against the Government which the Indians luron profess to have under the Robinson count which Col. Barras gives of such an ex penditure on surveys, roads and advertising by the Government, backed by private enterprise,

It should also be remembered that there is a material difference between the fittle given by hunting and fishing over a vast range of territory and that obtained from occupying and cultivating the soil; and it was only the former fittle which the Indians por sessed. The important fact should also be borne in mind that the reserves yet held by the Indians have been vastly enhanced in value by the improvements made around them. These are facts which must not be loss sight of in dealing with the question.

The conclusion of the whole matter then is:
Have the Indians received, and are they now

The conclusion of the whole matter then is:
Have the Indians received, and are they now
receiving, all the compensation promised them under the treaty, for such title as they had to the territory, according to the then while of the same; and if not, what further compensation is due them on the basis named?

A Feat in Skating. Laxenburg is a splendid country seat of the Emperor of Austria, located near Vicuns. There is a magnificent park, with a spacious lake. That lake is now frozen and used for scating. The other day a Viennese went stating with an ink bottle attached to the back of his skate, the opening adjusted in a manner to allow the ink to flow out in a regular stream. With that writing apparatus he skate I the name of the Crown Princess on the ice in lines which a pupil of a Chicago business college might look upon with envy.

The Cas Business in Berlin.
The City of Berlin, Germany, makes her own gas and sells it to the consumer at a comparatively very low rate. But in spite of the paratively very low rate. But in spite of the low price the gas business, according to the report just published by the municipality for the twelve months 1888-9, yields considerably more than $1.000,000 a year to the municipal treasury. And that profit is realized after supplying all the streets and squares of the city light by means of either gas, or electricity or oil.

Goethe's Earnings.
Cotta, 'the old publishe'r at Stuttgart, Wurtemberg, has made a statement of the amounts his firm paid to Goethe and his heirs from the year 1795 to 1865, or in seventy years. The poet himself received not more than $100,000, his heirs $116,000, or altogether $216,000 for all the works of the greatest German poet until twenty-three years ago, when the Cotta-Goethe monopoly came to an end, and Goethe receive the property of the German people. Wanted Ten Muses. Billion, formerly manager of the Ambigu Theater at Paris, was one day, says The Volsaire, mounting a machine showing the muses while the machine was being tried he walked in and saw nine young girls arranged upon it. "What is the meaning of those?" he asked. "Why, they are the nine muses," was the reply. "Nine muses" asked Billion, with a sneer. "How musymmetrical that looks! Don't you see? Let there be ten muses—five an each side!" Pretty Cold Weather.

The point where the coldest temperature or earth has ever been observed has been dignified by the uame of the pole of cold, It is located by the unine of the pole of cold. It is located to the east of the River Lena in Sileria. There, at Vercholians, the Russian government has established an observatory. The poor weather man out there reported in December, one year, 85 below zero, and January, 1885, as much as 90 and 98 below. The Difference.

When Spontini, the composer, was at Berlin, Prussia, he appeared in the theatre with his lapel covered with decorations. One of the musicians whispered to his neighbor: "Mozart never had so many." Shoutini, having over-heard the remark, turned to the speaker and caid: "Mozart was not in need of any."

At the Postoffice.

From Texas Sixtance.

Gayly she skipped.
Lightly she tripped
Up the big postoffice stair;
Sure she should find
A note; interlined.
From her dear "Charley" in there.

New, blank is ber look.
As she scours her book.
As she scours her book.
Seeklink the postoffice key;
Finds it at last.
Grips it quite fast.
Inserts it in "two-forty-three."

Then, in goes her fist,
Clear up to the wrist;
Quickly the mail's brought to view;
Seraphic her smile,
But it soon turns to bile,
For the note bears the legend—
"Your box rent is due."

From The Home Journa.

My love in radiant robes is clad.

And o'er the shining fields she I rings
Such fragracey as first violets had.

By primal and enchanted springs:
The vare doth seem to faint and sw m
Whene'er she deigns to smile on it e,
And e'en the sun himself grows dim
With very lovelorn ecstasy. Ah, love, thou art so finely fair, Thy dreamy soul sits so surence.
Outlooking from a throne so rare.
Then shenidsh have been a victorial and yet. I would not have thee so,
For all might worship then as it.
And, love, I could not bear, I know,
To share my sweet idolater.

The Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review, published in London, Eng. April 1, 1857, under the heading CANADIAN MUSICAL EXHIBITS AT THE COLINDIES EXHIBITION, has the following:

Referring to Piano Fortes of Mesurs, Heintzman & Co., Dr. Stainer says as follows: "I much regretished, owing to the late period at which I was called upon to make a report, all the more important instruments exhibited by this firm HAD BEEN SOLD AND REMOVED. But those remaining fully justified their high reputation. An Upright Grand, which I examined was in every respect a fine instrument; the touch was sympathetic and had a good repetition; the tone was full and rich. I also tried a specimen style No. 2, which was equally deserving of unqualified braise."
