

LEGISLATURE TOOK UP BILLS IN COMMITTEE

And Disposed of Many That Were Not of a Contemporary Nature.

SUCCESSION DUTIES ACT
Amendment Met With Opposition, But a Motion That

Lost on Division.

Evening Session
The bill was further considered by the committee at the evening session. Mr. Campbell said that the bill had been promoted by the civil engineers, but they had afterwards broadened its scope to take in other classes of engineers.

Hon. Mr. Veniot approved of the principle of the bill, but he was not altogether in accord with the section which proposed to exact penalties from those not connected with the association.

Mr. Burchill wanted to know if the bill would affect the standing of road supervisors.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said that road supervisors worked under the direction of a professional engineer.

Hon. Mr. Roberts thought the bill was in the interest of civil engineers but under it all kinds seemed to have been grouped.

Mr. Tilley said that the bill had been carefully considered by the Law Committee, and it had been found difficult to define exactly what was within the limitations of the work, the engineers were to do. An amendment had been prepared to confine it to professional engineers only.

Hon. Mr. Veniot did not think civil engineers had the right to include all other classes of engineers in the bill.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said that the matter had been fully discussed with a delegate of engineers who had appeared before the Law Committee.

Mr. Baxter said he had no objection to the principle of the bill but he wanted to see people protected whom he thought ought not to be hit. He did not think that there was any intention of interfering with an ordinary mechanic. He had no objection to sending the bill back to the Law Committee.

Hon. Mr. Robinson said that the petition included the names of several whom he knew to be mechanical engineers.

It was finally agreed to refer the bill back to the Law Committee for further consideration.

The bill was agreed to.

The committee took up consideration of the bill to amend the Succession Duties Act.

Mr. Baxter said that there were many educational institutions outside of the Province of New Brunswick which might benefit by bequests of residents of the province. A double duty should not apply. Just as much would be secured by bequests to institutions within New Brunswick from persons residing outside as would go from this province to outside institutions.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said Ontario had such a provision. The point had arisen in New Brunswick in connection with the estate of the late Hon. A. R. McLellan, he thought the technical attorney general had inserted the phrase in the Act especially to meet such cases. The clause should remain as it was.

Messrs. Campbell, Peck, Plender and Young objected to the proposal to reduce the minimum valuation for succession duty from $50,000 to $25,000 while the section was supported by Hon. Mr. Byrne, Hon. Mr. Foster and Messrs. Dyrart and Leblanc.

An amendment by Messrs. Peck and Young that the amount be left at $50,000 was voted down, and progress was reported.

Hon. Mr. Foster announced that the House would sit Friday and Saturday evening.

House adjourned at 11:38 p. m.

A bill to confirm the title of A. Simard, M. D., to certain lands in the town of Edmundston, and a bill to enable St. John's Church, Parish of Burton, to borrow money were agreed to.

The House went into committee, with Mr. Leger (Westmorland) in the chair, and agreed to a bill to amend the Provincial Loans Act.

Consideration was given to a bill respecting the legitimation by subsequent marriage.

Hon. Mr. Robinson said he had a letter from a lawyer suggesting that provision be made under the bill for legitimation of a child if the mother married a man other than the father.

Hon. Mr. Byrne said that would be going too far.

Mr. Tilley said the Act went far enough as it was.

Hon. Mr. Robinson said that all the suggestion really amounted to was adoption of the child by the husband of the mother.

Mr. Tilley said that could be obtained through the courts.

Mr. Baxter said that although legitimation by subsequent marriage was a new subject in New Brunswick it was old elsewhere. It had been recognized on the continent of Europe for hundreds of years. Quebec always had had it in its civil law, and two Western Provinces had adopted it. Recently in consolidating laws relating to marriage, New Brunswick had gone part of the way. The Canadian Bar Association had appointed a Commission to consider the matter, and the bill before the Committee was the work of the Commission, which was presented to all Provinces for enactment. Any change would be a departure from the desired uniformity.

WANT CASH BONUS

Ottawa, April 15.—Refusal of a further cash bonus to returned men has brought a flood of letters on members of the government. Requests are piling in for almost everything. One letter asks today for assistance in a divorce case; a second wants a motor lorry, a third requests help to get mourning for a relative.

HEARST SHOWN IN TRUE COLORS

Trying to Destroy Orderly
Government and Introduce Bolshevism.

ENVOIS OF THE ALLIES And Friendship Existing Between English Speaking Nations of World.

"That the better class of the American people and newspapers are not with Hearst in his campaign of slander against the British and Canadian peoples has been stated time and again."

The following taken from the Los Angeles Daily Times is a true manifestation of the real feeling of the great mass of our neighbors to the south:

Working behind a smoke screen of misrepresentation, false deductions and half-truths, fabricated and invented to deceive the credulous, the Hearst newspapers are sending daily pro-German and anti-British and anti-Canadian propaganda into perhaps half a million American homes. Their object is to create bad blood between this country and its Allies.

While the armies have been demoralized, the propagandists are extending and perfecting their organization. Hearst and his clique are envious of the successes that the Allies won, envious of the spirit of amity that pervades the English-speaking population of the world, envious of the triumph of law and justice over the mob spirit; and they are hoping against hope to be yet able to rob the Allies of the fruits of their victories. They are striving with a zeal worthy of a better class to foment the unrest occasioned by the war into a revolt of the proletariat that will destroy orderly government and place the free peoples of the world at the mercy of a revamped German militarism.

For instance, Sir George Paish, an English publicist, visits this country to interest American bankers in a private reconstruction plan which would tend to stabilize the currency of half a dozen nations. He arrived on December 31, 1919. On the morning of January 1, 1920, the following appeared on the first page of the Los Angeles Examiner and other Hearst papers:

"America is going to be mortgaged for half a century and perhaps longer to help out England."

"Earl Grey has not failed in his mission here, as all the papers have intimated. He has succeeded fully. His mission was supposed to be by some to ease the peace treaty through the Senate. But that was only his ostensible mission. What he came for, the real mission, was this, according to those in position to know. His object was to secure the pledge of the Wilson administration for the support of a gigantic international loan, thirteen billions. He succeeded in getting that pledge."

"The plan is understood to be that this huge loan will be handled through the Federal Reserve Bank system."

"What hope has the United States, it is asked here, of ever getting principal or interest on this $13,000,000,000 when England's own financial experts are denouncing her present financial policy and declaring that her expenses to exceed her income that she is headed for hopeless financial disaster."

"Sir George, as a financial expert, really comes here, the Examiner is informed to complete the technique banking details of the $13,000,000,000 loan, which Viscount Grey, one of the most skillful diplomats in the world, has been arranging with the Wilson administration."

Viscount Grey branded the canard as manufactured from whole cloth. He had not discussed finance with the government at Washington announced that they had never heard of any such proposed loan.

II.
After the defeat of the ratification of the peace treaty in the Senate last November the Hearst propagandists became emboldened and "tried out" their readers with editorial utterances denouncing the Allies and insinuating that the United States joined the wrong side when it entered the war in an editorial on page 12, part II, of the Los Angeles Examiner of February 10 the following appeared:

"If we had let the Germans alone they would have brought England to her knees with their submarines, and even Sims, the most prominent British admiral in the American Navy, has admitted that. . . But had we seen fit to be really so kind, we would have fit to recent British insolences and take part with Germany, the British Empire would have been vanquished as completely as is the German Empire."

In other words, "If we had only been crooked in place of being straight, we would now be in a position to make an alliance with crooks which would be greatly to our national advantage."

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

"Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't."

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of Dandruff Destroyer, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get it in almost everywhere. One letter asks today for assistance in a divorce case; a second wants a motor lorry, a third requests help to get mourning for a relative.

When the Hearst papers found that their propaganda was having the desired effect they emitted the following lurid remonstrance:

"What spell of hypnotism has held on some of you folks that you can still believe the honeyed professions of the only power that reaches out for conquest after conquest and that has never let treaties, neutralities, pledges or any regard at all for international decency and honor hinder its purpose to build a universal empire of the rule of every nation on earth— (From the Los Angeles Examiner of February 31; section II, page 10.)

Such instances could be extended. We have given just enough of them to show that the Hearst newspapers have been enlisted in a propaganda campaign having for its intent the glorification of Germany and the maligning of the Allies who fought side by side with American troops to win a victory for human liberty.

The attempt to create bad blood between us Americans and our Allies through the manufacture and circulation of malignant lies and half-truths, faintly interpreted, will not succeed. When America desires to choose her friends she certainly will not call upon the editors of the Hearst newspapers to aid her in making the selection.

IRON HAND IN VELVET GLOVE

Sir Neville Macready Regarded as Man for a Crisis.

The London Daily Express pays the following tribute to General Macready, now military director of Ireland:

"Towards the end of April, 1914, when Ireland threatened to burst into a blaze of civil war and the country waited for the outbreak in suspense, a strong man was despatched to Ulster to command the troops there and to report to the Army Council on the developments. He acquitted himself of his delicate task with the Ulster Volunteers drilling under his very nose—with such tact and skill that he earned the gratitude of the War Office without exciting hostility on either side."

"That man was General Sir Nevill Macready, now Commissioner of Metropolitan Police, who, as the Daily Express reports today, is to take military control of turbulent Ireland."

Resolution is the keynote of Sir Nevill's character, with tact and personal charm. Every industrial upheaval of the past seventeen years which required delicate handling has been his charge. He it was who dealt with the Belfast riots, the South Wales coal strike, the Tonypandy riots, the strikes at Manchester and Hull, the serious disturbances at the Curragh in 1914, and the police and railway strikes, which are a recent memory.

In every case an iron firmness marked Sir Nevill Macready's policy; yet his strength is tempered with a knowledge of human nature, and he has a reputation for democratic diplomacy.

"His military career, extending from the Egyptian campaign of 1882 to the Adjutant-Generalship of the Army in 1916, has equipped him with the qualities of a successful soldier, with a wider vision and a greater organizing capacity than the soldier as a type possesses. His charm is reflected in the esteem in which the rank and file of the Metropolitan Police hold him, to which his belief in personal contact with his men and his zeal for improving their lot have largely contributed."

"A man of iron, firm and capable. The man for a crisis."

Night Coughs
Prevent Sleep
WEAR OUT THE SYSTEM

The dry, hacking cough, cough, day and night is very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition they get no chance to heal.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy without an equal for curing coughs and colds, soothing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, strengthening and healing the breathing organs and fortifying them against serious pulmonary disease.

Mrs. Fred Fairbank, Copper Cliff, Ont., writes: "I caught a heavy cold, got a sore throat and had a terrible hacking cough that I could not get rid of. I could not sleep at night. I had tried a number of other remedies, but they did not seem to do me much good until I took Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. By the time I had taken two bottles my cough was all gone."

It seemed to loosen the cough right away so that I could spit up the phlegm that gathered in my throat, and also took this hot, raw, burning fever out of my bronchial tubes. I feel that Dr. Wood's has no equal."

And there are still two-legged birds calling themselves Americans who clamor for an alliance with Great Britain—this greedy, unscrupulous international burglar and housebreaker under the guise of a League of Nations and a covenant of peace and righteousness!"

The faked dispatch about a mythical treaty thus became the basis for a hypocritical outburst. There are clever forgers in the Hearst employ, makers of spurious currency which they palm off on the unthinking as real news.

Cautious, re-handled by the British postal authorities in using fake dispatches as a basis for slanderous propaganda, the Hearst papers sought recently to cover their rout by charging their own crime to the British. The following appeared in the Los Angeles Examiner of February 10, part II, page 12:

"Nothing in many years has been more dangerous to our country than the sentimental propaganda of British agents, paid and unpaid, fomenting domestic. It was that propaganda that entangled us in England's war. It was that propaganda that sought to make us a virtual British colony through a so-called League of Nations dominated by England."

When the Hearst papers found that their propaganda was having the desired effect they emitted the following lurid remonstrance:

"What spell of hypnotism has held on some of you folks that you can still believe the honeyed professions of the only power that reaches out for conquest after conquest and that has
