

Railway Building in 1889 Again.

As a result of careful inquiries the New York Railroad Gazette shows that in the three months from January 1 to April 1, 1889, only 474 miles of track were laid in the United States, and 585 in the United States, Canada and Mexico. In the like period in 1883, about 1,000 miles of track were laid. If the same ratio were kept up for the rest of the year the total of new track to be credited to 1889 in the United States would be about 3,500 miles, as against nearly 7,000 miles last year. In addition to the 474 miles laid during the first quarter of the present year the Gazette finds 4,221 miles reported as "under construction" and 16,180 miles as "surveyed." The average mileage from 1878 to 1888, inclusive, was 6.4 per cent. of the total mileage at the beginning of the year. If 1889 should be up to the average the total mileage built in 1889 would be not far from 10,000. If, however, the percentage of 1885 is adopted, when only 3 per cent. was built, the total mileage would be about 4,700 miles. Of the new track laid this year 50 per cent. was laid in the Southern States east of the Mississippi, as against 37 per cent. in 1888.
