Consensus of opinion by the best reople here seems to indicate further advances for the high-class stock and increased dividends and larger earnings as a result of generalimproved business conditions. Whether or not this bullish feeling is becoming too prevalent to be healthy is a question to be seriously taken into account. We feel that much prosperity has been discounted in market, may carry them higher than anyone expects. Money is not so plentiful, but cannot be called scarce. We think rates will advance still further between now and the first of the year.
