

Forest wealth of Canada.

these logs, however, appear in our returns in the forest exports from New Brunswick "not the produce of Canada," and in the United States returns there is a special report of the imports from New Brunswick of the produce from Maine logs. The amounts are rather larger than in the Canadian export returns, but the variation may easily be due to difference of valuation by the Customs authorities. (See Table 12*d*.)

Appended are the following tables, covering twelve years:—

Table (a.) Exports of logs to United States, quantities and value.

(b.) United States imports from Canada—"wood unmanufactured."

(c.) Imports of logs from United States, and export of logs from United States to Canada.

(d.) Exports from New Brunswick—products of Maine logs and United States returns of such imports.
