The manager of the Bank of Monreal joins those experienced men who prove. Carefulness is required, but the outlook is full of hope. case of bribery by an agent, decision upon which has been reserved, there was nothing in the conduct of the London election that would warrant the unseating of Mr. Beattie. The "attic" in Canada take some comfort from the charges, they declare, were unworthy of credence. True, they found that "a most disgraceful scene took place in the athletic rooms, in which a number of voters were very drunk and incapable," but, "the evidence of several witnesses who told stories of seeing beer kegs taken to the rooms, could not be relied upon. Some of these witnesses were classed as very bad, and not worthy of being believed."These are the reasonings of "learned" judges, and must be accepted. That disgraceful scenes had been enacted in the Conservative attic; that numbers of voters vere very drunk and incapable, lying bout on mattresses, there was proof oring themselves to believe, because the witnesses were classed "very bad and not worthy to be believed." Through such reasoning as this the learned judges succeeded in wiping away, one by one, he scores of charges of drunkenness, bribery and corrupt practices, the evi-dence of which, as published day by lay during the trial, filled the country om Halifax to Vancouver with disgust and indignation, and steeped the Conservative party in London in ever-asting disgrace. A well known story, current in legal circles, tells of the governor of a Brit-ish colony who combined with his other duties that of chief justice. He was a military man, unversed in law, and his judgments frequently outraged the opinions of the best legal minds in the colony, and were subjects of constant apepal to the Privy Council, where they were invariably sustained. It has been conclusions reached; but his unvarying success against the appeals of high le gal authorities aroused his vanity, and called upon to officiate as chief justice abundant capital for aiding in any legitimate expansion of trade. Chicago, June 10.-A match carelessy dropped by one of the workmen in the fireworks factory of M. Shure, at the corner of West Van Buren and Halstead streets, caused a terrific explosion Tuesday night. It was shortly after the closing time of the factory and many of the workmen had gon ome. A number of the employe the building were badly hurt, and the flying rockets and candles struck sev ral people who were passing in street cars and on the sidewalks.

The force of the explosion was s reat that nearly all the windows in the block were demolished, and the Shure building, which is a four-story ructure, was badly damaged. Imp diately following the explosion the uilding was ablaze from cellar to root and it was almost destroyed. The loss to the building and contents is estimated at $60,000. LATEST FISH STORY.

Party at Savannah Makes a Surprising Discovery.

Savannah, Ga., June 10.—A diamond was found in the body of a fish caught here yesterday. A large crowd was fishing from the tug Regis at the black fish banks, and the fish were biting fast. Nearly all the bait was exhausted, and some of the fishermen were cutting up small fish for bait. Mr. Fisher cut the head off a little black fish and the bright spark rolled positive, but that beer had been taken to the rooms, the judges could not bring themselves to believe, because the everyone was struck with wonder at the occurrence. On further examination and a closer search for more diamonds, the little jeweled fish yielded up a small conk and a good-sized boiled shrimp. The shrimp had evidently been taken from a fisherman's line, as several of the party had been using shrimps for bait. The diamond found in the fish is about a three-fourth carat. It was probably lost overboard from a ring, while its owner was fishing, and was caught and swallowed by the fish as it reached the bottom of the sea.

THE EMBARGO ON AMERICAN CATTLE.

Washington, June 10 .- The Administration has outlined an important policy to be pursued with regard to the controversy existing between this Gov-ernment and Great Britain, Germany, France and Belgium as a result of the action of other countries in excluding American cattle and dressed beef. This policy contemplates the submission of an earnest and joint protest by the dip-lomatic representatives of the United States in London, Berlin, Paris and Brussels, and subsequent co-operation, having as its object the revocation of the discriminating regulations which the four nations have imposed upon American cattle,
