much controversy, has been ascertained.

A week ago an attempt was made to weigh the machine on the Central Market scales, but the scales caved in and the weighing had to be postponed. Yesterday the repairing of the scales was finished and Mr. J. Devey, the Pitts Co. agent, asked that another attempt be made to ascertain the roller's weight. Ald. McAndrew agreed to this on Mesers, Burrow, Stewart & Milne, the repairers, giving a written guarantee there would be no more breaking down. The firm gave their verbal assurance that as much as possible of water and, with only a small quantity of coal on, the replier was run on the scales. The machine registered $1.570 pounds, or with the engineer on, 32,000. The roller was sold as a 12-ton machine, and calculated on the basis of 2240 pounds to the ton, and allowing 70 pounds for the water and coal, it weighs 14 tons 450 pounds. Counting 2000 pounds for a ton, it is 200 pounds short of 15 tons. An inspection of the scales, after the weighing, showed them to have stood the test without injury.

Montreal, June 26.—Those who have wondered over the United States' transportation bill of $15,000,000 will have a little light thrown on the subject when it is learned how much commission, or boodle, as it is called in this country, was to have gone into the pockets of certain middle men in the United States who were interested in the sale of the Beaver Line steamer Lake Ontario to Uncle Sam's much-bled Government, Whether the deal has yet been consummated remains to be seen, but the facts, as related to The World correspondent by an eminent member of the Montreal bar, are as follows:

The business was done by two Montreal lawyers, and out of the sum of $400,000 which the United States Government was held to pay for the vessel in question no less sum than $210,000 was to go to certain patriots from the other side of the line while the balance, $190,000, was the real price which the company were to receive for their steamship. After such a transaction as this, it is not at all surprising that Uncle Sam's transportation bill should reach such tremendous figures.

prising that Uncle Sam's transportation bill should reach such tremendous figures.

A New Yorker's Error.

The demonstration to-day to perpetuate the events of 1798 would have been fairly successful had it not been for the tremendous rainfail, which interfered with the procession, composed, as it was, of all of the local Irish national and benevolent societies. The parade started at Haymarket-square, in the centre of Griffintown, but it was pretty well one-sided, as the Orangemen did not accept the invitation of their separated brethren to take part in the procession in honor of '98. One feature, however, was the mingling of the orange and green colors, most every man having these mixed colors at their buttonholes. The speech-making took place on the Exhibition Grounds, but the crowd did not exceed more than a thousand, so the two-starred program was reduced to one, and most of the orators were local men.

The speakers were: M. J. F. Quinn, M.P., Hon, Dr. Guerin, F. Carbary, M.L.A. for Quebec West, J. D. Grace of Ottawa, and J. Grattan McMahon of New York, a grandson of the famous Henry Grattan, Mr. McMahon went it very strong. He said the English people were all right, but they wanted nothing to do with the Sallsburys, the Balfours, the Chamberlains and such like. The Irish people were a cultured nationality when the English were wearing buckskins and were in the depths of barbarism. He ridiculed the so-called Angle-Saxon alliance, and declared that the ultimate destiny of Ireland was to be a portion of the American Republic.

Mr. Quinn, the able member for Montreal mate destiny of Ireland was to be a portion of the American Republic.

Mr. Quinn, the able member for Montreal Centre, also spoke and took exception to Mr. McMahon's foolish utterances. He riliculed the New Yorker, and told him that if Ireland changed her position she would rather become a portion of Canada than of the American Republic. It was remarked that the Roman Catholic clergy gave the celebration the go by, there being no priests on the platform, and when the fresh man from New York began his speech with "Mr. Chairman and Rev. Fathers," a loud litter went round.
