

Canadian Poultry Review.

DEVOTED TO POULTRY AND PET STOCK.

Vol. 8.

STRATHROY, ONTARIO, JUNE, 1885.

No. 6.

WHITE COCHINS.

It is a matter of surprise to us that this beautiful variety is not more extensively bred than it is. No one, be he fancier or not, who has an eye for the beautiful, but will be struck with the appearance of a well bred flock of White Cochins on a green lawn. Their pure white plumage, bright red combs and wattles, great size and fine carriage, make a very attractive sight indeed. No other variety we have is more docile or contented in confinement. The hens are good hatchers.