

ssy Young Man... years ago boasted to his high prices he paid has seen the error of his now delights in showing he can dress upon half what he used to spend. He get

Ready to Wear Clothing
Fabric, Style and Trim- the, so called, swell tailor, but costing very much less tailored in advance of In quality, make, finish on just as good. In short, get the same but at the price.

Warrant Card which means that if his he may have his money refunded.

WITH OLD...
KNOX'S AMBROSIA...
Ripe Olives, 20c. a pint.
Johnson's Fluid Beef, 16-oz. bottles, $1
London Dry Gin.

Dixie H. Ross & Co.
MILLS CO. ENDBERRY AND VERNON
Klondike
Agents.

OTHERWISE SAMUEL GLAPHAN
of Galois Island, British Columbia, 134 formerly of Eversburg, in the County of Huntingdon, England, Deceased

NOTICE is hereby given that at the expiration of three months from the first publication of this notice, I shall register the title of Amelia Franklin, late of Huntington, England, the wife of Stephen Franklin, late of Amelia King of the town and county of Leicester, England, widow, the two sisters of the said deceased, the sole co-heiresses and next of kin of the said deceased unless proof shall be furnished me that other persons are entitled to carry away the same to be said deceased with the said Amelia Franklin and Mary Ann King.
Dated the 14th day of May, 1898.
S. Y. WOODTON,
Registrar-General.

NOTICE is hereby given that 30 days after date I intend to apply to the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works for a special license to cut and carry away timber on the following described lands: Commencing at a post marked "P. P. Kennedy" in the northwest corner, situate on the easterly shore of Teslin Lake at a point directly opposite islands at entrance to narrow, and about two miles above the mouth of Teslin Lake; thence running 100 chains north, following the shore of Teslin Lake; thence running in chains thence 160 chains south; thence 40 chains north; thence 160 chains in a westerly direction, to point of commencement, containing in all 940 acres, more or less.
Dated 6th day of June, 1898.
FRANK HIGGINS.

NOTICE is hereby given that 30 days after date I intend to apply to the Hon. Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works for a special license to cut and remove timber from the following described lands: Commencing at a post marked "Frank Higgins" in the northwest corner, situate on the easterly shore of Teslin Lake, one and a half miles from mouth of Fifteen Mile River, opposite the island in Teslin Lake; thence running 60 chains in an easterly direction; thence 160 chains in a southerly direction; thence 40 chains in a westerly direction, to point of commencement, containing in all 940 acres, more or less.
Dated 6th day of June, 1898.
FRANK HIGGINS.

NOTICE is hereby given that thirty days after date I intend to apply to the Hon. Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works for a special license to cut and remove timber from the following described lands: Commencing at a post marked "Bennett Lake" in the east end of the south end of the west arm of Lake Bennett, thence westerly along the shore of the lake 100 chains; thence southerly 90 chains; thence easterly 100 chains; thence northerly 90 chains to point of beginning, and comprising about 1,000 acres.
Dated the 30th day of May, 1898.
JAMES HUME.

NOTICE is hereby given that thirty days after date I intend to apply to the Hon. Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works for a special license to cut and remove timber from the following described lands: Commencing at a post marked "Bark Melrose" in the north end of the west arm of Lake Bennett, thence westerly along the shore of the lake 100 chains; thence southerly 90 chains; thence easterly 100 chains; thence northerly 90 chains to point of beginning, and comprising about 1,000 acres.
Dated the 30th day of May, 1898.
JAMES HUME.

Bark Melrose was towed to Thetis Island this morning by the tug Constancia. She will load provisions there for use in the Mexican coast.

$1.50 PER ANNUM $1.50

VOL. 17

BLOODY BATTLE NEAR SANTIAGO

The American and Spanish Forces Fight Fiercely for Many Hours.

1000 AMERICANS KILLED AND WOUNDED

Meagre Details of a Mighty Struggle.

American Troops in the Thick of the Fight Sing the "Star Spangled Banner."

Profound Concern Exhibited in Military and Naval Circles at Washington.

General Shafter Intimates That the American Loss Was Tremendously Large.

Siboney, province of Santiago de Cuba, July 2.—At 8 a.m. yesterday the American forces under General Shafter and the Spanish forces engaged in a fierce battle. The fighting was practically stopped at 9 p.m., to be resumed in the morning. The American troops advanced nearly to the city. The losses are estimated at over 1,000 killed and wounded.

8:30 a.m.—At this hour fighting still continues. The entire reserve of the American army has been ordered to the front at once, apparently with the intention of forcing a way into Santiago de Cuba. The troops have advanced nearly to the city, but the fortifications are very strong.

Our losses are heavy. Officers from the field are reported to have counted over 1,000 men.

A shell, supposed to have come from the Spanish fleet, did heavy execution among the American troops.

During a lull in the fighting an impressive incident occurred. The 21st battalion was out in front and suffering heavy loss from the Spanish fire, but the men sang the "Star Spangled Banner" even the wounded joining in the singing.

The First Artillery Fight.

New York, July 2.—A special cablegram to the Evening World from El Paso, Cuba, near Santiago, by way of Playa Del Este, July 1st, says: The first artillery fight of the campaign has just been ended by the silencing of the Spanish battery. The wounded are still being picked up as this dispatch to the World is hurried away. There was a blunder in allowing the infantry to be massed behind the battery's position and most of the fatalities on our side are attributed to that. Gen. Lawton's division bivouacked at Clancy last night without fires. At 7 o'clock this morning there was a sudden boom, the first shot coming from a Spanish battery. At 7:15 Grimes' battery opened on the troops in sight of San Juan blockhouse. The shells burst like clock work. The Spanish powder used by our troops smoked and was a fine target for the Spanish field battery, which was probably served by Admiral Cervera's marines, judging by the accuracy of the aim. While our smoke gave the enemy the range, Grimes could not locate the enemy, who used smokeless powder, except approximately. Our men worked like mad. The Spanish fire gradually slackened and in less than an hour collapsed altogether. Our battery was assisted by the Rough Riders, about 100 Cubans with Hotchkiss guns, a detachment of the Tenth Cavalry and a squad from Company C, second cavalry.

Most of the Spanish shells flew over the crest of the battery's position and exploded. Through them the Rough Riders had about ten men wounded, among them being R. Champlain, whose left elbow was smashed. The Cuban leader, Gonzales, reports that the Cubans lost twenty killed and wounded. Details of Gen. Lawton's losses have not arrived.

Capt. Grimes and Corporal McLean, who were overcome with the heat, are recovering. The battery shot one hundred rounds, two-thirds shell and the balance shrapnel.

In the fighting near Santiago Spanish shells two and a half inches in diameter

Victoria

VICTORIA, B. C., TUESDAY, JULY 5, 1898.

NO. 36.

A NAVAL BY-PLAY.

How Camara's Voyage is Regarded—Called a Farce in London.

London, June 29.—Admiral Camara's voyage to Port Said has been regarded by naval experts here as a theatrical device for inducing the Spanish people to believe that the Madrid government is capable of doing something.

They have considered it incredible that he should have intentions of going to Manila, where he could only arrive without coal and unprepared to meet Dewey with fleet well supplied and heavily reinforced from San Francisco.

The only theory on which so foolhardy a secret intrigue could be explained is that a plan could be explained by which Spain by which their ships could act together, and this supposition exceeds the bounds of credibility, mysterious the German emperor's ulterior purpose in the Philippines may be.

The prompt announcement from Washington that an American fleet is preparing to depart from San Francisco in naval circles here as a convenient pretext for the recall of Camara's squadron to home waters after a grotesque and ill-promoted campaign through the Mediterranean.

The question whether Camara will be allowed to pass through the Suez canal is eagerly discussed here. There is nothing to be done until the British government has decided on the law that stands in his way, and the tolls, while heavy, can be paid, and the tolls, while heavy, can be paid, and the tolls, while heavy, can be paid.

There would be various methods of harassing the Spanish fleet during the progress of his squadron, for Lord Cromer's will is supreme in Egypt. The vessels could be detained there if the London government were to insist on the propriety of such action, but it is impossible for any one in London to find out whether the American government really wants to break down the Suez canal, and unless that fact is established he may go on to Manila through the canal if he desires to do so.

The department of marine has made arrangements for a system of signalling at Little Cayton, on the Sillike river, to prevent collisions therein after the opening of navigation. A station will be established on the river, and the signals will be displayed for the guidance of vessels. White ball or disc hoisted to the top of the mast will denote that the channel is clear and that vessels may enter the river. Black drum or square drum, and balls shown together, will be signal between two stations. Information of signal men and vessels may enter the canal when the signal is displayed.

Wm. A. Russell has been appointed steamboat inspector for the northern part of Columbia and Yukon district.

ALL-CANADIAN ROUTE.

Views of the Correspondent of a Scottish Newspaper as to What Should Be Done.

The special correspondent of the Dundee Free Press writes in his paper on the following strain regarding the opening of the all-Canadian route to Klondike:—

Bennet, April 12.—As mentioned in a previous article, the all-Canadian route is essential to any permanent development in the Yukon district in proper means of transport and to the clearing of the river, and consequently also the cost of developing the territory which is being opened up. It is estimated that there are hundreds of miles of gold-bearing territory which no one will develop while in other countries such as California, Australia or South Africa, would be considered good paying propositions. The cost of production of the all-Canadian route is altogether too great at the present time to justify the expenditure. There are miles and miles of paying dirt running from 22 to 24 per day, but when the cost of the all-Canadian route is taken into account, it is not worth the trouble. It is not a question of a day, or of a year, or of a score of years, but of all time. It is a question of whether or not this district is to be made the nucleus of a permanent gold producing area, and whether the vast trade consequent upon such development is to fall into the hands of a few men, or if it is to be distributed among the people of the district. It is not a question of a day, or of a year, or of a score of years, but of all time. It is a question of whether or not this district is to be made the nucleus of a permanent gold producing area, and whether the vast trade consequent upon such development is to fall into the hands of a few men, or if it is to be distributed among the people of the district.

The most prominent are fashionable.

Dyspepsia or indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various times experienced the miserable feelings caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body and the agony and anguish of mind which attend the disease. Dr. J. La. Loude, of 236 Pine avenue, Montreal, says: "When I ever run against chronic cases of dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and my patients generally have quick relief."

WILL INVESTIGATE NO BLUFF GAME

The Move Against Spain Will Be Made by the U.S.—A Second Fleet May Also Go.

The Canaries Will Probably Be Attacked First, Then a Bombardment of Cadiz.

Ottawa, July 2.—Mr. Clute, barrister, of St. Catharines, has been appointed a commissioner by the Dominion government to investigate everything in connection with the death of the two Nova Scotians, Fraser and McDonald, on the work of construction of the Crow's Nest Pass railway, and whose tragic and untimely death was fully discussed in parliament last season. Fraser and McDonald were suffering from diphtheria in camp alongside the railway; they were removed from camp in an open conveyance and driven some 20 miles in the cold of winter to a box car on the railway siding, where they were left to the uncare of air and unprotected. A doctor visited the box car, but he was too late to be of any service. This doctor was the only cotoner in the district of Pincher Creek, and he was removed from the box car because he was the attending physician. Mr. Clute, who will be accompanied by L. Purpee, of the justice department, will look into the matter and make a full report. The principal reason for the investigation would be done. The principal reason for selecting Mr. Clute is that he has been recommended by labor interests, who have every confidence in him. Mr. Clute will start on his journey early next week.

General Gascoigne severed his connection with the militia force yesterday and will leave for England shortly.

The department of marine has made arrangements for a system of signalling at Little Cayton, on the Sillike river, to prevent collisions therein after the opening of navigation. A station will be established on the river, and the signals will be displayed for the guidance of vessels. White ball or disc hoisted to the top of the mast will denote that the channel is clear and that vessels may enter the river. Black drum or square drum, and balls shown together, will be signal between two stations. Information of signal men and vessels may enter the canal when the signal is displayed.

Wm. A. Russell has been appointed steamboat inspector for the northern part of Columbia and Yukon district.

ALL-CANADIAN ROUTE.

Views of the Correspondent of a Scottish Newspaper as to What Should Be Done.

The special correspondent of the Dundee Free Press writes in his paper on the following strain regarding the opening of the all-Canadian route to Klondike:—

Bennet, April 12.—As mentioned in a previous article, the all-Canadian route is essential to any permanent development in the Yukon district in proper means of transport and to the clearing of the river, and consequently also the cost of developing the territory which is being opened up. It is estimated that there are hundreds of miles of gold-bearing territory which no one will develop while in other countries such as California, Australia or South Africa, would be considered good paying propositions. The cost of production of the all-Canadian route is altogether too great at the present time to justify the expenditure. There are miles and miles of paying dirt running from 22 to 24 per day, but when the cost of the all-Canadian route is taken into account, it is not worth the trouble. It is not a question of a day, or of a year, or of a score of years, but of all time. It is a question of whether or not this district is to be made the nucleus of a permanent gold producing area, and whether the vast trade consequent upon such development is to fall into the hands of a few men, or if it is to be distributed among the people of the district.

The most prominent are fashionable.

Dyspepsia or indigestion has become a fashionable disease. There are very few individuals who have not at various times experienced the miserable feelings caused by defective digestion. No pen can describe the keen suffering of the body and the agony and anguish of mind which attend the disease. Dr. J. La. Loude, of 236 Pine avenue, Montreal, says: "When I ever run against chronic cases of dyspepsia I always prescribe Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and my patients generally have quick relief."

Twice-a-Week.

ROYAL ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure

THE TERMS OF PEACE

Spain Must Give Up All Her Conquered Colonies—This Much is Determined On.

Europe Will Advise Spain to Make Peace on the Best Obtainable Conditions.

Washington, June 27.—In view of the increasing frequency with which rumors of possible peace conditions are entering into the discussion of semi-official and inspired European journals, considerable significance is attached to the statement of a member of the cabinet that no proposition would be for a moment entertained by the United States government which would not at any time negotiate a permanent settlement of the Spanish-American war. The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain. The representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from Spain.

The probable attitude of the United States to these formal colonial possessions of Spain in the future, this authority declined to discuss, but in his opinion, the complete renunciation of Spain's colonies, so far as these islands are concerned, had already become a foregone conclusion and the United States would not at any time hereafter permit Spain to enter into any negotiations regarding them.

Regarding the ultimate terms of peace which the United States may find it necessary to exact, the representative of the United States in London, Mr. G. B. Wood, is reported to have said that the United States is not prepared to discuss the terms of peace until the United States has received a formal proposal from