

TESTIMONIAL FOR
MGR. BRUCHESI.Announcement Made at High Mass on Sunday Last

In the Five English-Speaking Parishes -- Rev. Father Quinlivan's Remarks on the Subject -- An Envelope Collection to be Taken Up at the Masses Tomorrow.

On Sunday last Rev. Father Quinlivan, Pastor of St. Patrick's, made the following announcement:

Last Summer, when the news of Archbishop Bruchesi's appointment reached us from Rome, some of the priests, and not a few amongst the laity, suggested that it would be a very proper thing, in view of the many obligations which were to weigh upon him and which entailed considerable expense, to present him with an offering of money. Seeing, however, that many people were absent from the city at that time, and that it was next to impossible to obtain a quiet interview with His Grace, on account of his numerous engagements, it was deemed advisable to postpone this presentation to a more favorable moment. Last week the pastors of the different English-speaking parishes agreed upon Sunday next as a suitable occasion to place this matter before their congregations, and to ask them for contributions to this offering. You all know how much kindness the Archbishop has shown us since his nomination, how warmly he addressed us in our own language, when he visited us here in St. Patrick's, before setting out for Rome, how he took the trouble of visiting Ireland, out of sympathy for us, on his way to the Eternal City, and he allows no reason to pass without giving us proof of the greatest interest in our welfare. I am sure, then, we are only interpreting our wishes in offering you this opportunity of expressing your appreciation of so much kindness and good will on the part of our Archbishop. On Sunday next, then, an envelope collection will be taken up for this purpose, and we trust that each one will do his part in a way that we can all feel proud of.

The Archbishop has many calls upon his slender means, and we know that this offering will be very useful and acceptable to him. All that may be collected at the different Masses next Sunday will therefore be devoted to this purpose.

Similar announcements were also made at St. Anne's, St. Mary's, St. Gabriel's and St. Anthony's, by the Pastors.

CARDINAL GIBBONS

Refers to the "Maine" Disaster at the Baltimore Cathedral.

His Eminence Counsels Patience and Pays a Tribute to the Gallant Men who Lost their Lives.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 1.—A solemn Requiem Mass, for the repose of the souls of the officers and sailors of the warship Maine who lost their lives in Havana harbor, was celebrated at the Cathedral yesterday morning. The sacred edifice was crowded. Representatives of the army and navy who had been invited to the services were seated in the pews reserved for them in the middle aisle. They were in full uniform, and men in uniform were scattered throughout the congregation.

Rev. Father Thomas was the celebrant. His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, who was present, at the close of the service, addressed the congregation. He said:

"We do not fully realize how ardently we love our country until some crisis occurs which awakens our devotion to her, and arouses our admiration and gratitude to those who have died in our service. Such a crisis has quite recently occurred. We have assembled here this morning to assist in the holy sacrifice offered up for the souls of the brave officers and men who have lost their lives at their posts of duty. We are also called together to give expression to our heartfelt condolence and sympathy to the bereaved relatives of those faithful defenders whom the nation mourns. I see before me in this church representatives of our excellent State militia, and our fellow citizens at large. You represent a sorrowing nation, for every home in our great country feels the loss as a personal one. Too much praise can not be bestowed on the President, and the members of the Cabinet and particularly on the Secretary of the Navy and his able assistant, as well as on both houses of Congress, for the calmness and tranquillity, a self-control and self-possession which they have exhibited during the fearful ordeal through which the country has been passing during the last few days. It needed only a spark to kindle a terrible conflagration, and the patient and dignified bearing of the executive and legislative bodies are the more commendable in view of the mischievous and intemperate utterances of some sensational papers.

THIS NATION IS TOO BRAVE

too strong and powerful and too just to engage in an unrighteous or precipitate war. Let us remember that the eyes of the world are upon us, whose judgment we cannot despise, and that we will gain more applause and credit for ourselves by calm deliberation and masterly activity than by recourse to arms. "Thrice is he armed who hath his quarrel just." I hope and believe for the honor of humanity that the destruction of the Maine was caused by an accident and in that case Spain cannot be held responsible. But suppose that some foolish Cuban had occasioned this fearful loss of life in order to embroil our nation in a war with his mother country? In that case

Spain could not be held responsible, and even if some fanatical Spaniard perpetrated this atrocious crime there would be no necessity for having recourse to the arbitrament of the sword. The only circumstance

THAT WOULD WARRANT ACTIVE HOSTILITIES would be the evidence that the Spanish Government had connived at the placing of torpedoes or explosives in the harbor of Havana to destroy our vessels. But I do not believe--no sane man can believe--that a chivalric nation would be guilty of such inhumanity. An able commission has been appointed by the Government to investigate the cause of the disaster. Let us calmly and patiently await the result of their verdict, and not anticipate their judgment. One thing is certain, this country knows how in any emergency to defend her honor and protect her interest. These men did not die with weapons in their hands. Nevertheless we must regard them as heroes and martyrs of their country, for they died at the post which the call of duty had assigned them. I earnestly hope that the day is not far off when a grateful nation will show her appreciation of the service of those brave and faithful public servants by erecting to their memory a suitable monument, a monument which will not only commemorate the dead, but which will be an incentive to patriotism for the living by keeping before them the sentiments so well expressed by the Roman poet: "Dulce et decorum est, pro patria mori." (It is sweet and honorable to die for one's country.)

OBITUARY.

Miss Emma Rowan.

Again has the Angel of Death cast a shadow over the home of Mr. Thomas Rowan, of Rawdon, P.Q., and to our abiding sorrow we record the demise of Miss Emma Rowan, who but a few short weeks ago was looking happy over bright anticipations, and apparently as far from death's icy grasp as the fairest flower that blossoms in midsummer is from the cruel winter's blast. But God is merciful and He must have foreseen the necessity of calling this fair flower in all the beauty of the summer sun shine, in all its pristine freshness.

To the bereaved relatives we tender our heartfelt sympathy, but as even human sympathy cannot heal such wounds, we supplicate that same Jesus that wept at the grave of Lazarus to pour the sweet oil of consolation into their sorrowing hearts.

Our flower was culled in the glory of morn,

Snatched from our love while bright at her bloom;

Gone the sweet spirit, the loved form laid low,

Ere the crown of her girlhood was raised from her brow.

CENTENNIAL MEMORIAL OF '98.

A very comprehensive and attractive chart, under the title of "The Spirit of '98" has been published by Mr. James Hattigan, 10 East Forty-second street, New York. It contains a large well grouped picture of the leaders of the '98 movement as well as a number of engravings illustrative of the principal incidents of that eventful period including "The Trial and Execution of Emmet," "Vinegar Hill during the Battle," "Father John Murphy leading the Patriots," etc. Several maps of those portions of the country in which the battles of the Rebellion took place are also given, besides a list of prominent persons who participated in the struggle.

Mr. Hattigan is to be complimented on the cleverness of his design as well as its execution, and we trust its publication will have as large a sale as it deserves. It should be in the home of every Irish Nationalist. Orders for the Memorial will be received by Messrs D & J. S. Dill & Co., 1689 N. Ave. D. Street, Montreal. Price, fifty cents.

Under the caption, "A Dissolving View of the Colorado," the Catholic deals with the decline of the A.P.A. It says:

"These are melancholy days for the erstwhile festive A.P.A. It is only a few short months since he strutted up and down this country filled to the bursting point with his own importance, and pointing with his own importance to the fact that he was the only one before taking any decisive step. The article closes with the following statement: 'The time is not apt coming when there will be no place or refuge for the A.P.A. in the United States, or in the world's favored resort.'

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

A Trip by Limelight Over the Canadian Pacific Railway.

In St. Mary's Academic Hall, Bleury street, on the evenings of February 28 and March 1st, an illustrated lecture in aid of the Montreal Free Library was given by the Rev. E. J. Devine, S.J., entitled, "From Ocean to Ocean." The views were magnificent and entirely new, and the audience were enabled to form some idea of the beauty and grandeur of the vastness and the resources of this Dominion. Nor is it out of place to remark here, how every one was impressed with the stupendous work done by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The marvellous trestles, stretching over terrific passes, or through the tortuous windings of extensive mountain chains, the tunnels bored through million-ton monoliths, the mountain peaks, split in twain, as it were, to allow passage to the all-conquering iron-horse. It is amazing to think of the amount of energy, foresight, brain-power, and indomitable will, which have made such a railway possible, not to speak of the millions of money on the one hand and on the other the incessant toil of thousands of men.

The reverend lecturer, who is well fitted for the task, having made the tour four times, and who knows every nook and corner of that great world unknown to most of us gave with each limelight picture a brief explanation, preferring to let the views speak for themselves, as indeed they did, affording the greatest delight to those present and filling them with a desire to see for themselves the Great Divide, Kicking Horse Pass, Caribou, Joe's Tunnel--so-called for a poor Indian guide who there fell into the stream; Mount Stephen, the great glacier of the Selkirk; Shagnessy's Peak, Van Horne Range, Banff Hot Springs, Stanley Park, Vancouver; the great, troubled waters of Lake Superior, the softer shores of the Fraser River, the delightful Lake of the Woods, Rat Portage, the Saragoga of the north, with its beautiful island; the site of the ancient Fort William, Fort Garry, and other historic spots; Calgary, Winnipeg, and that garden of the north, British Columbia, with its most charming of climates and swiftly-growing and handsome cities.

Father Devine divided his lecture as follows: "The Rugged Shores of Lake Superior"; "The Picturesque Lake of the Woods"; "Historic Fort William and Fort Garry"; "The Baffin Provinces of the Northwest"; "The Stately Grandeur of the Rockies"; "The Wondrous Beauty of the Pacific Coast." And there was not one word of exaggeration in their announcements. The audience felt that they had seen all that and much more, and were landed upon the Pacific Coast just in time to behold "The Empire of India" setting out over the peaceful waters for Japan.

Father Devine has made quite a stir amongst railway men, of late by his invention of an Electric Danger Signal for trains. It has been given a trial by the Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk and other lines, and bids fair some day to come into general use. The writer has been assured by practical men that it is a very excellent invention, indeed, and would be a great boon to the various companies, resulting no doubt in saving of human life, a prevention of some, at least, of the dreadful accidents, unfortunately too common.

The Montreal public is to be congratulated on having had such a panorama of the great country of the future spread before them, and there was not one present who did not heartily enjoy the treat.

Could Do No Work.

"Large doses of medicine put on my body and did not do any work, and also on my hands so that I could not do any work, and my mind came out. My trouble was called rheumatism. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. The first day I had taken several bottles the rheumatism and itching disappeared and I was cured." Mrs. J. G. Brown, Bradford, Ont.

MEETING AT VILLA MARIA

Of the Children of Mary and Old
Pupils of the Institute.

A delightful reunion of the Children of Mary of the Congregation of Notre Dame, reinforced by a large contingent of the former pupils of the Villa Maria Convent, took place on Tuesday afternoon, March 1st. The weather was perfect, bright and spring-like, with clear skies overhead and a balminess in the air which made the expedition to the slope of Mount Royal a veritable pleasure. The assemblage, which numbered upwards of two hundred, gathered in the grand hall, the scene of many a Convent festivity. It was tastefully decorated, so as to present a charming coup d'oeil, on the entrance of the visitors, which was greeted by an overture on piano, violins and harps by several of Villa Maria's most gifted musicians.

A poetical address was made by three young ladies, Mesdemoiselles Girard, Beaudry and Desjardins. Their soft modulated voices and distinct utterance made it a real treat to listen to this composition, which touched upon striking incidents in the history of the Congregation of Notre Dame, its connection with the foundation of Montreal, the character of Marguerite Bourgeois, her providential mission and heroic qualities, as well as the disaster of 1835, by which the Mother House of the Order was destroyed. In parenthesis, it is sad to see the ruins of that once splendid edifice, and to reflect that despite the notable services rendered to Canada since the foundation of the colony by this devoted community, no general effort has as yet been made to repair the loss. However, no such inharmonious note was struck during the proceedings of March 1st. On the contrary, gratitude was expressed for the exertions of the Children of Mary and many of the old pupils to assist the nuns in their duty.

This address was followed by a solo from a glorious contralto voice, of which the fortunate possessor is Miss Messemmer, of New York. Miss Curran, the daughter of a distinguished father, late Solicitor General for Canada, delivered the English address with much grace, and the same precision and correctness of utterance marked the French recitations. An allusion, which was warmly received, was here made to the ever lamented "Matinee Nativite," one of the pioneers of Catholic education in Montreal and for so many years the central figure at Villa Maria.

The music, for which the pupils of this institute are famous, on piano, harp and violin was provided over by the Misses Curran, Denvers, Girard, Barsalou, des Roches and McGee, the latter a granddaughter of Mr. F. B. McNair. There was an exquisitely harmonized chorus, "Serenade a Marie," by a number of the pupils.

A recitation in French by quite a little girl, Miss Yvonne Beaudry, left nothing to be desired. She was not so little, however, as some tiny nites, who captivated the audience with their tiny little pieces. These were the Misses Varin and Muriel McGill of Montreal, Miss Viola Logan of New York, and Miss E. Coudy of Brooklyn.

Miss Blanche Desnoyers, a daughter of Judge Desnoyers, and whose mother, daughter of the late Sheriff LeBlanc, was one of the well known pupils of two decades or so ago, recited most pleasingly, being followed by Miss Chertier, of Ottawa, who rendered dramatically a translated extract from the Infirmary.

Miss Marguerite Pineson, an accomplished actress in a most graceful and pretty manner of the pleasant task of inviting the company, in a few well chosen words, to partake of an Afternoon Tea prepared by the senior pupils.

It is not necessary to say to Montrealers that the Children of Mary and the former pupils of Villa Maria found an able interpreter, to express at once their thanks and their gratification in Miss Drummond. Her words, so admirably chosen, so carefully considered, struck a responsive chord in many a heart. Evidences of emotion were, indeed, not wanting during the whole course of the exercises. Mothers, even grandmothers, were recalling the days when they filled the places of the bright faced unconscious girls, who, in costume of black, with Sodalite sashes, made so fair a picture row after row. Old pupils were thinking sadly of many a classmate of the long ago, who had gone from the strife and stir of life altogether, or drifted away from the scenes once familiar. Many more saw only in the scene before them a phantom like reproduction of their own youth. Whilst others, again, were envious of the calm sheltered existence, within those historic walls, with

FACTS ABOUT HEALTH

It is Easy to Keep Well if We Know How--Some of the Conditions Necessary to Perfect Health.

The importance of maintaining good health is easily understood, and it is really a simple matter if we take a correct view of the conditions required. In perfect health the stomach promptly digests food, and thus prepares nourishment. The blood is employed to carry this nourishment to the organs, nerves, muscles and tissues which need it. The first great essential for good health, therefore, is pure, rich blood. Now it is certainly a fact that no medicine has such a record of cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is literally true that there are hundreds of people alive and well today who would have been in their graves had they not taken Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is depended upon as a family medicine and general regulator of the system by tens of thousands of people. This is because Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure. This is the secret of its great success. Keep your system in good health by keeping your blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which absolutely cures when other medicines fail to do any good whatever.

the snow's plains stretching all around, and the view of the distant city visible, as the view of life is just in sight for those watchers on the happy hills of youth.

Old teachers were eagerly remembered and their names uttered with affectionate remembrance. Some of them, too, have passed from the quiet of the cloister to the deeper stillness beyond, whilst others are separated by distance from their former scenes of labor.

The present Directress of Villa Maria, Mother St. Mary Caroline, and her assistants, are to be congratulated on the very great pleasure they have given to the children of the Congregation, old and new, past and present.

The gathering was indeed a representative one, as will be seen by the mention of but a few. It would be impossible in these limits to mention all, and indeed the writer has no means of procuring a correct list.

Madame Prefontaine, wife of His Worship the Mayor; Lady Lacoste, wife of Chief Justice Sir Alexander Lacoste; Madame G. Gifford, wife of a distinguished Cabinet Minister; Madame Beaudry, wife of the Hon. L. Beaudry; Madame A. A. Thibaudan, wife of one of the later and young Senators; Madame Alphonsine Desjardins, wife of the late Cabinet Minister and Senator, Hon. Alphonsine Desjardins; Mrs. Desnoyers, wife of Judge Desnoyers, with others of equal note. These high dignitaries are mentioned advisedly to show that many of the daughters of the Congregation have been called upon to fill exalted positions.

Amongst other ladies widely known were Mesdemoiselles Munk, Amos, de Rouen, de Salaberry, Taschereau, F. H. Perrault, Barsolon, Charles de Bane, Varin, St. Jean, Desmarieau, G. Gifford, Lacroix, Henri Masson, Hubert Desjardins, Misses Trester, Brummond, Lacroix, Curran, Dorion, Alice Bar dry, de Baugou, de Salaberry, Monk, Langer, Vian, G. Gifford, Pineson, Sadler, Tremblay, Terroux, G. Roy, de Fournier, Desnoyers, Beaudry, Feron, Gaddy, Mercier, Toner, Latourrelle, Rolland, and a host of others impossible to mention here. But were a full list to be given it would be impossible to do so, for the fact that Villa Maria has reason to be proud of its condition, and that in turn of their Alumnas.

THE PERILS OF MISSIONARIES

A Catholic Priest Tells of Stirring Incidents

In the midst of the Tribes in the East Coast of Africa.

The story comes from a mission that Rev. Thomas, in the St. Louis Seminary, of that city, has received a letter from the Rev. Father Plunkett, telling of hardships and dangers in the life of a missionary in Africa. The letter is dated from the Mission, Nyanja, Malawi, and is written October 27, 1907.

The missionary priest writes: At present we don't know the moment we shall have to fight for our lives. The Nyanja soldiers, who guarded the country, are in open revolt. Already they have killed four European officers and wounded two others. All the fathers belonging to our Mission are assembled here. Each of us has a rifle and several rounds of ammunition, so we shall try to defend our lives to the last.

Had I time I could tell you about our experience during the last few months; the terror of waking up in the middle of the night with the noise on fire; the discomfort of sleeping on the ground as best I could, one father having my bed, as his own was burned, another had one of my blankets and my only pair of boots. Fortunately, I had a pair of top boots, which I wore; the fear lest the Church should be attacked and the Blessed Sacrament destroyed; the burying of our books in the dead of night by the light of our lantern; the fear of robbers attacking; the sleepless nights and anxious days; the hurried packing of the few things we brought away; the long and tiresome march of thirty miles to here, with the daily expectation of a horde of Mahomedans swooping down and massacring the lot of us.

Father Plunkett writes that he was appointed superior of the last mission at Mudgee last July. On the night of September 25th three of their best houses were burned to the ground, and the missionary had a narrow escape while saving his and the other priests' effects from a smoke-filled room.

He concludes his letter by saying: While writing I can hear the war drums beating about the capital--we are getting used to them now. The rumbling thunder much resembles distant artillery.

The Liquor and Drug Habits
