

THE FARM.

"To be a good traveler," writes a favorite essayist, "argues one no ordinary philosopher. A sweet landscape must come to be allowed to atone for an indifferent supper, and an interesting ruin charm away the remembrance of a hard bed."

There is not the slightest doubt that, however we may differ as to ruins and inns, we now must have roads, for it is certain that we are about to enter upon a new era of travel. That any era of travel should be inaugurated minus the horse would have appeared to Don Quixote the very paradox of paradoxes.

That we are on the threshold of a wholly novel dispensation is, therefore, manifest. As nature is fond of reversions to early types, the new horseless carriage, when brought to approximate perfection, will no doubt revive the leisure of the old stage coach, without its lumbering gait and its long delays at disagreeable places for fresh horses and refrained men.

But good roads are indispensable for a propitious entry of the new era of travel. As the wheels will have to depend upon the ordinary roadbed without the aid of rails, it will be necessary to adapt grades to the new motor's power of resistance. The roads of the old world are the least in the world.

But perhaps I am getting too far from the question to get a glimpse into the dairy department, and our heading would not look well in the social, economic, and political columns of the business press.

The Care of Milk. Milk from a healthy cow, fed on good food, is unquestionably perfect, and it is appalling to think of the amount of money wasted by the careless handling of this product of the "mother of the earth."

A Hint for Hubby. Mr. D'Avno (holly)—I should think you'd know better than to leave your seat in such an exposed place. The first thing that comes along would see it.

London Chimes. On the Royal Exchange at London the chimes have played the same four times for fifty years. They recently broke down and new chimes have been put up which will play twenty-one times during the week, three times a day: English, Scotch and Irish airs on week days and psalm tunes on Sundays.

Landlady—I don't know what I shall do there's no water for the dishwasher. Star Board.—Why not use this coffee?

Top Boarding a Stone Wall.

Many of the pastures in the older parts of the country are bounded by stone walls which are rarely built so as to turn sheep and not always cattle. Driving stakes beside the wall and nailing a top board to these does not bring the board in the right position over the top of the wall.

Home Dairy.

One of the strongest arguments against the home dairy is that the time of home manufacturing is past; that the tendency of all manufacturers has been toward the factory in a small way at first, but gradually combining and consolidating until everything is manufactured on a large scale.

Mrs. Mary Johnson.

Ayer's Pills

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for months, and always derived the benefits from their use."

For Stomach

and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equalled. When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach,

Liver, or Bowels,

my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season they will break up a bilious, cold, green, cholic fever, and cleanse the bowels, and give the system a new lease of life.

Are the best all-round family medicine I have ever known. Mrs. MARY JOHNSON, 202 RIVER AVE., NEW YORK CITY.

How a Talkative Woman Was Quieted.

The story told about the doctor who got a talkative lady to put out her tongue, and who, after she had protested that he had been writing all the time, and had not looked at her tongue at all, replied that he had merely made the remark in order to get a moment of quiet to write a prescription in, called out a companion story from a dentist. "One day," he said, "a young lady came to me for some dentistry. Her mother came with her, and remained sitting on a sofa in the room. As she sat there, she talked so incessantly that I became nervous, and hardly knew whether I was conducting the operation properly. Presently the woman began to talk about her own teeth, and to complain of a certain vague distress that she often felt in them. I saw that my opportunity had come. I called the lady to the chair, looked at her teeth, and then applied a liberal brushing upon the chest and back, penetrating the skin, is absorbed and carried directly to the lungs, where it immediately contact with the whole mass of circulating blood, it neutralizes or expels those impurities, which are the foundation of consumption, asthma, bronchitis, pneumonia, and similar complaints. On the appearance of the first consumptive symptoms the back and chest of the patient should be treated with warm brine, dried with a coarse cloth, and Holloway's Ointment then well rubbed in. Its absorption will subside advancing symptoms, and banish this formidable foe."
