

Several Arguments Made Before The Court of Appeal

Liquor Case Heard Furnishes One of Particular Interest to Province.

Fredericton, Nov. 8.—A number of common motions were heard by the Court of Appeal this morning. The Bank of Nova Scotia at Woodstock, through A. B. Connel, K. C., moved to quash an assessment of $1,136 for 1920 upon their real and personal estate there on the ground of illegal basis. It happened that two of the members of the Appeal bench were stockholders in the bank, and Chief Justice Hazen notified the counsel that the hearing would have to be at a later date when two of the judges of the King's Bench Division would take their places. The case will stand till the February sittings.

On motion of Mr. Toed, K. C., in James H. Byrne, plaintiff, vs. James H. McFarland, defendant, title to his estate was extended till the February court. The case was tried before Judge Chandler and an affidavit of H. W. Robertson was read by which it appeared that delay occurred in transmission of stenographic reports. D. Mullin, K. C., moved in George E. Fletcher vs. Annie Barnes, defendant, respondent for title likewise. The case had been tried by Chief Justice Hazen and it had been decided that $515 of funds in bank were the property of defendant Fletcher, and not of his wife. While proceeding with the motion, Chief Justice Hazen inquired if he had received a letter purporting to be signed by the husband, saying that there was a settlement between the parties. Counsel answered that he had practically left it with his client to do what he might choose. He had received no notification. The matter was left for further inquiry.

In Joseph P. Morin vs. The Hammond Lumber Co., an affidavit of J. F. Michael, M. P. P., was read by P. J. Hughes for plaintiff, who moved for time to appeal a verdict has been awarded defendant on trial before Judge Barry. The court granted till next sittings of court.

The case of particular interest at this court, that of the Canadian Distributing Co. vs. J. B. Hawthorne, Inspector and the Attorney General of New Brunswick, was taken up on motion of F. R. Taylor, K. C. This is the appeal to decide whether under section 14 of the Excise Act, a permit to carry a motor car used as a common carrier of intoxicating liquor, and counsel moved for an injunction to restrain Inspector Hawthorne from seizing or interfering with the motor car. Affidavits of Roy A. Davidson, solicitor for applicant, as well as Percy H. Hand, Mr. Robinson, were read in support of the appeal. Dr. Wallace, K. C., and William M. Ryan appeared for the defendants and they submitted affidavits of Mr. Ryan (of counsel) and Alex. Crawford. Other affidavits were read, among them one of Jas. B. Dever, solicitor for Percy H. Hand in rejoinder.

Argument in the case of the Canadian Distributing Company vs. John B. Hawthorne, Chief Inspector and the Attorney General of New Brunswick was completed this afternoon. Court considers.

In Workmen's Compensation Board vs. Bathurst Co., Ltd., the first case on the docket, G. Gilbert, K. C., and M. G. Toed, K. C., appeared for the defendant company to support appeal from judgment against the company. For the board W. B. Wallace, K. C., objected to this case being heard on the motion paper. The court decided to hear the case. M. G. Toed, K. C., argued and the case was unfinished when court arose.

STAGE-STRUCK WIFE MARRIES HER SHOWMAN

Elopement Has Sequel in Court, Ending in Reconciliation.

New York, Nov. 8.—Found guilty of bigamy by a jury in the Court of Special Sessions, Jersey City, this afternoon, Mrs. Helen J. Townsend, 30, Kearns, young and attractive, dropped to her knees on the floor of the courtroom, and while tears trickled down her pretty cheeks begged her husband, Elsworth Townsend, chief crew despatcher of the New York Central Railroad, to forgive her. And he did.

Clasping her in his arms, Townsend, who had traced his wife from Corning, N. Y., where they were married just eight months ago, to Grove street, Jersey City, and had her arrested and prosecuted, begged Justice James McCarthy to permit him to care for her.

"I love her, and always will," said Townsend, his voice choking with emotion, "and if you permit her to go I shall be responsible for her."

Several jurors were seen to wipe their eyes before they brought in a verdict of guilty, and they asked the court to be lenient.

Mrs. Townsend is twenty-two years old. At Corning, when she was twenty, she was voted the prettiest girl. Many tempting offers were made to have her appear in moving pictures, but her parents steadfastly refused to permit her.

Last March she was married to Townsend and they went to live at 53 Market street, in Corning.

All went well until July, when a carnival was held, at which a special show was given under the management of Harry Kearns, a showman from Michigan. Mrs. Townsend's romantic life from the time she met Kearns until she was arrested in Jersey City was related by her in court today.

"I was lonesome at night when my husband had to be on duty," said Mrs. Townsend. "When the circus came to town I met Mr. Kearns and told him I was single. It's all my fault, for Harry did not know. You moves or go on the stage, and I thought that it was a good chance for me."

Gagetown Didn't Take Kindly To Farmer Perkins

Spoke to Small Audience Who Were More Amused Than Instructed.

Gagetown, N. B., Nov. 4.—The Farmers' party had a honor of firing the first gun in Queens County when on Wednesday evening they held a political meeting in the Temperance Hall, at which G. Harold Perkins, of Norton, the Farmers' candidate for Royal, G. Thompson, a Scotchman recently arrived here from the old country, and Geo. W. Dinges, of Gagetown, were the speakers.

The hall was about a third full. Although ladies had been especially requested to attend, only two or three were present at the meeting.

Mr. Perkins, the chief speaker, occupied considerable time reading the constitution of the Farmers' party. He admitted that he had never been much of a farmer himself; but submitted a temporary array of promises to his supporters, including a new cold storage for farmers, and potato ware-houses, to be built in St. John. Some of his hearers, who were practical farmers, were somewhat sceptical of his ability to handle farmers' problems and farmers' money, when he told of killing fifty hogs and taking them to St. John for sale, without previously having arranged for a market for them.

Gagetown audiences are sometimes inclined to be rather apathetic; but on Wednesday evening an unusual amount of banter passed between the platform and the audience, so much so, in fact, that the speakers became so heavy that one of the deputy sheriffs was obliged to ask if the deputy sheriff was in the audience.

The barn owned by Mrs. James E. Coy, of Upper Gagetown, which was burned on the Canning interval last Wednesday evening, contained 15 tons of hay, owned by Bille Randall, also of Upper Gagetown. The barn and hay were a complete loss.

BULLET REMOVED FROM BRAIN OF PRISON LIFER

Surgeon, Recently Stricken With Paralysis, Performed Operation from Wheelchair

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Removal of a bullet which had been imbedded for several years in the brain of Robert Leonardowski, a life prisoner at Sing Sing, was attended by such success that it is expected he will be returned to the prison shortly from Danmore state hospital. He was removed to that institution when he displayed fits of insane violence many months ago. Leonardowski, hospital physicians say, shows marked physical and mental improvement.

The bullet was removed by Dr. William L. Chapman of New York City, who suffered a stroke of paralysis after he had given his promise to operate. In consequence Dr. Chapman performed the delicate operation from a wheelchair, aided by two assistants. The bullet, which hospital physicians believed to have been the primary cause of criminal tendencies in Leonardowski, was found imbedded in the brain tissue.

Leonardowski was convicted of murder.
