QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Veterinary.

INDOLENT SORE.

Colt got stuck in fence, and got leg hurt, both above and below hock. The upper wound has healed, but the lower one has not, and there is an enlargement that people tell me is proud flesh.

J. H.

Ans.—Apply butter of antimony with a feather once daily, until the proud flesh disappears. Then, keep clean, and dress, three times daily, with a five-per-cent. solution of carbolic acid in water. V.

SWOLLEN JAWS.

Calf, ten months old, has had swollen jaws for two days. The swellings are on both sides, involving both jaw and neck, and it has difficulty in breathing, but eats and drinks all right.

J. B.

Ans.—Apply hot poultices, or bathe long and often with hot water, and, after bathing, rub with a liniment composed of equal parts spirits of ammonia, raw linseed oil, and oil of turpentine. Then cover warmly with flannel cloths. If matter forms, lance, and allow its escape, and flush the cavity out, twice daily, with a five-per-cent. solution of carbolic acid. V.

MARE PERSPIRES TOO FREELY.

Pregnant mare, while standing in the stable after working, perspires very freely, especially about the head and fetlocks. The perspiration freezes on the forelock on cold nights. She does not suffer.

N. M.

Ans.—It is hard to say why an animal should perspire more freely from one place rather than another, but such is occasionally noticed. You need not be alarmed about it. You may be able to check it by dressing the parts well, twice daily, with corrosive sublimate, 1½ drams; solid extract of belladonna, 2 ounces, and water, 1 gallon. Heat to 160 degrees Fahr. before applying. V.

FATALITY IN CALVES.

Spring calves still nursing their dams and fed clover hay, turnips and three gallons whole oats, twice daily for ten calves, and apparently doing well; in October, one took sick and died in twenty-four hours. Three weeks ago, another took sick. I sent for my veterinarian, who thought some oats had got into the windpipe. This one died in twelve hours. Two weeks ago, another took sick, and the veterinarian cannot tell what is wrong. It has trouble in swallowing. I am keeping it alive by drenching with warm milk, which it swallows with difficulty.

W. A. B.

Ans.—The symptoms given are not sufficiently definite to enable me to give a definite opinion. If any more die, get your veterinarian to hold a post-mortem. I am of the opinion the trouble is digestive. Purge all the living ones with 4 ounces Epsom salts; then reduce the grain ration. Get the oats finely chopped, and sift the hulls out, and feed less. If the throat is sore, rub well, twice daily, for three or four days, with a liniment composed of equal parts liquor of ammonia, oil of turpentine, and raw linseed oil. V.

SUPPURATIVE MAMMITIS—ABORTION.

1. Mare became lame in hind leg, and that side of her mammary became swollen and sore. I bathed with hot water; the mammary broke and discharged matter; the lameness disappeared, and the swelling is almost gone. Will it be safe to breed her in the spring?

2. I have bred a mare twice. In both cases, in three or four months after conception, the mammary enlarged, wax formed on the ends of teats, and in two or three weeks she aborted.

A. M.

Ans.—1. The lameness was caused by the mammary trouble, which occasionally occurs without apparent cause. If any more abscesses form, lance them, and then flush the cavities out, twice daily, with a five-per-cent. solution of carbolic acid until healed. Give her 30 drops carbolic acid, mixed with a pint of water, and sprinkled on her food, twice daily for three weeks. It will be safe to breed her.

2. Occurrences of this kind are unexplainable, and very hard to control. After breeding her again, give her regular but light work, and feed little grain. If the former symptoms appear, give her 1 dram iodide of potash, three times daily for ten days, and keep her as quiet as possible on dry food. V.

Bog Spavin

Cure the lameness and remove the bunch without scarring the horse—have the part looking just as it did before the blemish came.

Fleming's Spavin Cure (Liquid) is a special remedy for soft and semi-solid blemishes—Bog Spavin, Thoroughpin, Splint, Orb, Capped Hock, etc. It is neither a liniment nor a simple blister, but a remedy unlike any other—doesn't irritate and can't be imitated. Easy to use, only a little required, and your money back if it ever fails.

Fleming's Vest-Pocket Veterinary Adviser

describes and illustrates all kinds of blemishes, and gives you the information you ought to have before ordering or buying any kind of a remedy. Mailed free if you write. FLEMING BROS., Chemists, 45 Church Street, Toronto, Ontario
