted that the expenses of the Central were altogether too high.

The Central had no actuary because it could not afford one.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLICITY. PRESENT NEEDS OF TORONTO

Chairman Tindall Recommends That Local Branch of C.M.A. Should Organize One.

The Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association held its annual meeting when a resolution was passed inviting the national convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to assemble in Toronto in 1907. This year's convention will be in Winnipeg in September. The convention has not been held in Toronto since 1903.

Secretary Murray's report urged the organization of the branch on more elaborate lines, such as the appointment of several standing committees. Dr. S. Morley Wickett reported verbally on behalf of the technical education committee, outlining steps taken to secure additional appropriation from the board of control for educational purposes.

Labor Market a Menace. Chairman W. E. Tindall read the annual address. Toronto, he said, had 1200 manufacturing concerns, representing $70,000,000 invested capital, and employing 60,000 hands, the output of which is $90,000,000 annually.

As to the labor situation, from the manufacturers' standpoint it was a most disturbing feature. Skilled help was difficult to procure, and difficult to retain. Skilled mechanics, he found, had not grown in proportion to the expansion of manufacturing, and there was danger of the trade turning to other countries. No nation, he thought, could hope to become great without giving its manufacturing interests the same consideration that it had for its agricultural interests, and with the passive policy of the Dominion government in regard to immigration of skilled workmen, valuable opportunities were being lost. It would certainly be a very growing industry if the splendid material for manufacturing goods which must inevitably arise in the Northwest were to fall to the lot of the United States.
