Objects of the Club. Mr. Gibbons dealt with the objects of the club, and declared that it was built for the purpose of presenting the political questions of the day in e proper light, and to furnish a meeting place for Liberals, where they could spend their evenings. So far the club has been an undoubted success along all lines, and the alm of every young Liberal should be to keep up interest in the club to the highest pitch. He felt that the friendships he had formed during the last few months would endure. He thanked the members of the club and the min-
