At noon some six hundred persons had assembled at the grounds at Loch Lomond where the big Liberal Picnic is being held today. The weather is delightful and the affair is said to be just as successful as any in the series so far held. People have driven, some in their twenty-five miles to attend. As the majority of the country residents do not turn out until afternoon the attendance promised to be very large. Speech-making began at 2 o'clock and the list of speakers include Dr. Pugsley, Mr. H. A. McKeown, Mr. E. H. McAlpine, John Keefe, and others.

Frank Carruthers, of Fairville, died this morning at Moncton where he was in the service of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Millyuns (engaging valet)—I warn you that frequently I am exceedingly ill-tempered and gruff.

PABLO SARASATE

DEAD IN EUROPE

Greatest Living Violinist Passes Away at Biarritz.

Honored by Many Crowned Heads and Made Excellency by Spanish Queen

A Composer Also.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—His Excellency Pablo Martin Melton de Sarate y Navasous, the famous violinist, died at Biarritz, France, last night. He was a Spaniard, having been born at Pamplona, in the province of Navarre. He was a cavalier of the Order of Isabella the Catholic, a distinction which carries with it the distinction of Excellency.

Sarasate divided many years with Joseph Joachim the title of premier violinist of the world. Joachim died last summer and Sarasate survived him by only a year. Both of them continued active until a short time before their deaths. Sarasate has played in this country with the same success he has found everywhere in the civilized world, while Joachim was never heard here.

Sarasate played here first with Christine Nilsson, and on his second trip, in 1895, he came with Eugene d'Albert. He not only composed music that has passed into the classic literature of the violin but his playing inspired other famous composers. Thus Max Bruch and Lalo were among the musicians who dictated compositions to him.

Much of the interest attaching to his personality arose from the fact that there have been so few of his countrymen in the world of virtuosity during recent years. Joachim painted one of his finest portraits of Sarasate and Rosini wrote on a photograph he gave to him: "To Sarasate, a giant in talent, whose modesty doubles the charm." Maria Christina when Queen Regent of Spain, presented to him with her own hands the Grand Cross of the Order of Isabella the Catholic, one of the highest honors that a Spaniard can receive from his native country. He became a commander of the order; he was an Officer of the Legion of Honor in France and a Knight of the Red Eagle in Prussia. He had six or eight decorations from the sovereigns of other countries. His medals and crosses were so numerous that he used to say he could not wear them all because they made his coat look as if it had been embroidered in colors.

Sarasate was the son of a Spanish nobleman, a landowner who played the violin in Pamplona of Pampluna, a town near the foot of the Pyrenees. He was born March 10, 1844. His genius developed early in life and he played on a small violin at the age of 5. Soon afterward he went to Madrid to study under Rodriguez and in 1854, at the age of 10, he played before Queen Isabella. She gave him a Stradivarius and rewarded him by paying for his musical education in Paris for three years.

He was then too young for the Conservatoire, however, and he was sent two years before availing himself in 1856 of the royal offer. His teachers in Paris were Delphin Alard, then director of the Conservatoire of France, and Reber, who taught him composition. He won first prize in harmony and violin, but decided to abandon composition for the more attractive career of a virtuoso when his musical education was completed.

His first public appearance anywhere as a professional artist was made at the Crystal Palace, in London, in 1861, when he was but 17 years of age. His success was instantaneous. He met Joachim in London, and the friendship which resulted remained unbroken to Joachim's death. Sarasate played in every civilized quarter of the world except Australia. Every crowned head in Europe has heard him.

During later years he made his home in the Parc Monceau quarter of Paris, in the Parc Monceau quarter of Paris, although he was treated with great honor whenever he returned to Pamplona. He was a member of the Academie des Beaux-Arts, and he was honorary member of academies and honorary professor in conservatories all over Europe. He was director of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Malaga, Spain.

THIEF ARRESTED AT DALHOUSIE

CAMPBELLTON, N. B., Sept. 23.—

Thos. Marr, recently a sailor on the Empress of Ireland, was arrested at Dalhousie yesterday morning by Chief Crawford, of Campbellton, on the charge of robbing boarding houses in the latter town. The specific charge against him is the theft of five suits of clothes valued at twenty-five dollars from Gray's boarding house. Considerable detective ability was shown by the chief in tracking down his man, who left not the slightest clue behind. He was finally located on one of the wharves at Dalhousie as he was about to take a schooner for St. John, and was taken to Campbellton to stand trial.

POLITICAL AND CLUB LIFE

IN LONDON STAGNANT

More Cabinet Changes Rumored—Many Foreign Visitors in Metropolis.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The London correspondent of the Tribune cables as follows:

London is overcrowded with foreign visitors. The Franco-British exhibition has continued to attract throngs of visitors from France, Italy and Germany and helped to make the capital more cosmopolitan than ever. French patronage has been generous than British patronage was at the time of the Paris exposition, when 1 franc admission tickets went begging for 15 centimes. The appalling entrance fees are not clipped at the turnstiles of Shoppers' Bazaar, and every evening seems a fête night, pulsating with pleasurable excitement. There is a babel of foreign tongues every night in the hotel restaurants, and Piccadilly is a masquerade of racial types.

Yet with the unusual bustle in the streets and show places the capital is singularly stagnant and stale. There are neither royalties nor ministers in sight, and the only thing to draw the nothing is talked about except General Lyautey's eulogy as the expiable sequel to the mysterious murder of his wife at Seven Oaks.

Rumors that Lord Morley will retire from the India Office in October and that Premier Asquith will be forced to reorganize his cabinet as soon as parliamentary sessions are held whisper secretly requiring contradiction. Mr.

Asquith has many social engagements in Scotland, and there is a feeling among the radicals that he is allowing the smart set to take up too much of his time when the party needs inspiring leadership.

Herbert Gladstone is held responsible for the mismanagement of the Buehar-atic procession, and there are fresh rumors that he will take a peevish and that a sound lawyer will be found for the Home Office.

The weather in Scotland has been unusually disagreeable, and the shooting season has hung fire. There have been no bags of grouse in the mountains, and the entertainment has been restricted to a few great estates. Even the presence of the Grand Cross of the Order of Isabella the Catholic, one of the highest honors that a Spaniard can receive from his native country. He became a commander of the order; he was an Officer of the Legion of Honor in

EVELYN THAW BACK

FROM SIMPLE LIFE

Despite Reports She Was Always Near New York.

Hopes to Go Ahead When Troubles are

Over—Will Never Return to Stage, She Declares.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Evelyn

Thaw returned to New York yesterday from a three weeks vacation in the country.

During her absence it was published:

First—That she is to sail for Europe on Sept. 26 for a two years automobile trip through England and the Continent.

Second—That the chauffeur who drove her daily between her hotel and the Toms during the long confinement of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, had resigned his position with an automobile company and had placed herself under complete instructions and expected to return to the stage at once for present matrimonial troubles at an end.

Fourth—That she was writing a book that would bare her life and tell more in detail of the troubles that led up to Harry Thaw's murder of Stanford

White.

Also Mrs. Thaw was reported as having been seen in Cincinnati, Detroit, Saginaw, Mich.; Boston, Mass.; Baltimore, Atlantic and Montreal.

But here is her own story of her own vacation and plans, as told to a World reporter yesterday.

"Being greatly upset by the many false stories appearing about me from time to time, I decided that I was en-itled to quietude. Thus it was I packed my grip and stole quietly away. All the time I was within a few miles from New York, and as I was not recognized I was spared many annoyances. That my vacation did me good you can see by the flush on my cheeks and horrid freckles on my nose. What is more, by the simple life I gained pounds and never felt better in my life.

"When my troubles are over I hope to go abroad for a couple of years. I am not sure if I will, but I am sure to visit. Two years there would prove just pleasurable and profitable to my health.

"As for the stage, should I live to be the thousand years old, I would never think of returning to it. One brief experience was enough. If I did return what could I do? Nothing. I might be a drawing card at first, but people would come to see me only through

OPERA COMPANY SCORES

ANOTHER BIG SUCCESS

"La Traviata" Presented Last Night in a Thoroughly Artistic Manner—A

Triumph for Miss Darling.

A splendid performance of Verdi's "La Traviata" was given before a large audience in the Opera House by the Boston Opera Company last night. The leading members of the cast were:

Violetta Valery... Miss Helen Darling

Alfredo Germont... Miss Alma Stetler

Annina... Miss G. M. Richey

George Germont... Achille Alberti

Alfred Germont... Roland Paul

Gustave de Latorieres... G. G. White

Baron Duphol... Jos. Florian

Marquis D'Olegny... C. A. Peniston

Doctor Grenvil... Francis J. Boyle

They were ably supported by the other members of the large company.

The opera, which is familiar to English audiences, in its dramatic version as "Camille" is replete with dramatic scenes and demanded acting as well as singing of a high order from the members of the cast. In both ways the company came well up to the expectations of the audience.

Miss Darling was extremely good in the role of Violetta, who realizing her own unworthiness gives up her lover and leaves him. She was heard to admirable singing of a high order from the members of the cast. In both ways the company came well up to the ex-
