Women's Missionary Society.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

At 8.30 p.m. yesterday the third session of the W.M.S. Convention continued, with Mrs. C. H. Hutchings in the chair. Despite the inclemency of the weather quite a number of enthusiastic ladies were present. After preliminary Mrs. Robt. Joyce of the "Strangers' Dept." gave a heart to heart talk on the work to which she was appointed. She told us that the Missionary work that belonged to her department was the Home Missionary work. The stranger, the sick and the lonely and these were all around us, and it was a great privilege as well as a Christian duty to see that these were cheered and gladdened by a frequent visit, a few kind words and some little sympathy. "These things ought ye to have done and not left the other undone."

Mrs. Garland sang very sweetly and clearly "The Ninety and Nine," after which Mrs. (Rev.) Johnson gave us a paper on "Christian Stewardship." She said that on man's stewardship depended God's accomplishment. If we would do effectual work for God and His kingdom, we must give back to Him the talents He has given us, and allow Him to work out His will and pleasure. Mrs. Story and Mrs. Barnes then led a consecration and memorial service for the good sisters who had passed away during the year. A social hour followed which all enjoyed.

The evening session opened at 7.45 p.m. with almost a full house, the Rev. G. J. Joyce presiding. The chairman's remarks were sound, forceful and inspiring. A reading from Miss Alice Woods captivated the audience, after which Mrs. Lindsay addressed the meeting on the work done at the Board of Managers. She told us what those good people said and what they were doing, and how they were by their consecrated and noble lives building up and strengthening God's kingdom, and making this old world a better and a brighter place to live in. We want, she said, the brown, the red, the yellow, the black, the white peoples, all to know the Gospel story, for God uses all the colours to make even the individual life perfect. The gold of loyalty, the rose colour of love, the blue of truth, the exquisite silver of faith, the black of sorrow, the grey of disappointment all necessary to build character and make us strong. Miss M. Hutchings then lay on us with a solo in her usual good style. Mrs. J. Peters gave a synopsis of the work of the W.M.S. in Canada and elsewhere. The Convention then closed and we trust that the services have been a benefit and blessing to all who attended.—M.C.M.

Shareholders not Allowed an Opinion.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir—I note in your recent issues, letters from "Economist and Mr. W. A. McKay," concerning the possibilities of local coal, and these letters have been followed by one who signs himself "shareholder." Evidently Shareholders' line of thought encourages him to grasp an opportunity for criticism, of the Directorate of his company, which in my humble opinion is not at all conducive to good results. What we want in this country to-day, if anything is to be accomplished, is constructive criticism of the nature of that coming from "Economist and Mr. McKay. I know directorates of companies have no easy road to travel and that road is sometimes made doubly hard by underlying influences which are brought about to operate against them. May I suggest as a Newfoundland with an interest in the welfare of this country second to none, that your correspondent "Shareholder" and all the other shareholders look carefully into what has been done during the past three years to destroy confidence in the possibilities of these unquestionably valuable coal areas. Get busy you 2500 shareholders, don't stand for criticism that will tend to destroy that unity of purpose

Wallace Reid at The Nickel To-Night.

THE CHARM SCHOOL, GREAT SOCIAL DRAMA.

Wallace Reid, the popular screen star, appears at the Nickel Theatre tonight in a splendid social drama, "The Charm School." In the leading cast is the beautiful Lila. Monday marks another epoch in the history of the Nickel. The title is "The Woman God Changed." The story is of a beautiful woman—a butterfly on the wheel of a care-free world, who kills her lover—her escape to the South Sea Islands—her capture—the shipwreck of herself and the officer who is bringing her back under arrest, on a desert island—their years together alone. Then follows the rescue. Their return to civilization and the bar of justice. The climax is startling and unique. It is without doubt one of the truly big screen triumphs of the year. The cast is headed by Seena Owen and E. K. Lincoln.
