Constitutional Revolution.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
The constitutional revolutions appear to be an accomplished fact. Britain in future will be governed practically by the House of Commons with its hereditary upper house, possessing only a veto with a time limit of two years. The peers find their one gleam of hope in the prediction that the next Conservative Government will overturn Asquith's revolution, and restore the old condition, but the radicals are confident that in such matters the hands of the clock never turn back. Yesterday the future career of the bill was apparent to all politicians, and its eventual acceptance by the lords not doubted. Mr. Asquith dispelled all clouds by communicating informally to Mr. Balfour the substance of the announcement he will make on Monday, in the House of Commons. The Prime Minister stated that the King had agreed to such measures as were necessary to secure the passage of the bill.

A Hot Spell.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
London is sweeter with the hottest weather for five years, the temperature reaching 88 in the shade. Mr. Justice Williams' presiding over the Appeal Court made an almost unprecedented sacrifice of judicial dignity to comfort by doffing his wig and permitting baristers to follow suit. The hot spell has now been unbroken for two weeks. London is threatened with an ice famine and thousands of people are flocking to the seaside. There have been no rainfalls in the greater part of the country districts for three weeks and farmers are complaining of ruined crops.

Germany on the Grab

Special Evening Telegram.
PARIS, To-day.
The Franco-German conversations regarding Morocco, have not developed a basis of settlement, and seem only to have disclosed the German programme of compensation, which the French Government resolutely refuses to accept, because no French Statesman can agree to France ceding the coast and the interior of the French Congo to the Sangha river area of two hundred thousand square miles and her revisionary rights over the Congo Free State. As one way out of the approaching deadlock, France, Britain and Russia may suggest another International Moroccan Conference should Germany continue her warship at Agader.

Church Discusses Suicide Burial.

London, July 17.—The question of the burial of suicides, with or without the full rites of the Church of England, has been occupying the attention of the Upper House of Convocation of Canterbury, the reason being that it had been represented to it from many quarters that the cause for the alarming increase of suicides in recent years was due to a widespread belief that burial with full rites of the Church was not likely to be withheld in any case in which the verdict of felo-de-se was not given.

It is not the case that the bodies of suicides have hitherto been taken into the Church on all occasions, it being left very much to the discretion of the officiating clergymen to act as they thought fit; but the Bishops have now declared that it is desirable to permit the bodies of suicides to have the burial service read over them in church before being committed to the grave, with certain deletions from the service, except "in any case in which a clergyman may be compelled to believe that serious harm may result in the parish," in which case "he shall bring the matter before the Bishop of the diocese, and be guided by his judgment."

Moroccan Situation.

Grave Speech by Lloyd George
Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day.
Addressing a banquet of benefactors in London, Mr. Lloyd George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, referred to Britain's continually growing prosperity, which could be arrested only by a disturbance of the world's peace. He was ready to make great sacrifices to preserve peace, and he would rejoice at the success of the arbitration negotiations with the States, but it was essential that Britain at all hazards should maintain her prestige among the great Powers. If a situation were forced upon Britain where peace could only be preserved by a humiliating surrender of the position she had won by centuries of heroism and achievement by allowing herself to be treated where vital interests were concerned as though she were of no account in the cabinet of the nation, peace at that price would be a humiliation intolerable to any great country like England to endure. National honour, said Mr. Lloyd George, and security of industrial trade are not party questions. The Peace of the World is more likely to be secured if all the nations of the world realize fairly what the conditions of peace must be. This speech made a deep impression as Mr. Lloyd George seldom makes incursions into the domain of foreign politics. The audience interpreted the speech to mean that the Moroccan situation was serious enough to have caused the Cabinet to debate the question of the Exchequer to take the opportunity the banquet afforded of affirming the standpoint of the Government.

Rod and Gun.

"Following the fur trails" a story of the far North of interest to every Canadian, opens the July number of ROD AND GUN IN CANADA, published by W. J. Taylor Ltd., Woodstock, Ont. In this story Mr. R. J. Fraser, who is engaged on the Hydrographic Survey, relates interesting incidents of the eight months' stay of the party engaged in survey work in the neighborhood of Hudson's Bay and tells of an attack upon the Camp of Polar bears. He gives particulars of fine trapping in which the party engaged and the excellent results of this portion of their work. The strenuous outdoor journey from Fort Nelson, Winnipeg supplies excellent reading. There is much variety in the other stories, both fishermen and hunters receiving due attention and stories and experiences from the far East as well as from the far West are included. They hunt on horseback in British Columbia showing the difference in the conditions between those prevailing in that Province and those existing in Eastern and Central Canada. There is much more of interest to every sportsman in this number. It should be found in every summer camp, no pleasure companion for a while away a pleasant hour is needed.

Daring Operation Great Success.

Woman Paralyzed Seven Years is Cured by Removal of Tumor.
New-York, July 14. — Paralyzed from the hips down for more than seven years as the result of a slight fall, Mrs. I. H. Shrat, of Union Hill, N. J., is now regaining power to walk by a most daring operation on the spinal cord. The operation which is said to have been the first of its kind, consisted of cutting a small tumor from the spinal cord and an osseous growth from the spine itself. The novelty of the operation lies in the fact that, while it is not very rare for surgeons to operate upon the spine, this, it is declared, is the first case in this city, at least, where the scalpel has been applied to the spinal cord itself.

Suicide at Shearstown.

Herbert Holmes, of Shearstown, near Bay Roberts, hanged himself there in his outhouse last night. His wife found him there dead this morning with the noose of a rope round his neck. His knees were almost touching the floor. Deceased, who is 28 years old and unmarried, had been showing signs of lunacy the past few weeks. He threatened twice to drown himself but was turned away from his purpose by his friends. When the household had retired last night and all were asleep, he evidently crept out to the store and put an end to his own life. Messages conveying the above news were also received by Inspector General Sullivan, the Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings.

The Case of Frank Cash

Frank Cash of Monkstown Road has been working on the Sanitary staff of the Municipal Council for over a quarter of a century and recently became disabled through paralysis practically falling at his work. He lost one son not long since of consumption and some years ago another died abroad so that he was left the only support of his wife and daughter. He was a faithful, steady worker and has asked for a pension from the Council. But the Council yesterday at their meeting on the advice of the solicitor cut him off with nothing. Every man who toils with his hands in this city is talking to-day of this treatment meted out to a poor laborer who breaks down in the service. In the past liberal pensions were granted to servants when they came disabled. Why should different treatment be accorded a poor laborer? This is the question many would like answered.

Impaled on Knife.

New York, July 15.—"Not hurt, but please take this knife out of my heart," fifteen-year-old Helen Windsor moaned as Mrs. Winman found her prostrate on the floor of their apartment kitchen last night. The girl, while playing with her pet dog, had fallen and impaled herself upon a potato knife which she was playfully brandishing. The pale stricken mother drew out the knife and ran screaming for a doctor. Returning she found the girl dead half way up the hall stair, where she had drawn herself.

The Illuminations.

In the matter of the Illuminations as an adjunct to the welcome afforded the Federal Delegates, the people of St. John's lived up to their best traditions in this respect. The illuminations were the principal feature of the display and seldom has the like been witnessed in St. John's. Over the gate leading to the Avondale Park Palace was the new "Welcome" in scintillating points of electric light. The electrical decorations to the arch of St. John the Baptist at the entrance to the grounds of the R. C. Cathedral were superb. This classic structure was outlined in red, white and blue electric lights, the Christian pillars which supported it being outlined as well as its other features, while the cross held in the hand of the collar statue of the Baptist was traced in electric light. The motto "Vivat Plus P. P. Decimus" blazed forth on the front of the arch, and the scene was indeed a beautiful one. The others halls illuminated were the B. I. S., the windows of which were were ablaze with thousands of candles; the Star of the Sea Hall, which was also resplendent with light and the roof of which was suspended a bright electric row, terminating in colored stars, the whole being surmounted by a large electric cross. The hall of the T. A. & B. Society presented a very handsome appearance. The facade fronting on Duckworth Street was picked out in electric bulbs, and in the centre were the words "Greetings of T. A. & B. S. to the Apostolic Delegate," done in pink, white and green bulbs. The Mechanical Society made a very pretty display at their hall. The windows were filled with beautiful transparencies showing the quarters of the Royal Coat of Arms, the British Coat of Arms, and other national and religious
