A Human Match Factory

The body contains phosphorus sufficient to make 483,000 matches. Phosphorus is one of fourteen elements composing the body—divided among bones, flesh, nervous system and other organs. The perfect health of body requires a perfect balance of the elements. These elements come from the food we eat—the stomach extracts and distributes them.

But if stomach is deranged—the balance of health is destroyed and the blood does not carry the proper elements to the different organs, and there is blood trouble—nerve trouble—heart trouble. Pain is the hungry cry of starved organs. Put the liver, stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition into a condition of health. That is just what is done by

CANKER AMONG TURKEYS.
 It's not often the big thirty pound gobbler with the red flannel cravat gets the sniffles and the sore throat. He swings up there in the tip top and seems to enjoy the wintry wind. He shoves his bald head under his thick coat and sleeps as sound as a fellow in a feather bed. But it's the young stock, especially those hatched late, where you find your winter patients, and these at times get those white spots in the mouth and throat, and such canker patches aren't so easy to treat, as turkeys are so nervous and strong. You can generally tell the victims by their manner of eating, and we have seen them with such a bunch of the cheesy matter in their mouths that they couldn't eat at all. Canker sometimes forms in the opening of the windpipe. The turk gasps for breath, and an examination shows the white plug with a little hole in the center, through which it breathes. At times the mouth roof cleft is filled. Thus the fowl cannot breathe through its nostrils, and it stands with mouth open. Canker is contagious and is found where are drafts, damp, foul air and

CANKER IN ROOF OF TURK'S MOUTH.

TURKEY'S LOWER JAW—NORMAL.
 It is easily spread where fowls eat from the same trough and drink from the same vessel. All poultry is subject to it, and we have found the ordinary yellow canker not difficult to cure unless complicated with other disease. The patient should be penned in a comfortable place and the canker patches be gently removed and the new surface receive frequent applications of peroxide of hydrogen, and moist milk mash should be fed. The wise turkey raiser has a comfortable, well ventilated shed, where he drives his flock to roost in severe winter weather, and this only shows his practical sense, for the wild turkey does not sleep on trees in the open, but seeks the deepest woods, where the wind cannot strike it.

DON'TS.
 Don't store high priced feed in a bug-house granary.
 Don't sell all your best turkeys and keep the inferior for breeding.

GETTING KILLED IN THE ALPS.

Advice on How to Die Spectacularly Given By An Englishman.
 In 1910, 100 tourists were killed in the Alps. Last season the number was increased to 133. As to plain, simple accidents, not necessarily fatal, last year 400 experienced broken arms, legs and ribs. Once only the elite climbers. To-day everybody's doing it" and mountain climbing has developed into a mad scramble of thousands to reach some snow-capped summit. As most of these know but little of the technique of getting killed, an English writer who spends much of his time in Switzerland has taken it upon himself to offer various rules and suggestions.

"A fascinating way," he says, "is to go and pick edelweiss. This beautiful Alpine flower contrives to bloom overhanging the most perilous abysses. To pluck it one must approach from above. Descend slowly, therefore, clinging to some small shrub. If a passing guide chances to call warning, reply that you know what you are about, and that tourists, as well as guides, have a right to pick Alpine flowers. Lean slightly over the precipice, and as one hand grasps the alluring bloom, with the other hand pull on the shrub, which will come loose, roots and all. There will be a grating sound of loose, moving rock, the overhanging ledge will cave in, and one may soar, edelweiss in hand, into the void below. There will be three lines in the newspapers about it, and a caravan of expert guides will find the body.

"Sitting down in avalanche paths is sometimes effective. A friend of mine, dispensing with guides, climbed up above Pierre Pointue on the route up Mont Blanc, and deliberately sat down quietly to lunch in a gully where avalanches come down off the Aiguille du Midi every 15 minutes. Suddenly the air was filled with singing, flying stones and ice, the velocity making the smaller stones invisible. He failed to get hit, however, and disgusted, leaving everything behind, fled to Pierre Pointue, where he recommenced with absinthe cocktails. "Climbing without heavily nailed boots, too, has its advantages. An American, who considers it common place to ascend Mont Blanc like everybody else, tried it with patent leather shoes. At the 'Junction' of the glaciers des Bossons and de Tacconnaz he slipped into a crevasse, dragging with him an English friend. Guides had great difficulty in getting them out. Hot words followed, the cool crevasse, and the two Anglo-Saxons, each blaming the other for what had happened, indulged in a warm pugilistic encounter in the snow. "Nothing is easier than falling over a precipice. To get killed, therefore, the Alpinist with vertigo should tackle the Metehorn, Schreckhorn, or the Aiguille Verte. While it lasts the sensation of falling several thousand feet must be extraordinary."

Not Only In Canada.
 That outrageous bugaboo, "the cost of living," is evidently not confining its attentions to Canada alone, if one is to judge from some of the recent reports, which show that it is impossible to escape the monster by fleeing to other lands. Take it in India, for example. There, in 1909, the wages of a staff of servants employed by a couple consisting usually of a butler, second boy, coolie, cook, sweeper and possibly a gardener, amounted to a little more than $23 a month. In 1912 the wages of the same staff amount to $32 a month. From Australia comes a wail that prices in living commodities have advanced about 10 per cent. during the last year. Of all the foodstuffs cited as having advanced in price the once humble onion holds the proudest position, its price having gone up 344.44 per cent. beyond that of a year ago. Beef has advanced from four to seven cents a pound.

Constipation
 is an enemy within the camp. It will undermine the strongest constitution and ruin the most vigorous health. It leads to indigestion, biliousness, impure blood, bad complexion, sick headaches, and is one of the most frequent causes of appendicitis. To neglect it is slow suicide. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills positively cure Constipation. They are entirely vegetable in composition and do not sicken, weaken or gripe. Preserve your health by taking
