DEATH OF MR. MATTHEW

WALMSLEY. His many friends will hear with deep regret of the death of Mr. Matthew Walmsley at his home on the Hamilton road, which occurred after a comparatively short illness. Mr. Walms-ley was at one time employed in the Grand Trunk freight department, and was well known both in this city and on the road. He leaves to mourn his loss one son, William, in British Columbia, and three daughters, Mrs. Fred Dengate, Lansing, Mich.; Mrs. C. J. Pink, and Miss Carrie Walmsley, of this city.

Napoleon's Magic Table. Napoleon's magic table is one of the greatest curiosities from the time of the great emperor; who had it in his study at the castle of St. Cloud, says a writer in the Strand. After the death of Napoleon it was bought in London by Baron Rehausen, Swedish ambassador to the court of St. James at that time. It is now owned through side the drawer of the table is pasted an old slip on which is printed a de-scription, which in modernized English reads as follows: "The Emperor Napoleon was highly delighted with this extraordinary work of art. It formed the surface of one of the tables in his study, and was always shown to all foreigners of distinction who visited the imperial court. It is a painting whose resemblance to what it represents is the most elusive ever produced by the genius of man. One may look at this strange production of art in different lights-the pieces of money, the fragments of broken glass, the penknife, water and cards retain an equally illusive appearance as the observer moves round the table—but it requires a very minute examination to discover all the truly magical won-ders it possesses." In these times, ders it possesses." In these times, when relics of Napoleon I. are eagerly sought for, the present whereabouts of this masterpiece should certainly to a high mutton standard. interest all connoisseurs.

The opportunity for securing improving stock was fully appreciated by the ranchmen, who were in in considerable force to make purchases. The supply was probably above the demand, but most of the stuff was disposed of at satisfactory prices. The association had the active assistance of the Dominion and Territorial Departments of Agriculture and of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who gave free transportation to two cars rams. The success of this first sale will, it is expected, lead to annual sales, and through these the ranch stock of the country will be built up

The Foolish Woman.

Do you know it seems it me that when the roll of weak and foolish women is called the first to answer will ship lightly.

No, there will be just one ahead of her-the woman who continues to love the man who neglects or ill treats her.

The world is filled from top story to basement with appreciative hearts and jolly, fine, splendid souls. There are men and woman aplenty who are to be trusted, who are honorable, who are good and true. It is a glorious thing to sympathize with and help along who gives persistent selfishness in return for your well-doing it is not a wicked or an unkind thing to save

You often hear of the woman who loves a man devotedly, and he forgets her and neglects her, and she whines around and drips tears all over the furniture (including the man), and be-seeches him to love her. Who does not feel sorry for a woman of that trembly type? Who does not pity her for her lack of self-appreciation? Who does not pray that she may gather herself together and be a woman—self-reliant, thing? An unappreciative friend is really The London club wired Manager Thompson, of the Argonauts, yesterday, asking for a change of dates of their two games with Argonauts II.

There is a large relative fine a large relative from the large for which he or she does not pay, or never can. It is not right. Indeed, it is very wrong, when friendship is so sweet, to have it held lightly and to see it kicked around like some common thing.

In the midst of this little sermonette to London Saturday. Manager Thomp- the preacher pauses to wonder if she is understood. It is not that one must be sparing of kindnesses and pleasant words. It is not that one must shun this man or that woman because of trivial mannerisms or silly little faults. No! It is merely that one must choose one's real friends with clear eyes; that one must confide only in those who are worthy of confidence; that one must see people as they are, and not as one's fancy makes them. Women, alas, are so given to sudden, spasmodic friendships! It seems as if we never grow up and get sense-most of us. discouraging even to think of, so we don.
