Utica, N. Y., Sept. 13. - Two tramps, Patrick Sheridan and Patrick Rogers, both New Yorkers, and fresh from the hop fields, broke into the house oc cupied by Frank Enos at Yorkville, a suburb of this city, early Sunday, forced Enos and wife from their bed, and after driving them from the place, calmly disrobed and rolled into the bed, from which they had compelled the rightful occupants to flee.

The tramps would not permit Enos and wife to take their babe with them, the distracted parents being compelled to vacate the premises at the point of a pistol. They summoned help and the police found the two tramps, sound asleep in bed. The baby lay slumbering in its crib.
