MEMBERS WANT MORE TIME ON COMPENSATION

Debate On Second Reading of Amendments To Act Is Adjourned.

Minister of Labor Says In- Dewart and Labor Members creases Would Work No Hardship On Employers

TORONTO, May 12.—On the plea that the members had not the necessary time for consideration of the bill, the debate on the second reading of the act to amend the workmen's compensation act was adjourned tonight just after Hon. Walter Rollo, minister of labor. had explained and defended the amend-

In the first year of the operation of the act the cost for compensation had been $1.64 (estimate), for every $100 of payroll. The next year it went down to $1.27, and continued to go down, until in 1917 it was 98 cents per $100 on the payroll. Labor, with the clause creased cost of living that the com-pensation should be higher. He quoted the figures from the report of the work-men's compensation board that in 1913 the average wage of those paid compensation had been $13.27, and in 1919, $24.80. This increase, he contended, was not in proportion to the increased cost of living. Therefore, he argued that 55 per cent compensation was not sufficient.

Would Not Hurt.
The increases would not hurt the manufacturer, the miner, or the builder.
Mr. Rollo got into a little trouble with the Opposition when he made a general statement that some manufacturers rould rather pay the compensation rate han install safety appliances.

Mr. Dewart said that the statement was unfair. and asked for specific cases. The minister could remember none. He then stated that this had been told him, and he admitted that most manufacturers did do their best. However, he hid not place any more credence in that statement than he did in the statement of manufacturers that malingering would be increased by a higher rate. He thought that Ontario should have the best compensation law, because it was the greatest manufacturing province. There was no intention to make anything retroactive, but they did desire to make the widows' allowances

ROLLO DEFENDS THE BILL PROOF OF INNOCENCE

Denounce Law As Against British Justice.

TORONTO, May 12.—As a result of a speech by R. L. Brackin, West Kent, in the Legislature this afternoon, it is practically decided that the Ontario temperance act will be amended, so that breaches may be tried by and appeals from convictions heard by county judges. Heretofore, police magistrates have been the only administrators of the Ontario temperance act, and the only tribune of appeal was the Ontario

Before Found Guilty.

Mr. Homuth opened the discussion when he complained that men were being practically convicted of breaking the O. T. A. before they had been found guilty by a court. "The whole onus of proof," he said, "is on the defence, and that is absolutely wrong." The Labor member said he was prepared to cite cases where men, unable to clearly establish their innocence, were convicted on that grounds.

Mr. Dewart expressed himself as in entire sympathy with Mr. Homuth's views.

"I should hate to see this House," said Mr. MacBride of Brantford, "so far depart from the basic principle of British justice as to pass any act which shall say a man is guilty unless he proves himself innocent. Surely to goodness all the agencies of the laws should be able to obtain sufficient evidence to prove a man guilty if he is views. dence to prove a man guilty if he is guilty."

Admits Departure.

The attorney-general defended what he admitted to be somewhat of a departure from the usual principle of justice. The liquor laws of the province, he declared, were the most difficult of all the laws on the statute books to enforce. He started to say he had received no complaints concerning the deviation from the usual course in respect to the liquor laws of the province, but Mr. Dewart interrupted with an expression of disbellef.

"I am so finicky." said the attorney-general. "about these matters, I am inclined to think the law is for the protection of criminals, for it really has been carried too far."

The attorney-general scorned to make reply to Mr. MacBride's query as to whether he would apply the principle of a man proving his own innocence in a murder case.

AMALGAMATION OF BORDER CITIES GETS DECIDED SETBACK

Walkerville and Ford Follow Example Set by Sandwich.

WINDSOR, May 12. - Refusal of Walkerville and Ford councils to appoint delegates to attend the joint meeting of representatives of the various border municipalities, scheduled to have been held in Walkerville town hall have been held in walkerville town nail tonight, has temporarily, at least, rendered amalgamation negotiations which were to have been opened impracticable. Sandwich Took Lead.

Sandwich Took Lead in opposing the move, and when Walkerville and Ford announced they would follow suit, the conference summoned by the Border Chamber of Commerce was called off.

Ford, Walkerville and Sandwich rord, walkerville and Sandwich councils voted unanimously against the plan, Windsor's high tax-rate proving the drawback. A move is now on foot the object of which is the joining together of Walkerville and Ford into one municipality.

Must Come Eventually.

Must come Eventually.

Stan will now be taken "Just what step will now be taken is not known." M. G. Campbell, president of the Chamber of Commerce, told The Advertiser tonight. "There is a strong sentiment in favor of amalgamation, and while it must come eventually, it is much nearer consummation than these councillors seem to think.
