YORK COUNTY AND SUBURBS

Councillor Wright Suggests That Junction Get Back Ownership of Light Service.

SKATING RINK PAYS GOOD DIVIDEND

Dak Ridges Squadron of G.G.B.G. to Recruit in the County With Yeomen.

Toronto Junction, March 29.—The property committee of the town council met tonight, and for a long time discussed the unsatisfactory electric light service furnished the town. Superintendent Hardy stated that he did not think the town was receiving the 22,000 volts which the agreement with the Stark T. L. & P. Co. calls for, and that the lamps on the streets are being over-energized. It was decided to purchase a meter to be attached to the switchboard, so that the voltage can be ascertained at any time. Councillor Jesse Wright favored amending the contract with the Stark T. L. & P. Co. so that it would guarantee the voltage to be delivered in the future, and that it would be advisable to cancel the agreement, and for the town to run its own electric light plant again.

The Suburban Railway wants the boiler in the old electric light plant again.

Several cars ran off the track at Woodbine-avenue this afternoon, but were got on again without great difficulty, but about 6 o'clock another car left the track, and the present carter, Thomas Goddard for $100, had it had to be jacked up. This process took several hours, and meantime a "stuck" line was operated between Woodbine-avenue and Howard-avenue, which latter is the present carter, Thomas Goddard for $100.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

While the audience that assembled to greet the brilliant young English pianist, Miss Gertrude Peppers, would have made a good showing at a chamber concert, in the vest area of the Massey Hall it was certainly not worthy of the opportunity. But what it lacked in numbers was to some extent compensated by its appreciation and recognition of very exceptional musical and artistic ability. Miss Peppers' appearance as a piano virtuoso was in every way a most successful one. Her program offered was remarkable in its range. Beginning with that sombre and powerful creation of Beethoven's genius, the "Sonata Appassionata," it moved through the dreamy melody of Chopin, that Shelley of music, and the rich harmonies of Brahms to the chromatic fireworks of Liszt's transcription of Wagner's "Tannhauser" overture. But Miss Peppers' technical was unflinching, and she held the attention of the assembly unbroken to the close.

Miss Peppers' rendering of Beethoven's sonata displayed wonderful grasp and sympathy. More especially in "Andante con moto" these qualities manifested, and one could not but feel that in her the king of composers had found a devoted student. Beethoven's genius is difficult to interpret of all the great creators of music, and requires an interpreter possessing such more than merely technical skill. For a young lady of 23 to essay the task and to accomplish it so successfully as Miss Peppers did warrants the anticipation of still greater possibilities in her future career.

Particularly fine were the Chopin numbers, that of the "Ballade" and the "Nocturne" were given a fitting vehicle, and Miss Peppers well deserved the enthusiastic tribute of applause and encore which was accorded, and a more tangible token in the shape of a beautiful bouquet. Two equally attractive numbers were the Brahms Intermezzo and ballade and an etude by Zarembo, into which the artist entered on an encore. As for the Liszt-Wagner overture, Miss Peppers' rendering never oversteered, and was, in fact, a finer and more successful performance than that of any other artist who has appeared in Toronto. In response to repeated requests, Miss Peppers gave another encore contribution. It may confidently be said that those who were fortunate enough to attend last night's recital will remember this young artist's career with interest and with next appearance in the Queen City will elicit an audience more representative of Toronto's claim to be the musical centre of Canada.

In "The King of Detective" at the Majestic Theatre, next week, the leading role, that of the detective, is in the hands of Irving White, who before becoming an actor was a New York newspaper man, and during his newspaper days was cover police headquarters, he often was forced to assume the role of sleuth to fulfill his duties as a reporter.

Harry Morris' "Night on Broadway" will certainly prove a novelty to the patrons of the Star Theatre Monday, April 4, for, in his play, Morris has introduced an element of entertainment in a complete comedy, in the course of which a perceptible plot is developed. The musical numbers are directly dependent on the story.

"The Bonnie Brides," so cleverly dramatized by presenting the atmosphere and heart interest of the Massey stories, and still providing a rich vein of comedy to permeate the story, will be performed in a pleasing manner, returns to the Grand Opera House next week, commencing with a special matinee on Easter Monday.

The program which the Royal Scots Company will present on Good Friday evening at Massey Hall is as follows: (1) Scotch Fantasia, Lawrence Murdoch; (2) "Daisy's Dances," De Koven; (3) "The Meliora,"
