

WHAT IS THE ACTING PREMIER GOING TO DO ABOUT THIS?

Various Charges Made by E. S. Carter, Liberal Organizer, Against W. H. Berry Late of Boston, But Now of Oak Bay, Cannot Be Allowed to Pass

Announcement of the Dugal report for many weeks, and the whisper in certain circles that further concealment is contemplated, will tend additional interest in a new series of charges brought to the attention of Attorney-General Clarke by the Premier's office.

These new charges are either true or untrue. They are being investigated and demands that they be investigated so thoroughly as to prove or disprove them. Under date of November 13 the Premier's office published an explanatory article, putting it squarely up to Hon. Mr. Clarke.

The public announcement of the report of William H. Berry to the public seems to have created a sensation. The man who fled from New Brunswick the very day the royal commission began its work, after a conference the day before with Premier Fleming on the train between Mead and St. Stephen, the man who refused to obey the order of the royal commission to attend and give evidence; the man who later returned to Canada and remained just across the border line almost listening to the revelations against his premier and the head of his department, as though the investigation closed against him turns to his home and says: "What are you going to do about it?"

It remains to be seen whether he will remain in Canada, or whether he will publicly make against him by Liberal Organizer E. S. Carter, of having been a party to defrauding the provincial revenues of $2,000,000. In plain language this money was stolen from the Crown Land Department and the government cannot refuse to investigate and prosecute the man who is charged with the misdemeanor.

In Mr. Carter's interview with The Telegraph on Wednesday, he stated in broad but without detail. Since then many of these of a convincing character have been obtained.

The Dalhousie Lumber Company, which is a subsidiary company of the International Paper Company, has its headquarters in Boston, where it operated, and in July, 1912, received its stamp bill from the Crown Land Department through the chief scaler, W. H. Berry. The amount of the bill was $1,812,807.76. Total, $2,000,000.

The Dalhousie Lumber Company contended that the bills were large—too large in fact—and that the Crown Land Department for $19,419,071, which they contended was all that was due the province. They received a receipt on account, No. 7844.

The Crown Land Department contended that the Dalhousie Lumber Company owned and operated the sawmills, whose integrity all will vouch for, owes it to himself to have this matter cleared up and the guilty man punished.

addressed serious until last Sunday, when he became seriously ill. He died at 10 o'clock on Sunday.

Colonel O'Grady leaves a widow, six sons and two daughters. Two of his sons, Gerald and William, are with the Canadian contingent in Salonica.

Colonel O'Grady married a daughter of the late Colonel Mansfield, who for many years in command of the militia of this province.

James Cunningham.

Hampton, Nov. 15.—The death of James Cunningham occurred at his residence, Hampton (N. B.), Thursday, Nov. 12, aged sixty years. He is survived by his wife. Funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. from his late residence.

Mrs. Martha Whiteley.

The death of Mrs. Martha Whiteley, widow of Lewis Whiteley, occurred Friday night. She was eighty-seven years of age. She was a native of New Brunswick. A short funeral service was held Saturday evening at her late residence, 100 St. John street, and the body was taken on the Boston train for burial at Forest Hills (Mass.).

Joseph Wallace.

Sussex (N. B.), Nov. 16.—(Special.)—Joseph Wallace, a respected citizen of Sussex, and known as the proprietor of the Sussex House, died this evening at 9 o'clock at his residence, Main street, aged 53 years. Bright's disease was the cause of death. Mr. Wallace previous to his coming to Sussex was a lumber business at Shipway Road near Bay Shore. He is survived by a wife, two daughters, Florence A. and Elsie B., and a son, Walter S. all at home.

Mrs. A. H. Eaton.

Mrs. R. Morton Smith yesterday received the sad news of the death of her sister, Mrs. A. H. Eaton, who passed away on Saturday at her home, Baltimore (Md.). The deceased was a daughter of the late Rev. William Smith. She leaves to mourn one other sister, Mrs. Sadie, also of this city, who left the latter part of the week to be at her sister's bedside.

Thomas B. Evans.

Bathurst, N. B., Nov. 16.—(Special.)—Thomas B. Adams died at 7 o'clock this morning. The late Mr. Adams has been one of the most prominent citizens of Bathurst for many years, having been the president of the Orange Order, and which was, until a few years ago, one of the largest lodges in the province. He was a man of high character and a devoted member of the Orange Order. He is survived by a wife and several children.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

WEDDINGS

Thompson-Whitcomb.

Friday, Nov. 13.

Douglas Thomson (Thompson) and Louisa Whitcomb were united in matrimony at 8 o'clock this evening at the residence of Mrs. Frank B. Noble, at the Victoria street parlour last evening at 8:30 o'clock. The bride was Miss Louisa Whitcomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Noble, and the groom was Douglas Thomson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Noble.

Grey-MacKenzie.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of E. J. Benn, Waterloo street, Wednesday evening, when Roy Cecil Grey and Miss Mary Elizabeth MacKenzie were united in the bonds of matrimony. The bride was accompanied by her bridesmaids, Misses Mary Elizabeth MacKenzie and Miss Mary Elizabeth MacKenzie, and the groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. B. Noble.

Friday, Nov. 13.

Many friends in St. John will be interested in an event which took place in the Mount Pleasant Presbyterian Church, Vancouver, on Tuesday evening, November 10, when Miss Vera Amette, daughter of Mrs. Mary L. Penton, of that city, became the bride of a former St. John boy, Harold Stanley Cunningham. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. John Woodside, in the presence of many intimate friends. Miss Amette is a highly educated young lady, and Mr. Cunningham is a well-to-do merchant. They were both born in St. John.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A wedding of interest to many friends took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. R. Bradbury, when Miss Madeline C. Bradbury became the bride of Charles F. Pittman, of this city. The bride was given away by Alfred F. Webb. She wore a gown of white silk and carried a bouquet of white roses. After the ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served. The bride received many handsome and useful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Pittman will reside at 12 St. Andrews street.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

Friday, Nov. 13.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Calgary by the Rev. Mr. Black, when Miss Marie Black and Mr. J. H. Black were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by many friends. The bride wore a beautiful gown and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom was accompanied by his best man, Mr. J. H. Black.

SCUFFLING WITH A PRINCE COST A RUNNER A LEG

Campbellton (N. B.), Nov. 15.—(Special.)—Frank Chierling of this town met with a serious accident on Saturday which has cost him the loss of one of his legs.

Young Chierling was on a duck-shooting party with a number of friends. Two of the men of the party got scuffling with a gun which was accidentally discharged, hitting Chierling in the leg of Chierling, shattering the bone. The young man was brought to Hotel Dieu hospital, where the limb was amputated. Frank Chierling is a well-known citizen of Campbellton, and was working for the Dominion Bridge Co., and who was employed with the same firm at the time of the accident. He was with a party of friends on Saturday when the accident occurred. He was visiting some friends in town and went out to bring an armful of wood. He was returning to his home, a small dog tripped him, causing him to fall from a tree, twisting his leg under him and breaking it. He is being attended at Hotel Dieu hospital.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

Monday, Nov. 16.

Dr. W. F. Roberts said last night that he had been called to hold an inquest into the death of Roland Carter, the victim of the drowning in Courtenay Bay Saturday morning, whose body was found on the shore of the bay. He pointed out the fact that Carter and H. Sederquist, the other victim, were accidentally drowned in the launching of the boat as they were in the water. The boat was with a broken leg, seen at the hospital, said last night that the report of the tragedy as given was substantially correct. Seven men despaired of their lives on the dredge attempted to launch the boat. Four were already in it when it was thrown overboard. Adams and Sederquist were seen again and Gegg himself was thrown against the side of the dredge breaking his leg. The fourth man grasped the tow line and was able to get on board. During the height of the gale that night, the boat was in the middle of the bay, and the other officers who were in another part were not at all anxious for the safety of the dredge, as it is usually the case when the boat is in the middle of the bay. The captain of the boat at one time made their position even worse than they apparently thought it was on the dredge and was engaged to Miss Beatrice Macaulay, daughter of James Macaulay, 112 Orange street, from where the funeral will be held on Friday.

FEAR AUDACIOUS HAS BEEN LOST

(Continued from page 1.)

been hit by a mine and had gone down. Upon reflection, the men concluded there were breaking no faith with the government, as the facts had now come to light, and consented to tell what they knew. The story of Beames, who was helped out from time to time by Griffiths, was substantially as follows:

"We had been out on a big battleship on Oct. 27. The land was Tory Island. An hour later we came below, and the crew was ordered to get up on deck and see the two lovely warships. The passengers soon got wind of the presence of the vessel, and there was much uneasiness among them.

"Flying a Distress Signal.

"As soon as the steward told us about the warships, we ran upon deck. The day was dark and cloudy and a stiff westerly gale was blowing. Off our starboard side we saw a big battleship down by the stern and heavy seas breaking over her.

"It was the code flag, a distress signal. "As we approached, the other warship, which we learned later was the Audacious, was seen to be in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the Audacious, and then we saw her in a position of high speed across our bows. Hardly had she crossed when she turned and crossed and kept up this sort of serpentine motion for some time. It seemed at first as if she were trying deliberately to keep in the way of the Audacious as a means of making her stop. It was not until we were within a few miles that we saw the