IN TWO MATERIALS.

with line of large "O" perforations on a lengthwise thread of material. For the lining take up a dart in front as perforated. Close under-arm seam as notched, close center-front and shoulder seams. Turn hem in back at notches.

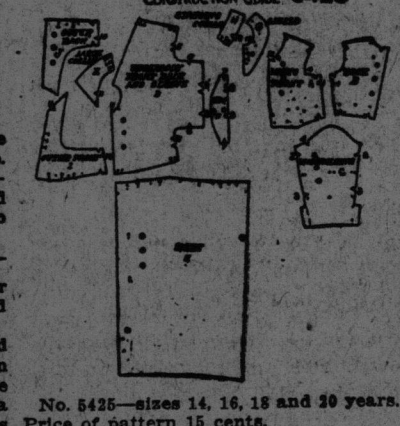

Sleeve—Face from double "oo" perforations to lower edge. Close seam as notched, leaving extensions free; turn under extension on slot perforations, lap to small "oo" perforations. Sew in lining armholes as notched casing in any fulness.

For the outside close under-arm seam as notched. Pleat lower edge, placing "T" on corresponding small "oo" perforations. Arrange on under-body, center, neck and under-arm seams even; stitch lower edges together. Sew large collar to neck edge on right side as notched, bind left neck edges. Sew standing collar to shield as notched; adjust to position, bringing single large "O" perforations in lining and in shield together, centers even.

To make the skirt pleat upper edge placing "T" on corresponding small "oo" perforations. Lap right front on left, center even (double "oo" perforations indicate center-front) and stitch, leaving edges free below large "O" perforations. Close back seam from large "O" perforation to lower edge, finish edges above for pleat. Adjust to position, stitching upper edge over lower edge of outer front and back, centers even, double "oo" perforation at under-arm seam.

For spring and summer the collar and cuffs may be of soft sheer material.

CONSTRUCTION CLASS 5425

Tafteta and liberty silk combined are suggested for this one-piece costume. It is trimmed with buttons and the collar and cuffs may be of any desired material that will add daintiness to the ensemble.

Contrasting colors of silk, satin or any two materials desired may be used for this smart little frock. If a narrow material is used it should be laid open upon the cutting table in cutting out the dress. Otherwise place by triple "TTT" perforations on a lengthwise fold and remaining pieces.

TELLS OF CALL TO UTICA CHURCH

Rev. P. J. Stackhouse's Letter To Amherst Congregation

SORRY TO SEVER TIES

(Amherst News)
 Rev. P. J. Stackhouse has accepted a call to Utica, N. Y. During his Amherst stay he has greatly endeared himself to the members and adherents of this congregation but to citizens in general throughout the town. As a citizen, teacher and pastor he has filled a very large place in this community.

The work of the church has prospered under his leadership and his "Men's Class" had become a recognized institution in Amherst. His growth and influence is indicative of the fact that Mr. Stackhouse possesses in a very marked degree the quality of leadership so essential to success in religious and reform work.

The call to a wider field of opportunity for studying the great sociological and labor problems in which Mr. Stackhouse has been so intensely interested, naturally appeals to him with much force and we believe that we are speaking advisedly when we say that Mr. Stackhouse's only reason for considering the call is his desire to get in closer touch with the problems of life to which he has given so much thought, study and attention.

Personally we will regret his departure from Amherst. Mr. Stackhouse has been a friend of the News and its editor since his first visit to Amherst and we can not help expressing the hope that he may yet change his mind and remain with us. This, however, is a selfish view, and we frankly recognize that in his new proposed field of labor he will have the same opportunities for good work as he here in Amherst and at the same time will have other openings for his own advancement along educational lines. His letter of resignation was read to the congregation last evening at the usual weekly prayer meeting, and was as follows:

Amherst, April 16, 1914.
 To the members of the First Baptist Church and congregation:
 Dear Brethren and Sisters—
 In tendering my resignation as pastor of this church I have had the hardest things of my life. I have found it exceedingly difficult to come to a decision. Since becoming your pastor, about four years ago, I have had seven invitations from churches that probably would have developed into calls to assume the pastorate. In case of one of the seven I did not hesitate in concluding that my work was still in the Amherst church.
 The invitation that came to me a few weeks ago from the Tabernacle church of Utica, New York, is entirely different. I told the committee that came down to interview me that I would not consider a call, that I was happy here, that I did not wish to leave the people with whom I had come into such fraternal relations. They replied that they had in their church at Utica what they believed to be one of the greatest opportunities for service in the state of New York. They simply asked me to come to Utica and see their city, their church and the field of work and judge for myself. It was with great reluctance that I consented.

I was greatly impressed with what I saw. Utica, a city of 90,000 people and it is said that 85 millions of people live within 800 miles of that center. The church has a membership of about 250 and possesses the most modern Sunday school plant that I have ever seen. The school has an enrollment of 1,600 children. The Baptist University and Theological Seminary of Colgate where so many of our Canadian ministers receive their training is only an hour's ride from the city.
 A Strong Religious Force.
 The Tabernacle Church is said to be one of the most religious forces in the city. Our own Doctor Wallace was pastor there for twelve years before assuming the pastorate of Brooklyn Temple. Doctor Myers went to Tremont Temple, Boston.

I came home with the conviction that in Utica there was good reason for enlarged service such as even Amherst is not able to offer. Whether I can meet that opportunity is of course a question this remains to be answered. I need not tell you how great an effort it has been to decide to leave Amherst. I never expect to see dear friends whom I have made in this town and among the people of this congregation. The years I have been with you have been years of unbroken harmony and love and no pastor could possibly have a more loyal and devoted people to lead than the people of the Amherst church. I am grateful to the Heavenly Father that under my ministry the church has made some real advancement in numbers and influence, that our relations with the other churches are so cordial and brotherly and that we have the respect of the community as a force making for righteousness.

As to the time that this resignation shall go into effect, I think that the claims of this church are paramount. Unless there some good reason for another date I would suggest that my pastorate close after the last Sunday in June. As July and August are holiday months this would give the church five months to secure a pastor without any injury to the work here. (Signed)
 PERRY J. STACKHOUSE

Prior to Sunday evening's service the deacons met and passed a resolution of regret at the possibility of Mr. Stackhouse's departure and urging him to continue his work in Amherst.

After being accustomed to drawing the family to church every Sunday morning for eighteen years, "Old Billy" in home owned by William Howe of Lucente, N. Y., was discarded in favor of a coil. When the family left after service, however, they found Billy in his usual stall outside the church, but without any harness, having slipped a halter in order to get there.

CHIC HATS IN ALL SORTS OF SHAPES AND COLORS SHOW OLD-FASHIONS MADE INTO NEW

By Maybelle Mortimer
 There have been some changes in the style of hats since the first flare of fashion made its appearance.
 The very small hat perched on the side of one's head, after the fashion of Tommy Atkins, has not found the favor its originators hoped for.
 Easter morning saw on parade, however, many of the mid-Victorian shapes described by Dickens and Thackeray. These flat shapes, with their ribbon and velvet ties and their wreaths of flowers, look just as well on granddaughters of today as they did on grand-mothers of other days.
 There are violent contrasts in the shapes of hats. Some are very tall and some are very flat. Only one thing marks all of them alike; the hats of this season are much smaller in the crown than they were last year. They do not set down over the ears to such a great extent.
 Mustard yellow straw will be much worn this season, and on a young girl with brown hair and deep brown eyes nothing can be prettier than a mustard yellow tangle braid covered with pale green chiffon and trimmed with great bunches of cowslips and a huge bow of pale green under the rim at the back.
 A queer tailed hat is made with a black hemp, close-fitting, poke-shaped brim and a black taffeta tan o'shanter crown. This has bunches of forget-me-nots at the back and side.
 One of the very flat shapes is of cream colored leghorn braid. Across the front is a broad band of pale lavender velvet, the same velvet forming a bow at the back, where the shape turns up abruptly. Long wheat ears and field flowers are placed at both sides of the crown and a couple of wheat ears are entwined with the bow at the back.
 A beautiful summer lingenie hat has already made its appearance and it is striking in many ways. It is made of white or black net, with a wired ruffle forming the brim. White roses with black hearts make the whole crown, while white leaves are used instead of green.
 A light tan straw hat covered with cream chiffon and pushed up on one side to disclose yellow flowers, a bow with streaming ends and an otchick feather in brown, does not sound as fetching as it looks when worn perched over the left eye of a pretty girl.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With it to Restore Color, Gloss, Thickness
 Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is falling gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use Sulphur, costing about 90 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyle's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.
 While wispy gray, faded hair is not stylish, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyle's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You justampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. SICK BOY LEAVES HOME IN SLEEP; WALKS QUARTER MILE

Lynn, April 18—With a thin night-gown as his only protection from cold and rain, Irving Harlow, 11-year-old son of Rufus P. Harlow, walked in his sleep for more than a quarter of a mile until he unconsciously sought refuge in the doorway of a building opposite the city stables.
 For several days the boy had been at home with the mumps; just before 10 p. m. the boy's father discovered that the youth's bed was empty. After a thorough search of the house the police were asked to help.
 While the father was giving a description of the boy, a message was received that the boy had been found and was being cared for at the city stables. Edward Pollard saw the boy huddled up in a store doorway and without attempting to question the lad, Pollard carried him to the office of the stables.
 There the little fellow said that he had no recollection of walking from his home or of leaving his bed. A police ambulance conveyed the boy to his home after he had been wrapped in blankets.
 Never give up to headache if you can possibly avoid it for if you do it will fasten itself upon you and return at regular intervals. Throw it aside by action of some form, either physical or mental, as the case may require and you will usually find relief.

EMBASSY RENT TRIPLED

Notification to U. S. Ambassador—In Same Place Thirty Years

London, April 18—Walter H. Page, the United States ambassador, has received notification that the rent of the offices in Victoria street, Westminster, which the American Embassy has occupied for nearly thirty years, is to be raised to more than three times its present figure when the lease expires next autumn.
 For many years the United States government has held the premises on a year-to-year lease, and, while the rents of neighboring offices have been raised many times in the course of this period, the
