

ARMAN SHOT DEAD IN FLAT

Startling Story is Told By Accused Woman's Maid— Photo as a Target.

Further evidence was given at the resumed inquest at Westminster on Friday concerning the death of the young aviator, Julian Barnard Hall, who was found shot in his flat at Coventry Mansions, Denman street, W.

The young woman Jeannie Baxter who is charged with causing his death was not present in court, but was represented by Mr. Valetta, who stated that in spite of two or three efforts to obtain from her a full and coherent statement she had been unable to supply such. It was therefore impossible to obtain from her sufficient information to enable him adequately to cross-examine witnesses.

Teresa Pantanello, an Italian girl, who had been employed by Jeannie Baxter at Carlton Mansions, Maiden Vale, was called.

The coroner: Did you ever see a man called Unwin?

No, but I saw letters from him. My mistress told me he had supported her for two or three years, and then he bought a house in the country to take her to live there. He told her he could not marry her until his mother was dead.

Revolver Shots
The girl then narrated a story which she said Mrs. Baxter had told her just before Christmas:

"Mr. Unwin had bought a house for her in the country and had come to London to take her away. On the same evening Mr. Hall came to say good-bye, because he was going away for a fortnight. Mr. Unwin was there, and that was the first time the two gentlemen met. Mr. Hall was very drunk. He brought two revolvers from his pocket and put them on the table. Then he took one and started whistling over the top of the barrel.

"Mr. Unwin was afraid he would shoot himself and tried to take it away. Mr. Hall said: 'Don't worry; I'm not going to shoot myself. Then he wanted to take the second revolver. He said that each should light a cigarette, switch the light off, and then fire at each other in the darkness, being guided by the cigarette light. Mr. Unwin refused and then Mr. Hall took the revolver and shot at Mr. Unwin's photo. The bullet went through the head of the photo, and hit a bottle of champagne. "Then Mr. Hall shot at Mrs. Baxter's photo and afterwards pointed the revolver over his shoulder and fired backwards through the sitting room door. After that Mr. Unwin and Mr. Hall became friends. Mr. Hall slept on the hearthrug that night and both men went away together the next morning."

Dr. Bernard H. Spilsbury, pathologist, who made the post mortem examination, asked by the coroner if the wound in the chest could have been self-inflicted, replied: "It is just possible. It might have been with a revolver held in the right hand. It could not have been done with a revolver held in the left hand."

He demonstrated with the revolver produced how Hall would have held the revolver had he inflicted the injury himself, and said it would have been very difficult. In fact he (witness) could not pull the trigger with the revolver in such a position.

The coroner said he thought it was practically impossible for Hall to have caused the wound in the chest.

When the inquiry was resumed on Thursday Mr. Valetta remarked that since last hearing he had had an opportunity of questioning the witnesses at the police court, and he therefore did not propose to waste the time of the court and jury by further cross-examination.

The coroner said that being so, it was only left for him to sum up. The jury returned a verdict of willful murder against Jeannie Baxter, who was committed for trial on the coroner's warrant.

NOBODY CAN TELL IF YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Druggist Says When Mixed With Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching, and falling hair. A few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Remedy" thus avoiding a lot of fuss. Some druggists make their own, but it isn't nearly so nice as "Wyeth's." While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally; so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this to-night, and by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two it will be restored to its natural color and be even more glossy, soft and luxuriant than ever.

Local druggists say they are selling lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur"; it surely helps folks appear years younger.

SODA BISCUITS

Perfect Service

We have been making an unexcelled Soda Biscuit, and to be assured that its oven-given flavor and crispness would be preserved for any reasonable time, we have just installed a series of machines (for which we have the sole Canadian right) which perfectly accomplish this purpose. The first of these machines forms and lines the package with pure wax paper, the second closes, and the third wraps labels and attaches the end seal, all being done automatically, the goods scarcely being touched by human hands. The box itself is made of waterproof fibre, impregnated under pressure with the purest wax, and when completed forms a package that is airtight and absolutely impervious to dust and moisture, keeping the biscuits crisp, full flavored, and as perfect as they leave our ovens.

Queen Sodas

are made from a higher grade flour than generally used, the best of creamery butter—in fact the best of everything (we pay more to get the best), are baked in a sunny, sanitary factory, and are packed by our new machines and made ready for the consumer in just eight minutes from the time they leave our ovens. Our end seal trade mark P.S. is attached to all Queen Soda packages, and is a positive guarantee of Perfect Service, a proper synonym for Paterson's Sodas.
