A NEW SWAN BOOK.

Courtship and Marriage

And the Gentle Art of Home-Making

BY ANNIE S. SWAN

(MRS. BLANKET-SMITH)

Cloth. . . . . 60 cents.

CONTENTS: The Lovers—The Ideal Wife—The Ideal Husband—The First Year of Married Life—The Ideal Home—Keeping the House—The Trust Economy—On Keeping up Appearances—Motherhood—The Son in the Home—The Daughter in the Home—The Education of our Daughters—The Servant in the Home—Holligon in the Home.

To the discussion of these themes our authoress brings a heart of sympathy and a head well stored with good common sense. It is not necessary we should say that the thoughts are beautifully expressed. This is a book to be read and re-read, and treasured among the few favorite volumes. It has a distinct mission of good.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The public is hereby respectfully notified that THE PRESBYTERIAN BOOK ROOM (Jas. Bain & Son), has no connection with the late Presbyterian News Co. and is not to be held responsible for the non fulfillment of contracts made by that company.

We are constantly in receipt of letters complaining of this, and wish to set the matter right before the public.

We are the only Presbyterian Book Room, and our aim is to make our House the Presbyterian Headquarters for the Dominion

We keep in stock a full line of Sabbath School and Church Supplies, and all orders sent to us will have our usual prompt attention.

Correspondence from all parts of Canada is respectfully solicited. We make a speciality of our "Mail Order Department," and can guarantee satisfaction. Goods sent out may be returned if not satisfactory.

The patronage of the Presbyterian public is respectfully solicited.
