THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

Daily, $6 a Year; Weekly, 75 Cents.

DAILY, WITH SUNDAY EDITION, $8.

American politics will be uncommonly interesting for the next two years. The mandate of the people, pronounced with such emphasis at the polls on Nov. 4, will not be heeded by the Republicans. The message of the President, revealing their temper and outlining their policy, foreshadows an obstinate resistance to the popular will. The principle of the McKinley Tariff act will be adhered to, trusts will be further favored, sectional passions will be rekindled by a fresh attempt to pass the Force bill, and Quay, repudiated by his own State, will continue to mould the policy and embody the moral standards of his party. The Republican leaders, greedy of the power they have abused, will strive to keep their covenant with the selfish interests that control them by opposing with their votes in the Senate and with the Executive veto measures which an enormous majority of the people have decreed shall be enacted to relieve them from the burdens of excessive taxation and Republican extravagance. It will be a historic struggle.

In this contest The New-York Times will labor heart and soul, with zeal, energy, and all its resources, to make a convincing presentation of the people's case against the men now in control at Washington. No newspaper in the country dealt the tariff-makers of 1890 such telling blows as The Times, none made larger contributions of fact and argument, none was so helpful to the speakers who opposed the McKinley bill in Congress or in campaign discussion. And in the fight yet to be made to establish the supremacy of the people's will and give effect to their commands, The Times will take part with equal diligence and vigor.

The excellence and interest of The Times as a general newspaper are proverbial. It is its business to print the news, all the news that it is worth anybody's time to read. Its reports are accurate, concise, readable. It wastes no space upon trash and the doings of criminals and the unclean. But to all public questions and happenings that may interest intelligent and healthy minds, to matters of art, science, literature, the churches, the army and navy, commercial and industrial progress, to the best thought and the best action in every sphere of human enterprise, it accords a generous and enlightened hospitality.

BURIED THE CHEESE

In the suburbs of Boston lives a merchant who is something of an epicure, and not infrequently he brings home with him from the city on his return from business some tid bit or other. Not long since he found some particularly choice Roquefort cheese, and the day being Saturday he took a piece home with him for his Sunday dinner.

Arriving at the station he was met by his man with the buggy, and in driving home he put the bundle on the bottom of the carriage, where it lay forgotten until the next day. At dinner he remembered the delicacy, and sending for Patrick, he asked what he had done with the package of cheese which he left on the bottom of the buggy.

"Was that chase, sor?" responded Patrick, in evident surprise.

"Yes, of course it was cheese. What did you do with it?"

"Well, upon me soul, sor, it never intered me comprehension that it was chase. It smelled that powerful, sor, that I thought sure it was dead, sor, and I wint and buried it, manin' no harm."—Boston Courier.
