But its interior appearance is death to all artistic or æsthetic feeling; in the absence of an amphitheatre arrangement the inconveniences listeners are subjected to are as great as those of the Pavilion, and its acoustic properties are of the worst.

On the economical side of the question lies the most commendable argument in favor of a public music hall. The high prices demanded for a Patti or Albani concert prevent many from ever hearing, in this city at any rate, any great singing, and many more have felt the pinch on the pocket because they or their wives thought that they couldn't afford to miss hearing a great prima donna. With a large concert hall comparatively low prices would result and the younger daughter or the wife, or were it.

Toronto Bicycle Club Trophies.

The Toronto Bicycle Club have now received both the trophies won by their teams last season at Rosedale from the Wanderers in the 10 mile track race and at Hamilton from the Hamiltons in the 40 mile road race. They are in the shape of two very handsome silk banners worked in gold bullion, and are perhaps as fine samples of work of this kind ever given for athletic competition in Ontario and were worked by Miss M. T. Burn of this city. The delay was caused by the difficulty in getting the proper kind of silk. The trophies are on exhibition in the window of Williamson & Co., King-street.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

Roland Reed is credited with having scored the greatest hit of his career as Stuyvesant Filbert in Sydney Posenfield's brilliant comedy of American manners. "The Club Friend," which he will present for the first time here Monday evening on the occasion of Manager Sheppard's benefit, and will continue it the balance of the week to Friday, when it will give way to that happy comedy "Lend Me Your Wife," which scored such a decided hit here last season. Mr. Reed is seen to great advantage in both plays and his company, which is unusually strong, all have happy and congenial roles. It is the same organization that assisted him during his long run at the Star Theatre, New York. The seat sale opens this morning.

To-night, Friday matines and night they will do "The Tyrolean," an opera by Carl Zeller, the famous German composer, and which ran for over 200 nights in New York at the Casino. The sale of seats is very large and the prices are within the reach of all, running from 50c and 75c to $1 and $150. Lovers of music and first-class comic opera should embrace this opportunity as it will positively be the last the New York Casino Co. will travel. The supporting company to Miss Tampest comprises such people as Fred Solomon, Louise Besudet, Eva Davenport, Drew Donaldson and others.

Jules Verne very cleverly worked these terrible monsters into his wonderful story, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." Few of us will ever see the giant poulp alive and in his native element, and few of us would want to if only a tithe of the tales that are told of him are true.
